Will Rogers Remarks:

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Certainly a great business opportunity showed up in the papers today, "No training, no conscience necessary, all you need is $600,000, but you get it back the first good day." Wall street is dividing the kitty with 275 more members. The 1100 they did have could take care of Mr. Sap, but when Mrs. Sap started playing they just had to go out and get more help to rake in the dough.

The farmers ought to go together and buy one seat; that would relieve the whole bunch.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

UNDERWOOD LIFE ENDS

Former Senator Dies at Home

Upper House Adjourns Out of Respect to Veteran Who Had Won Fame There

Democratic Leader Time and Again Had Been Factor in Presidential Choice

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25. (AP)—Oscar W. Underwood of Alabama, one of the notable political leaders of his time, died today at Woodlawn, his country home in near-by Virginia, where he had retired at the end of a public career which had seen his name repeatedly brought forward for the Presidential nomination of the Democratic party.

Death came at 11:15 o'clock this morning in the massive brick structure overlooking the Potomac River and the George Washington shrine at Mt. Vernon. The former Senator had been unconscious for two days and his death had been expected since yesterday. His family, however, had withheld notice of his condition until the last, hopeful that he would rally.

Even his former colleagues in the Senate and in the House, in both of which he had served as leader of his party, were unaware of the gravity of his illness. Announcement of his death was followed by immediate adjournment of the Senate out of respect to his memory and expressions of regret over his death flowed from Congress and government officials throughout the day.

Mr. Underwood died as a result

Lost Plane Seen From Sky

One of Three Occupants Near Craft But Others Gone; Food to be Dropped

SALT LAKE CITY, Jan. 25. (Exclusive)—Flying through Secret Pass for the first time, because of low-hanging clouds, since the search started yesterday afternoon, Pilot Harry Huking at dusk came over the fallen Boeing air-mail plane which was missing since it left Elko yesterday noon. Huking flew back to Elko and from there telephoned to headquarters here.

One man was standing by the plane and waved to him. Huking then circled the plane, dropping as low as conditions would permit, and determined, he said, that the cockpit and passenger cabin were empty. This discovery leads to the belief that the other two occupants of the plane had gone to a ranch about eight miles distant from the plane. The man at the plane, Huking said, was either A. P. Ames or F. L. Pflueger, the two passengers. The plane appeared wholly intact. As soon as the word reached here organization of rescue outfits was started from Elko and an attempt was made to get in touch with ranches. If the air is clear enough it is planned for planes to drop food and blankets to the marooned men. All searching pilots, seven of whom had been flying since yesterday afternoon on the search, were recalled tonight.

MAN ON GUARD SEEN MOVING AROUND

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 25. (AP)—Henry J. Hoey, traffic manager for Boeing Air Transport, Inc., tonight announced receipt of word by telephone from the Boeing office in Salt Lake City to the effect that the plane of Frank Barber, missing air-mail pilot, had been seen in Secret Pass, in the Ruby Mountains, near Elko, Nev., with a man standing beside it.

Hoey was informed the plane is standing upright and that the flyers who looked down on it saw the man on guard moving around, apparently uninjured.

The passengers of the plane are A. P. Ames of Camden, Me., and F. L. Pflueger of San Francisco.

Barber, whose home is in Oakland, left Elko at 11:51 a.m. yesterday and was last seen over Secret Pass at noon yesterday, Pacific time. He was due here at 3 p.m. yesterday.

BROTHER CONDUCTS HUNT FOR PFLUEGER

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 25. (AP)—The passengers on the Boeing air-transport plane reported missing between Elko, Nev., and Salt Lake City, Utah, today are A. P. Ames and T. L. Pflueger. Ames is a tourist, who made his reservation through a travel bureau here. Pflueger is a San Francisco architect en route East on business.

William Pflueger, brother of T. L. Pflueger, left this afternoon for Nevada to conduct a search for the missing plane.

Affected Area in King's Chest Fully Cleared

LONDON, Jan. 25. (AP)—King George's physicians announced in their medical bulletin today that the affected region in the King's chest has been completely cleared.

This assurance has caused a feeling of great satisfaction as it is interpreted to mean that His Majesty now is suffering only from weakness resulting from his prolonged illness, and that there is no longer any trouble from infection. With this infection removed the hope was expressed that his progress will continue steadily.

FOUR YOUNG COUSINS FOUND BRUTALLY SLAIN

ROMFORD (Essex, Eng.) Jan. 25. (AP)—The bodies of four children, cousins, between the ages of 2 and 6 years, were discovered with their throats cut in a shed near here today. The eldest boy and girl were children of Sidney Peroy Gray, a former member of the metropolitan police of London, and the other boy and girl were children of Gray's sister. The police are searching for Gray, who was last seen yesterday walking with the four children.

RAIN ROUTS NORTHERN COLD WAVE

Precipitation Reported as Far South as San Jose; Weather to Stay Unsettled

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 25. (Exclusive)—An oncoming area of low pressure, central yesterday over British Columbia and moving southeastward, smashed Northern California's cold wave today and brought rain as far south as San Jose. The forecast is for continued unsettled weather with moderate temperatures.

Del Monte, Hetch Hetchy and Summit were the only subfreezing points on the 5 p.m report. At Summit the minimum was 21 deg. and the snow depth forty-one inches, or two inches less than yesterday.

Rainfall in inches reported by northern stations to 5 p.m. follows:

Eureka	.22	18.72	14.01
Red Bluff	T.	10.00	12.35

Two Car Racers in No. 13 Killed

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 25. (Exclusive)—Tragedy marked the first stage of the Argentine Grand National Automobile Race, when P. Giannini, the veteran 58-year-old driver and his mechanic, Dino Papini, were killed instantly when their machine turned three somersaults and jumped a wire fence while taking a curve on the road from Buenos Aires to Rosario.

Giannini, who previously had announced this would be his last race, drew number 13 in the list of starters.

BYRD PLANE HAS AIR CHAT

World Record Set When Craft Exchanges Messages With Two Stations in America

[Copyright, 1929, by the New York Times.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 25. (Exclusive)—A world's record in radio and aviation was established early this morning when Commander Richard E. Byrd's plane, the Stars and Stripes, in flight 3000 feet above the icy wastes that surround the Bay of Whales in the Antarctic, conducted two-way communication direct with the New York Times radio station in Times Square. The distance between the plane and the receiver was 10,000 miles. It was the first time that an airplane in flight had sent and received messages over such a long distance.

It was 10:30 p.m. in New York when Operator Carl O. Peterson of the steamer City of New York, base ship of the expedition, called the New York Times on the thirty-four-meter wave length. He said Malcolm P. Hanson, radio chief of the expedition, would make a test flight in the plane Stars and Stripes at about 3:15 a.m., eastern standard time, which is 8:15 p.m. at the Bay of Whales, in the land that Byrd has named Little America.

DIAL SET

"Listen in and try to hear the plane," said the flash from the Far South. So, while the ether in the north temperate zone was comparatively quiet with most of the broadcasters and amateurs fast asleep, Reginald Iverson, radio engineer at the Times station, saw that everything at his receiver was in shape to establish a record. He turned the dial to the thirty-four meter channel and at 3:15 a.m. sharp, the operator in the south polar region kept his rendezvous with the metropolis of the world.

"The plane is now leaving the ice," was the warning for New York to tune carefully, because just a slight turn of the dial over the breadth of a hair would cause New York to miss the plane.

"Listen for WFO." That is the call of the Stars and Stripes. Iverson shifted his dial slightly around the thirty-four mark. He picked up a signal. It was the characteristic 240-cycle note of the airplane flying over the Antarctic. He eves-dropped as Hanson, an old-timer in wireless, adjusted and tested his transmitter until the electrical meters revealed that it was operating to perfection. Then he called

BULLS ON WILD RAMPAGE

New Record High Level of Year on Stock Exchange Reached by Fifty Industrials

NEW YORK, Jan. 25. (AP)—The bull party today went on such a rampage as the New York Stock Exchange had not seen since last year. It was in celebration of the return of the New York Federal Reserve Bank's reserve ratio approximately to the level of a year ago.

The Associated Press price index of fifty industrials was boosted five points to a record high level at 216.7 and the index of twenty industrials 3.7 per cent to a record level at 210.7.

The railroads, however, failed to participate in the upturn, the index of twenty of this group sagging a fraction. Total sales amounted to 5,506,800 shares, very near the total of 5,532,200 of the 4th inst., the largest turnover of 1929 to date.

ACTUAL INCREASE LESS

The tendency was to disregard the new high total of brokerage loans, announced after the close of the previous session, as that had been anticipated and the actual increase of $48,000,000 was considerably less than had been expected.

The jump in the New York Federal Reserve Bank's reserve ratio from 70.8 per cent to 80 per cent in the past week completely overshadowed the brokerage loan increase in the minds of the bullish-ly inclined, as this brought the ratio within less than a point of the ratio a year ago, when the total of loans was about $1,600,000,000 below the new high total of $5,443,000,000.

RECORD PRICES REACHED

More than two dozen issues were bid up to record prices. Johns Manville, Underwood, Elliott Fisher, General Electric and Du Pont (old stock,) made extreme gains of $16 to $18. There was a tendency to take profits, at the higher levels and several of the star performers closed $3 to $5 under their best levels of the day.

United States Steel again was brought forward as a market leader, mounting $9 a share to a new record price at $192.75. As it fell back

WAR DEBT REOPENING PROPOSED

'Guardian' Says Reparation Loan Will Make Germany American Financial Colony

(Copyright, 1929, by N. Y. Herald-Tribune)

LONDON, Jan. 25. (Exclusive)—A demand that the coming reparations conference in Paris should reopen the question of the war debts due the United States was voiced today by the Manchester Guardian.

Warning that "If the German government is to float a loan sufficiently large to finance payments on the scale demanded by the war victors Germany will become almost a financial colony of America," this foremost British liberal paper asserts that such a state of affairs would be contrary to the general interest of Europe, but that "it can only be avoided by reopening the whole question of interallied indebtedness."

Regretting that considerations of prestige prevent Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin from reopening the question of "The thoroughly unsatisfactory arrangement that governs our debt to America," the "Guardian" nevertheless argues that unless the experts are allowed to consider both war debts and reparations they will not succeed in finding a complete and final settlement of the reparations problem.

If the war debts are barred from the Paris agenda, the Guardian sees the conference foredoomed to failure because "France will not abandon her claim to have her external debt paid by Germany, while Great Britain is not in the mood for further sacrifices."

New York Gets Italian Craft's SOS Radio Call

NEW YORK, Jan. 25. (AP)—The Radio Marine Corporation tonight intercepted an SOS from the Italian steamship Capo Vado, which gave her position as longitude 31.23 north, latitude 40.46 west.

The Capo Vado, of 2713 net tons, was en route from Catania, Sicily, to Baltimore. She is owned by the Genoese Steamship Navigation Company of Genoa.

The position given by the Capo Vado is about 600 miles southwest of the Azores and 750 due east of Bermuda.

KEYES DEFENSE NEAR END AS FAMILY TAKES STAND

Wife and Daughters Tell Story of Home, and Chaise Lounge Deals; Case Goes to Jury Next Week

Defense of former Dist.-Atty. Asa Keyes, charged jointly with two others with conspiring to give and receive bribes, practically was completed in Superior Judge Butler's court yesterday after Keyes's wife and two daughters had testified in his behalf.

The other two defendants—Ben Getsoff, Spring-street tailor and asserted "pay-off" man in the conspiracy, and E. H. (Ed) Rosenberg, prominent figure in the Julian cases, on which the present charges are based—prepared to begin their defense Monday. It is estimated testimony in their behalf will consume two days, with the case going to the jury probably late next week.

The testimony of Mrs. Keyes and her daughters consumed only a small part of yesterday's court day and the remainder of the time was given over to reading into the records of the present trial the testimony given before the 1926 grand jury, which returned the Julian case indictments, by Ed Rosenberg.

This testimony, which consists of 300 pages of transcript, the defense contends, shows that then Dist.-Atty. Keyes had ample reason for asking that the charges against Rosenberg in the Julian case be dismissed that he might use him as a witness against the other defendants. A State's witness declared that Rosenberg said that he paid $125,000 to have Keyes dismiss the charges.

READING STARTS

Defense Counsel William Beirne began reading the Rosenberg transcript to the jury yesterday morning and still was at the task when court adjourned last night. A court session will be held again this morning in order to let him finish.

The 300 pages of transcript contain what Rosenberg said was the story of his connection with the Julian stock overissue fiasco. Briefly, Rosenberg represented himself in the testimony as an agent retained by S. C. Lewis, former president of the Julian Petroleum Corporation, and Jacob Berman, alias Jack Bennett, Lewis's right-hand man. Rosenberg's activities, according to the transcript, consisted of borrowing money that was invested in Julian stock. Rosenberg got a commission ranging from 10 per cent per month down on such money, spent much of his time in Berman's office and millions of dollars passed through his hands.

In the end, he told the grand jury, he suffered a loss of approximately $500,000 when the Julian crash came and Berman fled, and he was left with nearly 100,000 shares of spurious stock. He denied that he knew that anyone in the Julian organization was overissuing stock.

WIFE ON STAND

Mrs. Lillian Keyes, wife of the accused former District Attorney, and her two daughters, Elizabeth and Annis, were the first witnesses called by the defense when court convened. Although their scheduled appearance drew a crowd to the courtroom, their testimony was given quickly and drew practically no cross-examination from the prosecution.

Mrs. Keyes was called to the stand first. In response to questioning by Attorney Jud Rush, she declared that the Keyes family had made its home at 305 East Avenue 31 for more than a score of years prior to its recent removal to Beverly Hills.

She said she met Ben Getzoff the summer of 1925 and that one evening of that year he expressed wonder that "people in our position lived in East Los Angeles," and later declared that he had some lots in the Hancock Park neighborhood that he would let them have and help finance the building of a home. Mrs. Keyes stated that she and Mr. Keyes and later she and Annis visited the lots.

HUSBAND BACKED

The testimony was largely in corroboration of statements made from the witness stand previously by Keyes himself, when he took the stand in his own defense. Mrs. Keyes also verified her husband's testimony that she asked him to get her a chaise longue for a Christmas present in November, 1927, and his asserted subsequent attempts to procure such a lounge from Getzoff's brother in Chicago, and recalled the final delivery of a lounge that

CRUISERS IN NEW CRISIS

Coolidge Frowns on Time Limit

Budget Considerations Given as Cause of Opposition to Senate Bill

Bingham Injects New Issue With Plans for Changing Construction Method

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25. (AP)—A heated controversy in the Senate over striking from the pending cruiser construction bill of a clause to require a start on the program within two years was indicated today when it became known that President Coolidge still is insistent upon its elimination.

It became known late today that the President holds to the opinion that the time clause should be eliminated because of budget considerations and not because he objects to immediate building of the cruisers. He believes it impossible for the budget experts to see in advance what the conditions of the Treasury will be in any given year.

Further it was ascertained that Mr. Coolidge sees little practicable good in the amendment of Senator Borah of Idaho, accepted to the bill yesterday, proposing an international conference for the codification of maritime law. Theoretically, the President thinks the proposal splendid and he has given the subject considerable thought, conferring with the State Department upon it. Practically, however, he believes the plan not feasible and doubts the probability of obtaining ratification by the Senate of any treaties resulting from such a conference.

HALE WILL FIGHT

The President's views on the time clause were turned down by the House a year ago in its consideration of the naval bill and the clause requiring that the fifteen cruisers and airplane carrier be started before July 1, 1931, was retained.

Chairman Hale of the Senate Naval Committee, in charge of the cruiser bill, gave notice in the Senate today that he would fight the Coolidge proposal to the end.

However, Senator Borah of Idaho rallied the opponents of the legislation behind him in his speech yesterday in which he announced he would not fight the bill if the time clause were eliminated.

With the Senate in recess today, on account of the death of Oscar W. Underwood, former Senator from Alabama, conferences were in order and tonight the dispute over the bill apparently centered on the time clause.

TIME CLAUSE IRKS

Opinions were expressed in some quarters that if the time provision were eliminated, leaving to the discretion of the President the time for building the ships, opposition to the measure would collapse.

Senator Hale and other supporters of the measure, however, are insistent upon the retention of the time provision, declaring its re-

ZERO BLASTS BATTER EAST

Six Die as Swirling Snowstorms, Sleet and Rains Sweep Country from Rockies to Atlantic

CHICAGO, Jan. 25. (AP)—Winter was monarch of the country today from the Rocky Mountains to the Atlantic Seaboard.

His domain was swept by swirling snowstorms, gnawing gales, sleet and rain as subzero temperatures settled over a large part of the territory with the usual supplement of accidents, injuries and deaths.

The Mississippi River and tributaries rose toward the flood stage with the continued precipitation and warnings were sent out to inhabitants of the lowlands, although it is hoped a severe freeze will prevent further rise.

A rural mail carrier, his horse and wagon, were swept by high winds from the highway near Morris, Ill., and at Gary, Ind., another was killed when his truck was hit by a train, while in Utah an engine and two cars of an Oregon Short Line passenger train were buried under a fifteen-foot snowslide. No one was injured on the train.

A treacherous sheet of ice covers the Midwest States in the wake of a precipitous drop of the mercury from nonfreezing to a probable low of 5 deg below zero. Chicago had two deaths. A man was found frozen in an alley snow-bank, and a woman died of injuries received in a fall on an icy pavement. A passenger in a stalled motor bus on a snow-banked highway near Evanston, Wyo., is reported to have died of cold.

General relief is predicted for tomorrow in most of the Great Lakes region.

There is snow in Texas and Wisconsin while Upper Michigan reports the worst blockade of the season with deep drifts delaying trains and motor traffic.

NEW FRIGID WAVE DUE IN EAST TODAY

NEW YORK, Jan. 25. (AP)—Winter laid an icy hand over the eastern half of the country today.

Snow and sleet, freezing rain or fog settled over almost every State east of the Mississippi River preliminary to the predicted arrival

DEATH COMES TO UNDERWOOD

Veteran Senator Expires at Home in Virginia

Much Fame Had Been Won During Career

of a cerebral hemorrhage suffered early in December. Two weeks later he had a stroke of paralysis from which he rallied for a time, giving rise to a belief that he might recover. Several days ago, however, his condition became worse and he lapsed into a state of unconsciousness from which he was unable to rouse himself.

ABLE LEADER

Concededly one of the ablest men of his party, his name was brought forward repeatedly for the Democratic Presidential nomination, but geographical boundaries were regarded as barring the way, despite the fact that he received much of his support from the North and East. Although born in Kentucky and reared in the Northwest, he was wholly associated with the South since all his public service was as a Representative and Senator from Alabama.

His career was marked by little sensationalism but his long public life nevertheless was not wholly without its dramatic moments. He was the first of the young Democrats to break lances with William Jennings Bryan when the Commoner still was a commanding force in the councils of the party. Their differences arose over the Underwood tariff, and the stand taken by Mr. Underwood required a courage which again was demonstrated a few years later when in the then prohibition South he met and vanquished for the Senate Richmond Pearson Hobson, a leader of the dry cause and national hero of Merrimac fame.

KLAN DENOUNCED

The Senator's friends declared it was this same courage that led him publicly to denounce the Ku Klux Klan in 1924, when he was seeking the Presidential nomination.

A desire to serve his country wherever possible led Senator Underwood to accept membership on the American commission to the Washington Arms Conference. This service, taken from the hands of a Republican President while all of the bitterness of the interparty fight over the League of Nations still rankled, undoubtedly cost him the Democratic leadership in the Senate, a leadership he was not loath to surrender since his party had lost control of Congress.

First elected to the House of Representatives from the Birmingham district of Alabama in 1894, Mr. Underwood assumed leadership of the Democrats there when they took control of the House in 1911 and on the record he made within a year his friends advanced him for the Presidential nomination at Baltimore. Mustering nearly 100 votes, he remained in the fight until the forty-sixth ballot when his name was withdrawn without either his knowledge or consent and his strength thrown to Woodrow Wilson.

He continued his service in the House and through his parliamentary skill and tact of leadership he contributed very materially toward making Wilson's first four years of administration a period of far-reaching legislation. At the same time he brought country-wide recognition to himself as the author of a tariff bill.

LEADER IN SENATE

After twenty years in the House, he moved over to the Senate. With the death of Senator Thomas Martin of Virginia, he was chosen Democratic leader, a place he held until 1921.

Re-elected to the Senate in 1920, he announced just before the expiration of his second six years' term that he would not be a candidate to succeed himself in 1926. Meantime, he had purchased Woodlawn on the Potomac River, a part of the original Washington estate at Mt. Vernon, and there he made his home part of each year.

Entering Congress in the days of iron rule of Republican speakers, Underwood had a part in breaking the power of "Uncle Joe" Cannon and later in liberalizing the rules of the House. By his industry and energy he had gained a place on the Judiciary Committee and later served on the Ways and Means and Appropriations committees, two of the most powerful in the House.

Leadership in the House of Representatives as it is known today began with the selection of Underwood by the Democrats for the place in 1911.

TARIFF ACT WRITTEN

Commanding an almost unwieldy majority, Underwood found himself faced with a difficult task. His first concern was the writing of a new tariff act, a subject to which he had devoted years of study. He wrote a measure which he declared was "true to the principles of Democracy."

President Taft vetoed that bill in the late summer of 1911 and when the Democrats were returned to full control of all functions of the government in 1913, the bill was rewritten and signed by President Wilson.

Under the Underwood leadership were enacted also the Federal Reserve Act, the Farm Loan Act and the Clayton Antitrust Act.

Despite the tremendous drive that was made against the Federal Reserve Act, Underwood kept his forces solidly in line on that issue, a feat which up to that time had been almost without precedent.

His service in the Senate was little less conspicuous. He had early appointment to the Appropriations Committee and had charge of many of the war appropriation bills. Tax legislation also felt the influence of his guiding hand.

Immediately following the war the Democrats lost control of Congress and Senator Underwood's opportunity for the directing of constructive work came to an end. Always fair even to the bitterest of his political opponents, his friends declared that he had a natural distaste for holding continuously a critical attitude toward all the works and ways of the opposing party, which is an essential part of minority leadership.

This was one of the reasons why he did not offer for re-election as minority leader in 1922.

LEAGUE ISSUE

The Alabama Senator consistently opposed reservations to the Treaty of Versailles and just before the final vote by which the treaty was rejected he proposed that the issue be left to the voters in 1920. Senator Harding accepted that challenge and the League became one of the chief issues in the campaign in which Harding was sent to the White House.

As a member of the Arms Conference, Senator Underwood sat on the Committee on Far Eastern Affairs and his assistance proved of enormous value in the working out of the Chinese customs question.

Naturally, he found himself in disagreement with most of his Senate colleagues on the Democratic side when the treaties came up for ratification.

He was a leader in the fight against the Fordney-McCumber Tariff Act, which in 1922 supplanted the law bearing his own name. He was prominent also in the opposition to the soldiers' bonus and conducted a long fight for the leasing of Muscle Shoals.

While he had refrained from seeking the Presidential nomination in 1920, the Alabama Senator was one of those early in the field in 1924.

HISTORIC FIGHT

The Ku Klux Klan, which had come to be a political issue in the country, early drew fire from the Senator. When his name was placed in nomination in Madison Square Garden, where Gov. Brandon's strident "Alabama casts twenty-four votes for Underwood" became historic, there was an anti-Klan demonstration lasting for more than an hour.

Although remaining in the running until the convention, tiring of the Smith-McAdoo row, turned to John W. Davis, Senator Underwood never became a real factor.

Mr. Underwood would have been 67 years of age in May. He leaves a widow, Mrs. Bertha Woodward Underwood of Birmingham, and two sons, John Lewis and Oscar W. Underwood, Jr. Mrs. Underwood and the sons were with him when he died. Fred W. Underwood, a brother, also was with him while another brother, Col. Sidney S. Underwood, was en route from the South.

Burial will take place in Birmingham Monday.

COOLIDGE SENDS LETTER OF SYMPATHY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25. (AP)—President Coolidge today addressed a letter of sympathy to Mrs. Oscar W. Underwood, on the death of her husband, former Senator Underwood of Alabama.

"It is with great regret," the President wrote, "that I have heard of the passing of your distinguished husband, the Honorable Oscar W. Underwood. I came in contact with him when I became Vice-President and learned to have the highest regard for his ability and character. I knew from reports of his long service in the House of Representatives, where he rose to a position of great influence. It has always been my privilege of regarding him as my friend. The character of his public service made all the country under obligation to him and his personality was such as endeared him to all who came in contact with him.

"Mrs. Coolidge joins me in expressing deepest sympathy for you and the other members of his family."

More than 230,000 shares changed hands and the stock touched a new record price at $118.87½, a gain of about $9. Consolidated Gas was the strong point of the utilities, mounting $6.50 to $117.

LAST CALL COMES FOR STATESMAN

Other Defendants Prepare to Offer Testimony

Keyes's testimony was to the effect that he believed that the furniture had been sent from Chicago, although Getzoff refused payment for it, and Mrs. Keyes's testimony tended to substantiate her husband's version. The woman witness also recalled Getzoff saying that he had a son-in-law in the lamp-shade business and that he would see that they got some shades as a gift. These shades, the State asserts, also were paid for with Berman's money.

GIRL TELLS OF CAR

When Mrs. Keyes concluded her direct testimony Dist.-Atty. Fitts stated briefly that there would be no cross-examination. Elizabeth Keyes then took the stand, gave her age as 23 years, and almost immediately plunged into an explanation of a present that Getzoff gave her in the shape of a Chevrolet automobile.

Keyes's daughter declared that the tailor had asked her what kind of a car she was driving as far back as 1925, and that she told him she was using her sister's small machine, and that he declared that she should have a new car. On March 20, 1928, she testified, the Chevrolet was delivered unexpectedly and that she "had no idea it was coming."

When Jacob Berman was on the stand as a State's witness he testified that Getzoff had demanded that he produce the money for the automobile and had listened while Getzoff called up a person he believed to be Miss Keyes and tell her that the machine would be purchased. Automobile men subsequently took the stand and described how Getzoff purchased the car with a "$1000 bill from a roll" he took from his "pants pocket." The automobile men also recited that Getzoff refused to sign an order blank for the car.

Dist.-Atty. Fitts also dismissed Elizabeth Keyes without cross-examination.

ANOTHER DAUGHTER

Annis Keyes was the last member of the family on the witness stand. She gave her age as a year older than that of her sister and testified that she looked at Getzoff's lots and other places for sale with her mother, after they decided, several years ago, that they should move from their old home. She remembered Ben Getzoff visiting the place frequently.

Attorney Rush asked her if Getzoff ever had advised her to buy a certain bank stock, if she did, and if such stock subsequently did not go down in price, but she was not allowed to answer the questions, the objections of prosecution that the subject was immaterial being sustained by Judge Butler.

On cross-examination, Dist.-Atty. Fitts asked her if the Keyes family lived at their old address until they moved to their new home in Beverly Hills a few months ago, and on receiving an affirmative reply declared that he had no further questions to ask.

REALTY MAN CALLED

C. W. White, a real-estate man doing business at 2418 North Broadway, then was called by the defense for the apparent reason of establishing that Mrs. Keyes had listed the old Keyes residence for sale as far back as 1926, but objections that the testimony tended to prove no issue in the present case were sustained by the court and White retired from the stand.

After these four witnesses had testified, Attorney Rush informed the court that Keyes's defense had been completed but for the testimony of two witnesses that would not be available until today. None of the other defendants being prepared to present their defense at the moment, it was decided that the reading of 300 pages of the testimony of Ed Rosenberg from the records of the Julian case should be begun.

FITTS FACES PROBLEM IN AIDE WAGES

Paying Stewart and Clark for Work Before He Took Office Offers Puzzle

Dist.-Atty. Fitts yesterday faced the problem of how to pay salaries of Robert Stewart, chief deputy District Attorney, and William Clark, special prosecutor in the Keyes bribery trial, for the time they spent in county work between November 17 and December 6, 1928, when Fitts took office. Approximately $900 is involved.

No difficulty has been experienced in obtaining pay for the two men since Fitts took office as District Attorney, according to Wayne Jordan, assistant chief deputy District Attorney, for Stewart has been duly appointed as chief deputy and Clark appointed by the State as special prosecutor.

But State officials decline to pay the salaries of either man for the time they spent between the time the Keyes indictments were returned and the date Fitts became District Attorney. And yesterday County Counsel Mattoon returned an opinion that Los Angeles county cannot legally pay the salaries.

According to Jordan, Stewart and Clark probably will be forced to sue county officials in Civil Court to settle the dispute legally.

REWARD OFFERED FOR SLAYER

BARBERS FACE S.H.S. DEGREE

Shave-Haircut-Shampoo Title May Have to Add Ph.D. by Nebraska Plan

LINCOLN (Neb.) Jan. 25. (AP) The one about being a "college" graduate (barber college) would be gently eradicated from the list of the world's worst jokes under a bill before the Nebraska State Senate.

Instructors in shave-haircut-shampoo would be required, under the bill, to possess degrees of master of arts, doctor of philosophy or something equally as intelligent. Aspirants for careers in the barbering business would be compelled to show high-school diplomas before embarking on the science of shaving.

TALK FILM INJUNCTION DEMANDED

Exhibitor Group's Leader Seeks Federal Inquiry on Methods of Leasing

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25. (AP)—Abram F. Myers, head of the Allied States Exhibitors' Association, has asked the Department of Justice to institute injunction proceedings to break up what he asserts are unfair practices in the exhibition of talking motion pictures.

Myers, a former assistant Attorney-General and until recently chairman of the Federal Trade Commission, urged that the government restrain producers of the talking film equipment from entering into agreements with picture producers under which the films can not be leased for reproduction on machines not approved by the equipment manufacturers.

The Department of Justice declined to comment on Myers's request or to divulge the names of the concerns against which he complained.

tomorrow of a widespread frigid wave.

In the East at least two deaths were laid to the weather. Besides there was serious disruption of traffic.

An iron worker here was killed when he slipped from an ice-covered girder on the ninth floor of a building under construction.

TWENTY-TWO RESCUED IN BLIZZARD

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 25. (AP)—Winter's icy grip on the Rocky Mountain region and the Southwest relaxed slightly tonight, but as the mercury began a slow ascent from the lowest depths of the year unsettled weather brought forecasts of more snow for sections already heavily blanketed.

The storm has blocked many highways, trains are running late due to snow and the intense cold, and several reports are received of the narrow escapes of motorists caught in mountain blizzards.

The cold wave generally is moderating east and west of the continental divide, but in Montana and Wyoming subzero temperatures still prevail. In Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and West Texas slightly warmer weather is promised, but frost is expected to extend to the Gulf in East Texas tonight.

Marooned for thirty-six hours in a terrific blizzard that swept the Red Desert, twenty-two persons traveling in passenger cars and motor busses were rescued and taken to Rock Springs, Wyo., some of them suffering intensely from exposure and hunger.

Cowboys found the cars stalled in the snow and with great difficulty hauled the stranded travelers in sleighs to the railroad station at Table Rock from which they were taken to Rock Springs.

The temperature on the desert was 30 deg. below zero. Three women, two of them expectant mothers, and two children were among those rescued.

Highways were blocked in the vicinity of Salt Lake City and Bingham, a near-by mining town, was isolated. Seven inches of snow fell at Boise, Idaho, in twenty-four hours.

WISCONSIN FACES WORST TIE-UP IN YEARS

MILWAUKEE (Wis.) Jan. 25. (Exclusive) — Wisconsin tonight is facing the worst traffic tie-up in years as the mercury began to descend below the zero mark. The fifth wave of severe weather is being experienced for the season.

Scores of cities throughout the State report transportation facilities handicapped by drifting snow driven before a stiff wind. Highways just opend up after concerted efforts with all available snow removal equipment were blocked again in an hour's time.

Steam roads report many trains hopelessly stalled and those able to get through with the aid of rotary plows and extra engines are running hours behind time. Bus and interurban train service has in most cases been abandoned. Rural schools have been closed because teachers and pupils are unable to wade through the deep drifts.

BILLS PERILED BY ALIEN BLOC

Outlook Gloomy for Passing Deportation Measures

Modified Proposals May be Carried as Riders

Compromise Plan Offered by Representative Johnson

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25. (Exclusive)—That effective deportation and other legislation unfavorably affecting aliens has little chance of passage before this Congress expires on March 4 became apparent today.

This situation is the result of the influence of the 14,000,000 foreigners and foreign-born citizens of the United States. Legislation backed by the alien bloc probably will be passed. Legislation opposed by the alien bloc is doomed, although its authors hope to get some of it through in a modified form by hooking it to bills promoted by the alien bloc.

Admitting that there is no chance of the passage of the comprehensive deportation bill, which has been pending on the House calendar for a year, Representative Johnson, Republican, of Washington, chairman of the House Committee on Immigration, appeared before the Rules Committee today seeking a special rule for consideration of an emasculated deportation bill, the enactment of which he said would be better than none at all.

MEASURE LIMITED

While this measure, which was introduced by Mr. Johnson yesterday, confers vast powers on the Secretary of Labor to deport undesirable aliens, it is limited to a few classes of alien offenders and confessedly is inapplicable to the gangs of alien gunmen which are terrorizing Chicago and other large cities.

The Johnson bill would enable the Secretary of Labor to deport alien violators of the Mann white-slave traffic and Harrison antinarcotic acts, aliens who harbor aliens liable to deportation, aliens who surreptitiously or fraudulently gain entry into the United States, and aliens who aid the unlawful entry of other aliens. Such aliens would not be tried in the courts but would be turned over to the immigration service for trial. If the Secretary of Labor should find the accused alien guilty he would pronounce him undesirable and deport him.

The bill further provides that aliens, known as repeaters, who regain entry after deportation, are guilty of a felony punishable by a fine of not more than $1000 or imprisonment for not more than two years, or both, and eventual deportation.

IMPRISONMENT LIKELY

In addition to deportation an alien who enters surreptitiously or fraudulently is liable to imprisonment for not more than one year or a fine of not more than $1000, or both.

Representative Michener, Republican, of Michigan, thinks the bill too severe with reference to deportation of the Canadians who have crossed the border illegally, and too weak because of the omission of alien bootleggers and other aliens offenses against the prohibition law from the undesirable alien class.

"The fact is," he said, "addressing Johnson, "you can't get a bill out of your committee that would deport bootleggers."

Johnson denied the charge but admitted that the bill was framed in a manner to avoid raising the cry of too firm treatment of aliens.

"A Detroit alien who takes a woman to Toledo," Mr. Michener retorted, "can under this bill be deported for violating the White Slave Act, but an alien rum runner armed to the teeth can drive his truckload of booze, running over men, women and children and go scot free."

GUNMEN NOT AFFECTED

"Yes, and a Chicago gunman can shoot up the town and create a reign of terror and never be subject to deportation under this bill," added Representative Purnell, Republican, of Indiana.

Mr. Johnson asked a special rule for the Schneider bill legalizing the presence of aliens who came in illegally before June 3, 1921, and the Blease bill passed by the Senate authorizing the Secretary of Labor to issue certificates of arrivals to aliens coming in before August 1, 1928, when the immigration service began giving such certificates to immigrants. Both these measures are ardently desired by aliens. The Rules Committee reserved action until after next Monday when the Immigration Committee will decide what bills, if any, to favor for immediate passage.

The Senate Immigration Committee will decide on Tuesday whether to recommend repeal of the national origins immigration-restriction provision or postponement of its operation. The provision is scheduled to go into effect July 1, next, by proclamation of the President on April 1. President-elect Hoover has advocated its repeal.

'Plot' Plaintiff Held as Robber

DETROIT, Jan. 25. (AP)—Ralph A. Wood, whose estranged wife was arrested two weeks ago following an asserted plot to have him killed, was taken into custody today as a suspected bank robber.

Arrested with him was Cecil C. Holt, who acted as informer in the murder conspiracy and caused accusations against Mrs. Wood. The two men are charged with participating in the hold-up of the Sturgis (Mich.) National Bank, December 17, last. Five men took part in the robbery and escaped with $15,000 in cash and negotiable securities, said to amount to $60,000.

Police declared that witnesses have identified Wood and Holt as two of the robbers.

FLOUNCES FEATURE FROCKS

Paris Designers Present Style Collection for Spring and Summer Wear

[Copyright, 1929, by the New York Times.]

PARIS, Jan. 25. (Exclusive)—Flying draperies on esthetic dancers flutter subdued and lengthened across the fashion stage as Paris presents the first of the style collections for spring and summer. This "mold and flare" silhouette is developed with a straight loosely belted waist falling to a low hipline, where streaming fullness is introduced. The methods of obtaining this fullness distinguish the new models from those of winter.

Chiffons in flowered pastel shades or darkly colorful early English designs have flying godets and pointed panels. The newer models have deep flounces or double tiers attached midway between the hip and on knees.

Harlequin costumes abound. Groult presents an evening ensemble with a skirt made of alternately wide strips of pink and black satin.

A wrap of pink metal moire follows the new evening wrap silhouette with a narrow-fitted flare hugging the body half way to the knees where three drooping circular tiers burst into a piquant flare. The middle tier is of black moire, a high collar is black fox. The beiges have ousted the navy blue and darker street ensembles with printed facings and matching the frock. White is the most popular for sport, which Champ Comunal combines with vivid little unlined jackets of a new uncrushable silk voile. All plain pale shades are good for sport. Rouff uses a French gray. Yteb favors copper and topaz shades. White pique is featured in sport frocks and popular lingerie collar and cuffs by the London trades. Gussah in white and natural appears in all sports collections.

NEVADA INVITES PARLEY ON DAM

tude, was declared by Mr. Heard to be "eminently fair."

Today's activity in Boulder dam affairs was held to a brief session of the Utah Water Storage Commission open to outsiders. Messrs. Heard and Murphy spoke but only repeated what they have been saying all week.

REST ON OARS

Utah legislators rested on their oars today, recessing and making a trip to Ogden where they inspected State institutions. So far no report has come of Boulder dam issues arising on this visit.

Sentiment was manifest today showing an abatement of enthusiasm over the proposed tri-State pact conference, due largely to the fact that there was too much dissembling as to where the conference could and should meet. Utahans think the three States should waste no time over the amenities, but should accept the chance to get into action on that pressing phase of the situation.

PLANS ABANDONED ON SEVEN-STATE PARLEY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25. (Exclusive)—The reclamation service has abandoned for the time being its efforts to bring about a conference of the seven Colorado River States for the purpose of discussing a comprehensive long-time plan for utilization of the waters of the river in connection with the Boulder dam project.

This was made known today by Dr. Elwood Mead, chief of the service, who said his letter to the seven Governors two weeks ago suggesting such a conference at Denver had not met with sufficient favorable response to permit the plan being carried forward at this time.

YOUNG APPROVES

He said he had heard to date from five State executives, and three of them, including Gov. Young of California, approved the conference proposal. The Governor of New Mexico, according to Dr. Mead, wanted more time to confer with his river commissioner, while the Governor of Colorado is ill and not in a position to consider the matter immediately. Utah and Arizona are the States which have not replied and there is little expectation either will be heard from favorably until the controversy between them over ratification of the Colorado River compact has been settled.

Dr. Mead suggested the conference under the section of the Swing-Johnson Act authorizing $250,000 to finance an exhaustive study of the Colorado Basin for the purpose of working out the best plan for using the water of the river in future irrigation and reclamation development. A heavy demand for such development already has set in. He declared, however, that "there is nothing urgent about a conference at this time," as the same results can be obtained by a meeting at a later stage in the Boulder dam project.

WAIT ON MEXICO

Questioned regarding the Mexican phase Dr. Mead said no overtures toward an agreement on the division of water with Mexico had been made by his bureau and although informal discussion of the question may have taken place at the State Department he did not believe that department intended making any move in the near future. The reclamation bureau, he said, is waiting for the Mexican water commission to get ready to function again, pointing out that one member was confined by sickness and another had been drafted into the Portes Gil Cabinet.

This view does not coincide with apparently authentic reports emanating from State Department circles to the effect officials in charge of Mexican diplomacy have given considerable thought to the necessity of reaching an agreement with Mexico on water division prior to the start of Boulder dam construction and that Mr. Morrow upon his return to Mexico City would be prepared to deal with the question.

ARIZONA SPEAKER FAVORS HUGE RIVER FUND

PHOENIX, Jan. 25. (AP)—Declaring that the Ninth Legislature will appropriate $1,000,000, if necessary, to protect the interests of Arizona in the Colorado River, Speaker Hannon of the House late this afternoon led a movement to create a new river commission without appropriating funds for its use until approximately $17,000 remaining in the old fund is used.

Hannon offered his motion as an amendment to the Favour bill which would create a new commission and appropriate $100,000. When a vote was called on the amendment it was passed by a vote of 26 to 23.

Commenting on dispatches from Salt Lake City, Gov. Phillips tonight denied that he had told Gov. Dern of Utah in a telephone conversation that he believed Utah unfriendly to Arizona's interests in the Colorado River. On the other hand, Gov. Phillips said, he thinks Utah is very friendly to Arizona.

The Governor also denied that Gov. Dern had told him that there is a belief in Utah that Arizona is stalling, as reported in advices from the Utah capital.

CRUISER BILL FIGHT IMPENDS

In this connection it is known that Mr. Coolidge would have no objection to spending a considerable amount on cruisers at once if funds were plentiful.

If the time clause is eliminated, Senate leaders believe the opposition to the cruiser bill will vanish and that a vote on passage will be reached, probably early next week. There were no predictions tonight, however, on the outcome of the time provision contest, both sides expressing confidence.

NEW ISSUE UP

Senator Bingham, Republican, Connecticut, injected a new issue into the controversy today when he revived the question of advisability of building some of the ships in the government navy yards. He proposed an amendment to the House provision which requires construction of eight of the cruisers in government yards, to leave instead the selection of contractors to the discretion of the Secretary of the Navy.

In a statement explaining his amendment Senator Bingham declared it would provide that the ships "shall be built in navy yards whenever such building will not involve an appreciable increase in their cost."

"This has been our recent practice," he said, "and has worked to the benefit of the taxpayer and the private builder. It has kept the private contractor from charging exhorbitant amounts and has at the same time given the navy yards enough to keep them busy.

"The language which it is proposed to strike out would require the building of the eight cruisers in government yards without regard to their higher cost or to the needs or facilities of the navy yards."

This proposal is expected to lead to considerable debate and because of it there were some misgivings tonight that the final vote on the bill is as near as had been expected.

ITALY DECIDES TO BUILD CRUISERS

ROME, Jan. 25. (AP)—The Council of Ministers with Premier Mussolini presiding, today decided on a program for laying down two cruisers of 10,000 tons each, two light scouting cruisers of 5000 tons each and five submarines. Building is to begin in June.

The Council session largely was devoted to naval affairs. Besides the regular members, there were present Admiral Sirianni, Undersecretary of the Navy; Admiral Marquis Thaon Di Krevel, and Admirals Acton and Burzagli. The discussion which brought the decision for the new construction lasted from 10 o'clock this morning until 3 o'clock this afternoon.

The Council also decided that the light scouting cruisers shall have a corresponding armament of the condottiere type. Italy already is building four vessels in that category.

Myers Favored as Postmaster

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25. (Exclusive)—Representative Evans of Glendale, today recommended the appointment of Charles T. Myers as postmaster at El Monte, Cal. He will succeed the late Curtis C. Maltman, who died last summer and whose widow has been acting postmaster pending the civil service examination to determine the permanent appointee. Mr. Myers stood at the top of the list of those who took the examination.

MEXICAN LABOR CRISIS WANING

Immigration From Border Diminishes

Consuls Make Restrictions More Like Europe's

Kellogg Calls Conference on Alien Question

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25. (AP)—The problem of immigration of Mexican labor to the United States, which resulted in the introduction of legislation designed to curb it, appears to have been solved to a great extent, in the opinion of State Department officials, by an improvement in economic conditions in Mexico.

While admission of Mexican immigrant vises issued by the United States consular offices decreased 25 per cent during the year ending June, as compared with the previous year, latest statistics show that in November, last, there was a decline of 36 per cent as compared with that month a year ago and December the decrease amounted to 45 per cent.

Administrative steps taken to insure that the standards of admissibility observed by consular officers in Mexico are equal to those observed by consular officers in Europe also are thought to have contributed toward the diminution, especially in November and December, when officers began to give particular attention to admission standards in Mexico.

The statistics, State Department officials feel, support the stand Secretary Kellogg is expected to take before Congress any restrictive adoption of a quota or other immigration from Mexico or other Latin-American countries proposed in bills now pending.

One of the purposes of the conference of consular officers called by Secretary Kellogg, to be held in Mexico City February 11, at the suggestion of Ambassador Morrow, is to discuss the administrative steps for placing immigration visa authority standards in Mexico on a par with those maintained in

SILENCE VEILS HOOVER FISHING

President-elect "Lost" Off Florida Coast

Return Not Expected Until Tomorrow

Smith Also to Be in Miami Next Week

KEY LARGO, Jan. 25. (AP)—President-elect Hoover had another day of deep-sea fishing somewhere south of here today but no word has come ashore as to what luck he has had since he "lost" himself off the Florida coast yesterday.

Present expectations are that he will fish all day tomorrow and return to Belle Isle in Biscayne Bay during the forenoon Sunday, landing his "catch" from the yacht Sequoia upon arrival at the J. C. Penney estate, his vacation home in Florida.

Secret service men still are being kept at a distance and even they had no information about Hoover's movements that he was somewhere off the coast, either fishing in the region keys to the south or on the edge of the Gulf Stream, the two favorite grounds for anglers who know these waters.

Upon his return to shore the President-elect will learn that Alfred E. Smith, his opponent in the Presidential race, is expected to visit Miami early next week, making his headquarters at a hotel at Coral Gables, a few miles south of the city.

Since the next Chief Executive intends to remain almost in seclusion, it is not likely that there will be the occasion for any public meeting between the two men.

Sometime next week Mr. Hoover is expected to get down to the actual writing of his inaugural address, which he hopes to have completed well in advance of his return to Washington late next month.

Firemen Save Life of Child

TOPEKA (Kan.) Jan. 25. (AP)—For seven days little Margaret [illegible] of Perry, west of here, almost at death's door, has been kept alive by oxygen administered by two Topeka firemen.

The child, 7 years of age, became dangerously ill ten days ago when complications following pneumonia developed a condition in her lungs that left little space for breathing. Since then a vigil by her physician a week, Dean Way and A. W. Shubert, of the Topeka fire department have been stationed at her bedside with the oxygen tank. Each is on duty three hours a day.

The child now has a fair chance to recover, her physician says.

State Defeats Fish Canners

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 25. (AP)—A victory for the State Fish and Game Commission, lately at controversy with Monterey and San Pedro fishermen, was announced today by Fred G. Stevenot, director of the State Department of Natural Resources.

The commission was upheld recently by the Supreme Court, Stevenot said, in its efforts to enforce a ruling limiting the amount of [illegible] which may be reduced to fertilizer.

Canners interested in bone dust and other by-products previously had applied for an injunction against the enforcement of the rule.

Oklahoma Senate Court Recesses After Approval of Two More Charges

OKLAHOMA CITY, (Okla.) Jan. 25. (AP)—The Senate Court of Impeachment today set the 31st inst. as the date for the appearance of Henry S. Johnston, suspended Governor, to answer impeachment charges voted by the House of Representatives. The court previously had ordered Johnston to appear the 28th inst.

The Senate Court recessed until Monday after accepting two additional articles of impeachment voted by the House since the court recessed Monday.

Legislative investigators continued to interest themselves today in the part played in the administration of Johnston by his confidential secretary, Mrs. Hammonds, and members of her family, including her brother, Reed Scott, and her uncle, James R. Armstrong.

Testimony that at the order of Mrs. Hammonds he had carried packages out of the Governor's office and placed them in her small coupe since the Legislature convened was given before the House Investigating Committee by Robert Snipes, messenger for the Governor. Snipes denied the packages contained records, but said he did not know what they actually contained.

New Bar Chief Will be Feted

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25. (Exclusive)—Gurney Newlin of Los Angeles, president of the American Bar Association, will be the guest of honor at a dinner tomorrow evening at the Willard Hotel, given by the District Bar Association. Maj. Julius I. Peyser, president of the local association, will preside and will introduce Proctor L. Dougherty, district commissioner, who will extend the city's welcome to the guest. The greeting of the local lawyers will be delivered by Daniel W. O'Donoghue, former president.

Members of the patent bar also will attend to pay respect to the new president of the association.

The voice without a cold

Let Daisy tell you: it's the voice without a cold that is the voice with a smile. And this is how she avoids those sniffles, fever, and illness which make others admit that they won't be down to work.

Right after every exposure, if she feels shivety, or has wet her feet, or gets that warning tickle in her throat or nose, she takes GROVE'S BROMO QUININE. She doesn't wait; not Daisy. She has learned to carry the handy white box in her purse for just such emergencies—and for headaches, too. So she nips the cold while it merely threatens, and avoids grippe and flu and other serious ills which often begin with a cold.

Remember, there is only one BROMO QUININE. So it is a wise precaution to emphasize GROVE'S, when asking for GROVE'S BROMO QUININE. Price 30c.

BYRD PLANE HAS LINK WITH HOME

Two-Way Communication Sets World Record

Messages Cover 10,000 Miles Over Ether Lanes

WHD, the New York Times, 10,000 miles up north. Iverson intercepted the call, which penetrated several climes and crossed the equator.

The transmitter on the seventeenth floor of the Times annex flashed "Go ahead."

The plane heard the dots and dashes from the Times transmitter. New York was linked by an invisible channel with Little America. Hanson said: "Congratulations on longest two-way communication with an airplane in flight." The Byrd plane's message follows:

"HR message No. 1 de airplane Stars and Stripes to Commander S. C. Hooper, director of naval communications, Navy Department, Washington, D. C. Sincere regards to yourself and naval research laboratory and entire Navy Department on occasion of longest aircraft communication ever established. We are in flight 3000 feet over Little America, Bay of Whales, Antarctic. Fine sunny night."

The dispatch was signed "Hanson."

The transmission ended at 3:20 a.m., twelve minutes after the message reported that the plane was about to go aloft. Iverson broadcast an acknowledgment that all words had been picked up. No repeats were necessary because Hanson sent each word twice and the signal was fairly strong, although nature tried to block the record by an unsuccessful attack of fading.

OTHER WAVE TRIED

A few minutes later Hanson advised that he was about to shift the plane's transmitter to function on the sixty-five-meter wave. Silence followed. This wave did not reach New York. It was not an effective wave to cover such a long distance.

At 4:15 a.m. Iverson again picked up the signals from the plane on the thirty-four meter channel, which thi stime succeeded in talking with the radio men at the Mussel Rock station of the Robert Dollar Company twelve miles from San Francisco, which reported to the New York Times as follows:

"Mussel Rock radio station, Robert Dollar Company established two way radio communication with Byrd plane Stars and Stripes, exchanging following messages single at twenty-five words per minute without difficulty: 'WFC, Fairchild plane Stars and Stripes, Bay of Whales, January 25 to Ralph M. Heintz, San Francisco. Congratulations to you on performance of your airplane transmitter on occasion of establishing this world's record for two-way and one-way aircraft communication. We are 3000 feet over Little America, Bay of Whales, Antarctica, in Fairchild plane Stars and Stripes.'

[Signed]

'HANSON.'"

REPLY SENT

Mussel Rock replied: "To Hanson airplane Stars and Stripes, WFC: Wonderful luck and I surely am proud to be so fortunate as to be a party to this remarkable accomplishment. Mussel Rock per Fred Roebuck."

Radio men rate signal strength one to ten, the latter figure denoting a very loud signal. Hanson reported on this basis that the Mussel Rock signal strength was seven and Mussel Rock reported the intensity of the signal from the plane was of 6 deg. intensity.

The radio transmitter that made the new record was built by Heintz and Kaufmann at San Francisco. It is described as a high frequency and intermediate-frequency transmitter employing one fifty-watt oscillator tube, which is about as powerful, as far as electrical rating is concerned, as an ordinary incandescent lamp. The Stars and Stripes is equipped with what is termed a fixed doublet antenna, reaching from the tips of both wings to the tail and into the fuselage. This is for short-wave transmission, while a trailing wire is utilized for communication on the Universal commercial wave of 600 meters. The installation is powered by an electrical generator coupled direct to the airplane engine. This is an innovation in airplane radio.

BUILT IN WASHINGTON

The plane's receiver which picked up the signals from The Times station is a special four-tube superregenerative circuit for short-wave reception, designed by Malcolm P. Hanson and built by the National Electric Supply Company of Washington, D. C.

So strong were the signals from the plane and so slight the fading, the bane of short-wave radio, that The Times operators are hopeful that they will pick up the plane's dispatches as the Stars and Stripes flies over the South Pole, providing the flight is made between midnight and 4 a.m. New York time, and if the proper wave is used to conquer the obstacles that lurk in the radio channels that extend 10,000 miles from "the cross-roads of the world" at Times Square to the world's most remote outpost, surrounded by snow and ice, 2400 miles from the nearest point of civilization.

Commander Hooper last night sent the following message to Radio Officer Hanson, chief of the Byrd expedition: "Your message received by air from the air. Wonderful record and interesting. Hope to receive one when you are over the South Pole. Envy you, as no sunny nights here now. Communications and laboratory personnel join in regards to Commander Byrd and all hands."

Bridges to Get High Army Post

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25. (AP)—President Coolidge has decided to appoint Brig.-Gen. Charles H. Bridges of White Hall, Ill., as adjutant-general of the Army, with a rank of major-general.

The President also intends to appoint Col. Archibald Campbell of Philadelphia assistant adjutant-general, with rank of brigadier-general.

BYRD FINDS ICE UNSAFE

Ship Tries to Ram Open Passage to Barrier After Men Get Frigid Baths in Accidents

BY RUSSELL OWEN

BAY OF WHALES (Antarctica) Jan. 25.—Yesterday Byrd made a valiant attempt to reach the ice barrier, to find a passage through the heavy pressure ice with the City of New York to a low place where the Bolling could be unloaded easily. The ice was too thick, however, and after a day of ramming and battering the ice under which the old ship stood up nobly he was forced to quit and await a little aid from the weather. It appears now as if it might be coming, as a storm is brewing which may shift to the south and if it does this part of the bay should go out.

We left the berth where the ship had been made fast to the edge of the floe because the ice in that spot was getting soft. Several men went in up to their waists during the morning and finally Norman Vaughan, who has been carrying heavy loads in the last few days, went in up to his shoulders while he was standing alongside his team preparing to start in with a load of coal. He went down like a shot before he could make the slightest attempt to spring aside and hung there in the icy water, his arms outstretched until Eddie Gould, another of the drivers, pulled him out. Vaughan, dripping and half-frozen from his icy plunge, ran to the ship and up the plank and into the boiler room to strip his clothes off and thaw out. In a few minutes he was out again ready to start.

SAFER PLACE SOUGHT

In the meantime his sledge weighted with heavy coal bags had been sinking lower and lower in the ice which bent in around it until the top was level with the water despite the efforts of men to hold it up. They also were in imminent danger of going in for a time, but managed to pull the coal bags off and drag the sledges to safety. This decided Commander Byrd, however, to seek a safer spot and as the lead on the east side of the bay has opened up to within a few hundred yards of the low part of the barrier he determined to attempt to smash away at it in the hope that he could make a passage for the Bolling.

The ship pulled along the edge of the bay ice under steam until out in the open lead. With Byrd sitting on the main top gallant yard and Strom in the crow's nest, the ship was headed south parallel to the barrier and was 300 yards out from it where there seemed to be a series of openings that led on a gradual curve inward toward the barrier. The ship hit the ice with all its power and cut its way through for some distance. The ice became heavier until it checked the forward movement and then we began to back up and ram ahead making a few feet each time. Once the ship was caught amidships by a big cake that folded under other ice and as the bow was jammed tight at the same time it was as if she were held in a vise. Men went over the side with bars and poles, axes and shovels, and finally broke the ice loose so that the ship could move again.

HEAVY ICE BROKEN

As if to make up for this delay the ship went ahead with renewed speed for some distance, the bow lifting up and smashing down again through ice five and six feet thick, rolling a little from side to side and shivering with the smash of ice against timbers. Some dog teams appeared about this time heading for the ship and the New York was laid alongside the ice for half an hour while they were loaded with coal bags and sent away again. This time Bursey and his team went through the ice not far from the ship and he and his load pulled out again. While men were running to his aid Bursey lay on the edge of the hole braced against his sledge so that it could not go in and saved the precious coal. The ice here was much thicker, however, and safer than at the previous disembarking point.

When the sledges were loaded the ship was turned eastward toward the barrier, almost at right angles to its former course through the ice and showed what a lot of thick ice a ship can break up when it is handled carefully. We were working against ice that heaved up with pressure so much so that in places there were cakes standing like pillars fifteen feet above the surface. It was also ice that was confined by pressure ice on two sides and by the barrier on the other which made the task much harder. Byrd was skeptical as to how much he could accomplish, but felt that if the barrier could be reached and the ice broken up so that it might move out more quickly it would help greatly in unloading the Eleanor Bolling which is now the greatest problem facing the expedition.

ICE TEN FEET THICK

The ship went full speed ahead into this mass of twisted and upheaved ice, pieces of which were at least ten feet thick below the water line. Time and again the bow would ride up one of these huge blocks forcing a way between uplifted and jagged cakes of pressure ice and slide off again when the engines were reversed without apparently making any impression upon the blue glittering mass which we could see was below the water. Two or three times this would be done and then the ice would crack and slowly be forced aside. A yard at a time the ship made its way toward the barrier in this way reeling under the shocks and swaying rapidly aside when a stubborn cake defected it as it charged forward, until the barrier was only 100 yards away.

But it might just as well have been a mile for a point was reached where we would not go any farther and Byrd decided to back out and go back to the last point where coal had been unloaded. Most of the day and a good part of the evening was spent in this attempt and it did some good for the ice has been split and broken so much that a good southerly wind might blow it out and we hope this will happen. The Eleanor Bolling is coming more slowly to economize on coal and there will be about two days for the ice to move before she arrives.

GUARD'S USE OF WEAPONS HELD LEGAL

Government Expert Says Rules Permit Patrols to Fire at Suspects

ELMIRA (N. Y.) Jan. 25. (AP)—Coast Guardsmen may, if necessary, use firearms to stop automobiles, Lieut. Clifford D. Feak, assistant to the chief of the United States Coast Guard intelligence service, testified in Federal court here today.

Feak took the stand in the capacity of an expert for the defense at the trial of Boatswain Frank L. Beck and Glenn Jennings, Coast Guardsmen, charged with manslaughter in the fatal shooting of Jacob D. Hanson, Niagara Falls Elks' Lodge secretary, near North Tonawanda, last May.

In firing on the Hanson car, Jennings merely was following out rules laid down by the government, Feak declared. Hanson was fatally shot while returning from an Elks' party. He failed to heed the command of Jennings and Chris Dew, Coast Guard patrolmen on watch for rum runners, to halt.

Feak also upheld the right of the Coast Guard to wear other clothing over their uniforms. Jennings and Dew were attired in overalls and sheepskin coats when they hailed Hanson. Feak declared the insignia on their caps was sufficient display of their authority.

Dry Official Gets Stay in Contempt Case

INDIANAPOLIS (Ind.) Jan. 25. (AP)—Dr. E. S. Shumaker, superintendent of the Indiana Anti-Saloon League, whose petition for a writ of habeas corpus was overruled in Federal court here today, was granted a thirty-day stay of execution by Judge Baltzell.

The stay was granted at the request of Ethan A. Miles, attorney for Shumaker, to permit time for perfecting further legal action that may be contemplated.

Shumaker is seeking to evade a sixty-day sentence to the State penal farm assessed by the Indiana Supreme Court on conviction for indirect contempt.

WEST ASKS BIDS ON KETTLEMAN HILLS OIL

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25. (AP)—Secretary West today called for bids on royalty oil accruing to the United States from government oil lands in the Kettleman Hills (California) oil fields for a period of one year beginning April 1. The bids must be submitted before noon on March 1.

MEMBERS OF HOUSE IN CLASH

Blanton and Elliott Held Apart by Colleagues as They Meet After Tilt

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25. (AP)—Representatives Blanton of Texas and Elliott of Indiana engaged in a sharp exchange in the House today and, when they resumed it later in the House lobby, were held apart by fellow members.

Several versions of the clash circulated through the chamber, including one story that Elliott had thrown a book at the Texan, but both later said "nothing serious happened."

The dispute began when Blanton charged on the floor that he had understood the Indiana member to have promised a year or so ago that postoffices would be provided for Sweetwater and Coleman, Tex., and that he would support the public buildings bill. Elliott denied that he made such a promise, and Blanton declared he would put into the record a statement confirming his declaration.

Representative Cramton, Republican, Michigan, observed that "since Texas now is a Republican State there is no need to worry about postoffices."

ADDED NAVY FUND ASKED BY COOLIDGE

President Also Desires $17,364,196 for Payment of Federal Salary Rises

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25. (AP)—President Coolidge has asked Congress to appropriate $19,730,386, of which $1,344,200 would supplement other naval appropriations and most of the remainder provide salary increases in various departments of the government.

The proposal contemplates the expenditure of $450,000 for modernizing the battleships Oklahoma and Nevada and carrying to completion work on the two vessels for which $13,150,000 already has been authorized.

Among the other items in the recommendation are further alterations on the battleship California, $344,000; temporary government for West Indian Islands, $14,000; maintenance of the Bureau of Yards and Docks, $70,000; engineering, $210,000.

Another of the President's recommendations asks $17,364,196 to meet the expenses of salary rises granted government employees under the Welch Act of last session.

FLYING CALLED REALTY FACTOR

Culver Stresses Aviation in Talk to Association

Five-Hour Trip to Europe in Three Years Predicted

Holdings Shift in Value Due to Air Travel, He Says

BIRMINGHAM (Ala.) Jan. 25. (Exclusive)—Aviation as a factor to be considered in present day utilization of real estate was emphasized in the address which Harry H. Culver of Culver City and Los Angeles gave here today before the delegates at the annual business meeting of the National Association of Real Estate Boards when he took the office of president of the association for the coming year.

HARRY H. CULVER

Mr. Culver declared that air transportation is not a problem of the future, but of the present. He predicted that three years from now we shall have available five-hour air trips to Europe, air mail at a cost of 2 cents an ounce, a speed in transportation which will make the country seem far smaller than it is today and he urged realty operators to realize the changes that aviation is making and will continue to make in their business.

CHANGES OCCURRING

"Railroads are buying additional yardage for aircraft," he pointed out. "Manufacturers of light articles are moving to airports. Homes adjoining airports are giving way to hotels, apartments and restaurants. Executive offices are being erected on the fields.

"As the automobile extended metropolitan areas, so that villages thirty miles from our city centers become parts of that city, so will the airplane shift and expand realty holdings in all directions.

"The wise realty operator who today is giving this new industry time, thought and study, will some some day reap a harvest."

In a discussion of financing the real estate buyer, Mr. Culver deplored the cumbersome laws and red tape retarding the sale of real estate, and urged members of the national association to work for an elimination of obsolete provisions in laws governing property transfer.

"A million dollars worth of bonds can be purchased in one hour," he said. "The transfer of automobiles consumes only a triffle more time, but the transfer of real property is surrounded by legal safeguards and technicalities, some of which are wise and necessary but many of which are a heritage from the distant past and do not fit modern conditions.

SOLUTION SOUGHT

"The instruments of finance used in real estate are in many States surrounded by legal limitations which retard the free flow of money and prevent adjustment of the relationship between buyer and lender on a business-like basis governed by economic considerations. The result is that certain types of real estate financing are unnecessarily difficult to obtain and are costly. It is important that we study this problem, and that we find a better solution than now exists.

"Increased development of building and loan associations will be helpful in many communities. The co-operation of banks, their participation in real estate loans and in the sale of these loans, will also in many cases be helpful.

"The whole problem of real estate finance deserves our constant attention," Mr. Culver emphasized.

Co-operation of realty dealers, builders, manufacturers and distributors of building materials, architects, and other groups in standardizing materials and building practices would eliminate waste and lower costs in home building, the new president believes.

He spoke of the possibility of eventually organizing a national building congress in which all interests represented in the building of a home would take part. The co-operation of these groups would be a great factor in making better homes a part of our citizens' lives, he said.

ASSOCIATION COMMENDED

Mr. Culver commended the association for the material it has prepared to help member boards make surveys of their communities and thus acquire accurate knowledge of local conditions on which to base their future programs and actions, rather than depending on shrewd and lucky guesses. As another phase of the valuable work of the association, Mr. Culver mentioned its leadership in trying to work out ways and means for proper control of subdivisions.

Mr. Culver suggested to the delegates that the property owner himself has a place in the membership of the local real estate boards, and he suggested extending membership to include property owners, since the interests of this latter group and those of realty men are very parallel.

"Fifty per cent of our time as real estate boards is consumed in fighting battles for the land owner," the association's new chief stated. "We are retailers taking the brunt for the manufacturer. Why not tie these 'manufacturers,' all owners of real property, into our fighting ranks? Why not, through a special form of membership, give them an opportunity to work with us and assume a share of our responsibility? Such an arrangement should result in coordinating our forces and stabilizing out activities."

FARMERS RALLY TO TARIFF FIGHT

More Duty Asked on Almost Every Commodity

Growers Continue Parade at House Hearing

Californians Among Those Registering Pleas

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25. (AP)—President-elect Hoover's campaign promise to aid agriculture through the tariff apparently has given impetus to an organized effort on the part of farm groups to seek higher protection on nearly every commodity in this section of the Tariff Act.

The parade of witnesses before the House Ways and Means Committee in the interest of higher duties was continued today and requests covered agricultural products, fruits, fish and grains. The committee was forced into a night session.

J. W. Shorthill of Omaha, secretary of the National Grain Dealers' Association, urged the raising of the present rate to 15 cents a bushel on corn to 30 cents. He contended it costs the American farmer 34 cents a bushel to move his corn to competing territory as against 15 cents for Argentine corn, so the differential of duty is completely wiped out.

TELLS OF BENEFITS

Cross-examination of Shorthill developed that increases in the tariff on farm products to the level of protection afforded manufactured products would be of little assistance if the duties on the latter were increased. He said the corn farmers adjacent to Omaha desire a higher tariff to keep out Argentine corn from the Pacific Coast.

Maintenance of the present 42 cents a bushel duty on wheat, but with an added 3 cents a bushel for each one-half per cent of protein above the standard 11 per cent protein content wheat, was urged by M. W. Thatcher, St. Paul, on behalf of the Northwest Agricultural Foundation.

He said the present tariff has been of great benefit to the wheat growers, but that the sliding-scale increases for higher protein wheat is desired to permit them to compete with this type of wheat from Canada.

Former Representative Anderson of Minnesota, speaking for the Millers' National Federation, advocated a higher duty on flour in proportion to any increase granted on wheat on the ground that the price of flour follows the price of wheat. He asked also an increase in the duty on wheat by-products for feed to 15 per cent ad valorem as against the present duty of 7 1-2 per cent.

CALIFORNIANS SPEAK

Protesting against a rise in the wheat-feed duty, L. P. Townsend, Springfield, Mass., on behalf of the Boston Grain Dealers' Grain and Flour Exchange, declared imports of these products from Canada amounts to only 92,000 tons, or less than 2 per cent of domestic consumption.

California cherry growers, through Egbert A. Smith of Napa, urged increases in duties on all classes of cherries. Italian imports are regulating the price in this country, Smith said, in asking these rates: Fresh white cherries, 2 cents a pound; sulphured or in brine, 3 cents; pitted and stemmed, 13 cents; prepared or preserved, 10 cents, and 40 per cent ad valorem.

Knox Boude of Sebastopol, Cal., representing the National Poultry Council, urged an increase to 10 cents a pound in the existing duty of 3 cents on live poultry and 10 cents on dead poultry, as compared with the present rate of 6 cents. Other rates proposed are: Eggs in shell, 10 cents a dozen, as against the present 8 cents; frozen eggs, 12 cents a pound against 6; dried yolk, 30 cents against 18; dried albumen, 60 cents against 18; baby chicks, 4 cents each, a new duty, and live poultry imported for breeding purposes, $2 each, also a new rate.

Boude argued that growing imports make the higher rates necessary to equalize foreign and domestic production costs, but committeemen cited figures showing these are not so high.

MORE DUTY ON FRUIT ASKED

The night session cleaned up another batch of witnesses, but left more than 100 to be heard tomorrow and Monday, making other night meetings probable.

California and Florida joined in petitions for higher duties on fruits, while the Pacific Coast State and Texas linked proposals for higher duties on imported figs.

Charles C. Teague, Santa Paula, representing the California Citrus League, urged a duty of 2 1-2 cents a pound on lemons, an increase of 1-2 a cent, and the inclusion of limes in the same classification with lemons. Limes are now a separate item for tariff purposes and are dutiable at 1 cent a pound.

These rates, Teague argued, would enable California growers to displace some of the foreign lemons with domestic fruit now going into by-products on a salvage basis without increasing the cost to the consumer.

Representative Barbour, Republican, California, and E. M. Cole of Texas, urged a duty of 7 cents a pound on figs compared with the present tariff of 2 cents.

TALKING FILMS TO END WAR

Inventor Predicts Universal Language and World Amity When "Talkies" Achieve Perfection

NEW YORK, Jan. 25. (Exclusive)—Predicting that the talking picture will bring about a universal language—English, presumably—and will provide a way to enduring peace and an end to armaments and war, Dr. Lee De Forest, inventor of the photofilm, asked members attending the fifth annual motion-picture conference of the National Board of Review at its second day's session at the Waldorf to judge the sound picture on its future merits rather than by its incomplete state today.

"The radio broadcast has done much toward establishing a better understanding, a feeling of neighborliness between nations," he said, "but I believe that sound films will accomplish even more in this direction. The fact that the United States leads in talking pictures will aid greatly in bringing to Europeans better understanding of the American point of view."

William A. Brady, theatrical producer, discussed the importance of pictures in bringing to rural districts versions of legitimate productions they otherwise would not be able to see.

Censorship was attacked during the morning session when Dr. Frederick C. Howe, former Commissioner of Immigration and first chairman of the National Board of Review, declared that the public was the best censor and that only the public can command production of good pictures. He asserted that all censorship is based on hatred of pleasure and happiness and is always related to religious intolerance in one form or another. He said that the national board was founded to resist the censorship of certain moralistic and evangelistic groups that disliked anything related to the theater.

(Exclusive)—Hearings before the special committee of State Senators inquiring into the asserted existence of a price-fixing agreement among cement manufacturers were concluded here today and the committee will take counsel with Atty.-Gen. Webb to see if it can force the companies to turn over their business secrets and private records for the public inspection.

Upon the advice of their individual attorneys, executives of the various cement companies who gave testimony regarding the industry before the committee today declined to turn over to the committee their balance sheets, tax statements and other records of a confidential and private nature on the ground that the business secrets would be revealed to their competitors.

HEARING SET

Senator Jones of San Jose, chairman of the committee, announced that a hearing of the committee will be held at Los Angeles, February 5, next, and in the meantime, he will confer with Webb to see what other action should be taken.

Acting upon the advice of his attorney, Alfred Sutro, Robert B. Henderson, president of the Pacific Portland Cement Company, told the committee that to turn over the records as requested by the committee for public inspection would be of advantage to his business competitors. Other cement company executives, who followed Henderson on the witness stand took a like attitude.

PRICE PACT DENIED

A general denial was made by all representatives of the cement companies that there is a price fixing agreement existing in the State.

"Cement is a standardized article, both chemically and physically, and there is no arrangement as to price among the companies, but your competitor makes the prices which every mill must meet to obtain business," President Henderson, who occupied the stand most of the day, declared.

OIL PROXIES CANVASSED BY STEWART

Rockefeller Forces Call Plea Defeat Gesture of Standard Chairman

NEW YORK, Jan. 25. (Exclusive) Robert W. Stewart's public appeal to stockholders in his fight for re-election to the chairmanship of the board of the Standard Oil of Indiana, was received in New York financial circles today as the gesture of a defeated man.

The answer of Thomas M. DeBevoise, spokesman for John D. Rockefeller, Jr., who has announced his unqualified opposition to the retention of Col. Stewart in the Indiana company, was that Rockefeller interests "are now confident of the result."

A few days ago it was announced that the Rockefeller organization had lined up "under 45 per cent" of the proxies for voting purposes at the fateful stockholders' meeting on March 7, when Col. Stewart's future finally will be decided. Although DeBevoise was reluctant to quote figures today, he readily said that the campaign for proxies had been going so well in the last few days that all doubt of the final issue of the battle is now dissipated.

It has been taken for granted by those aware of the situation that Rockefeller, Jr., would not have entered upon a contest with as pugnacious an individual and as powerful leader in the present-day oil industry as Col. Stewart had he not felt certain of eventful victory.

The statement made by DeBevoise today is the first clear declaration that the Rockefeller faction is fully armed for as desperate a fight as the colonel and his forces can put up when the two proxy armies clash on the Whiting (Ind.) battle ground.

Hooligans Raid Capetown During Police Absence

CAPETOWN, Jan. 25. (Exclusive) Taking advantage of the absence of police at the opening of Parliament ceremony today 200 colored hooligans, most of whom live on the slopes of Table Mountain, broke loose in the city and forced their way into shops, which they pillaged. They plundered tills and attacked pedestrians. A frantic message was sent to the central police station, where only one policeman was found on duty. He rushed to the scene, but was attacked by members of the mob. They struck him with stones and bottles and when he fell, kicked him into unconsciousness. He now is in a serious condition in a local hospital.

Finally a messenger reached Parliament and summoned a police squad. It rushed to the scene of the disturbance, dispelled the mob and arrested the ringleaders. The city was terrorized for half an hour.

Revulsion Sets in Against New Afghan Monarch

LONDON, Jan. 25. (AP)—A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company from Peshwar, India, today said a widespread revulsion has occurred in Afghanistan against Bachao Sakao, who is now occupying whatever throne still exists in Kabul. The fact that the northern chieftain is not a Pathan but a Tajik is given as the cause for the reaction.

The Exchange Telegraph correspondent said this will necessarily cause a general return of allegiance to the deposed King Amanullah. However, a considerable degree of support for him has developed.

Triana Named by Agrarians

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 25. (AP)—The Agrarian League has nominated former Gen. Pedro Rodriguez Triana for the Presidency. Triana, in announcing his acceptance, said he is convinced he will meet defeat at the polls.

The league is composed of a few workers' and peasants' unions with a rather restricted membership and Communistic leanings.

Triana started his career as a revolutionist under Francesco I. Madero in 1910. Afterward he fought with Pancho Villa and Emiliano Zapata. He retired when Zapata was killed and since then has gained prominence as an Agrarian leader.

Jobless Rioters Plunder Shops

CAPETOWN (Union of South Africa) Jan. 25. (AP)—Demonstrations by unemployed set to coincide with the opening of Parliament today culminated in serious disturbances here. In the crowded quarter of the city unruly elements plundered food shops and damaged other stores. One policeman was knocked unconscious and mounted police were summoned to quell the outbreaks.

Raider Named in Indictment

NEWPORT (R. I.) Jan. 25. (AP)—Alvah H. Richardson, chief raiding officer of the Federal prohibition forces in Rhode Island, was indicted by the grand jury today for conspiracy to steal liquor. He furnished $5000 bonds after pleading not guilty.

Coolidges Will Receive Degrees

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—President and Mrs. Coolidge will have honorary degrees conferred upon them by the George Washington University at its commencement exercises on February 22, it was announced today.

The President is to deliver at that time an address which is being advertised as the last public speech he will make as Chief Executive of the United States. He will speak before the budget meeting here next Monday and on February 1 will dedicate the bird sanctuary established by Edward W. Bok, at Mountain Lake, Fla.

Radio Meeting at Ottawa Ends

OTTAWA (Ont.) Jan. 25. (AP)—The International Radio Conference on intermediate bands, which has been in session here for several days, closed tonight without coming to a definite agreement on allocation of wave lengths.

An eleventh-hour disagreement arose, it is said, which barred a definite decision on the matter at this time.

The conference was attended by delegates from Canada, the United States, Newfoundland and Cuba.

Icebox Kissing Damages Given

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 25. (AP)—The Superior Court today awarded Miss Anna Cohen $500 damages in her $5000 suit against Henry Bercut, owner of a meat stall in a market here, for hugs and kisses she asserted he forced upon her after dragging her into his refrigerator.

Alcohol Blamed in Death of Girl Postoffice Aide

TAYLORVILLE (Ind.) Jan. 25. (Exclusive)—Wood alcohol killed Carrie Burns, 19-year-old assistant postmistress of Ohlman, whose body was found lying alongside a road half a mile east of Ohlman the night of the 4th inst. This is the substance of the detailed report of the National Pathological Laboratory of Chicago of an analysis of her vital organs, made by Dr. Guy L. Jacobsen, county physician of Christian county, today.

The report of the pathologist is that there was sufficient wood alcohol found in the girl's stomach and other organs to have killed half a dozen persons. Deputy County Coroner Charles McMillan will reconvene the Coroner's jury Monday to return a verdict.

The last seen of Miss Bruns alive was at 8 p.m., the 4th inst., when she left the postoffice and entered a closed automobile a half-block from the postoffice with a strange man. At 9:40 p.m., her body was found by a passing automobilist.

Peabody Served in Balm Action

NEW YORK, Jan. 25 (Exclusive) George Peabody, former army captain, Yale graduate, member of the Knickerbocker Club and son of Stephen Peabody, retired financier, was arrested today on a civil order of Supreme Court Justice Callaghan in Brooklyn.

The action disclosed a suit for $250,000 damages for breach of promise to marry Miss Florence H. Matthews, whose identity her attorney, Peter J. Brancato, declined to reveal other than to say she is a member of a prominent Brooklyn family.

WAR-GUILT LIE,' SAYS WILHELM

World Peace Ever My Aim,' ex-Kaiser States

Germany Traduced in Treaty Declares Exile

Only Atrocities Committed Were by Foes, He Says

DOORN (Holland) Jan. 25. (AP)—On the eve of his seventieth birthday former Emperor Wilhelm II, speaking through a friend and confidant Baron Ulrich Von Sell, gave the chief of the Berlin Bureau of the Associated Press, who visited him, an interview.

The former Emperor himself, however, dictated a foreword which he signed. In placing this foreword in the hands of the correspondent, Baron Von Sell described it thus: "Foreword of His Majesty the Kaiser and King for an interview published the 26th inst., which have given the chief representative of the Berlin Bureau of the Associated Press with the approval of His Majesty."

The text of this foreword follows:

KAISER'S AIMS

"To promote the welfare of the German people and to preserve peace in the world—this has ever been the supreme law governing my actions. In the firm faith in God the All-Just, I therefore hope to live to see the day that shall free the Germans from the burden of the false accusation of having unleashed the greatest of all wars.

"WILHELM"

In the interview the former Emperor, speaking through Baron Von Sell, declared that "the preliminary treaty of November 5, 1918," bearing directly on the reparations problem, had been broken and that he had observed with satisfaction that the thesis of Germany's sole guilt for the war was becoming more and more untenable.

He denied German cruelty in the conduct of the World War.

NO MORE PUBLICITY

The former ruler of Germany has been very shy of publicity. He does not now even receive German correspondents of approved monarchist views. The most that can be obtained from him is a prepared statement handed out through a third person or an authorized interview had with someone in his confidence.

Asked how Wilhelm II regarded the development and present status of the reparations question, Baron Von Sell said:

"In estimating this question His Majesty proceeds from the fact that the settlement of the reparations problem rests, to begin with, upon the ancient breach of treaty. According to the program of President Wilson the Central Powers were not to pay any war reparations but were only to restore the occupied territories. When Germany, in October, 1918, declared herself ready to accept this program the Allies expressed the obligations of Germany to include the damage rendered to the civil population through submarine and air attacks.

"It was on this basis that the preliminary treaty of November 5, 1918, was concluded. By its terms Germany would have had to pay only thirty milliard gold marks, according to the estimates of Keyne, and forty milliards, according to the estimates of the Italian economist Nitti.

"WAR-GUILT LIE"

"In dictating the Treaty of Versailles nobody paid any attention whatever to the limitations of this preliminary treaty. It was simply stated that Germany was to be held liable for all the Allies' costs incurred in the war. The basis for this action was furnished by the charge of Germany's guilt for the war, an unscrupulously-invented lie. The German reparations already delivered and the losses of territory imposed through the dictate of Versailles exceed many times the sums estimated by Keynes and Nitti and there is no end in sight. During the negotiations which are about to be opened it should be remembered and again and again emphasized that there is in existence a preliminary treaty which cannot be treated as a 'scrap of paper,' and that there is no such thing as German responsibility for the war, upon which the reparations 'stand or fall.'"

Then His Majesty see any evidence of a change of public opinion outside of Germany in estimating Germany's guilt for the war, as compared with the views current in 1919? Baron Von Sell was asked.

HOLDS CASE PROVEN

"Most decidedly His Majesty does," was his rejoinder. "How could it be otherwise? For the documents published since 1919 from German, Russian, Austrian and other archives have long brought irrefutable proof that the thesis of Germany's responsibility for the outbreak of the war is no longer tenable. His Majesty is able to note with satisfaction that no conscientious investigator still defends the thesis embodied in Article CCXXXI of the Versailles treaty, of Germany's guilt in the war.

"I need but to remind you of Senator Owen and of savants like the German historians Barnes, Wilhelm Langer and Fay, the Canadian Stewart and many others.

EXPECTS FACE-ABOUT

"His Majesty expects—and it would appear not without foundation—that facts as important as these will in the course of time bring about a change of world opinion in favor of Germany and will finally result in the cessation further payments of tribute on the part of Germany."

The discussion now turned to the question of Germany's method of conducting the war, which finds expression in the phrase, used in Versailles, in the phrase, asserting that Germany is responsible "likewise for the cruel manner in which the war was conducted."

Baron Von Sell was asked: "This refers to his majesty in a very particular manner: what has he to say to it?"

The Baron replied:

"My answer from your question is the effects of the propaganda which His Majesty in a very particular degree found out. Does not the world see even now that this propaganda was nothing other than a weapon in the war, just as were

DINNER HONORS MATHER GENIUS

Retiring Park Chief Lauded at Washington Affair

H. M. Albright, Successor, Chief Guest of Group

Pledge Voiced to Carry on Development Work

BY ROBERT B. ARMSTRONG
"Times" Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25. (Exclusive)—In order to pay tribute to the remarkable development of the national parks of the United States under Stephen T. Mather, who has resigned to regain his health, a dinner was given last night and Horace M. Albright, Mr. Mather's successor, was the guest of honor. The dinner was given at the Cosmos Club. Distinguished speakers from all over the United States praised the wonderful growth of the National Park Service under the leadership of Mr. Mather during the last twelve years.

Members of the Senate and House committees on Public Lands were among the guests invited to meet the executive staffs of the two organizations.

Frederic A. Delano, president of the American Civic Association, who was toastmaster, introduced the speakers, who paid tributes to the outstanding service rendered by Mr. Mather. Sincere regrets were expressed over his resignation, due to a physical breakdown. A welcome was extended to Mr. Albright.

GROWTH TRACED

Mr. Delano gave an account of the part the American Civic Association played in the creation of the National Park Service and still is taking in the development of the national park system. He called on Dr. J. Horace McFarland of Harrisburg, Pa., past president of the association and chairman of its committee on national parks, to give a brief history of the beginnings of the National Park Service. Dr. McFarland paid a high tribute to Mr. Mather's services and expressed the gratification of all members of the American Civic Association in the appointment of Mr. Albright as his successor.

"No man," he said, "is better qualified by experience and temperament to carry on the wonderful work started by Mr. Mather than his co-worker and strong personal friend, Mr. Albright."

Representative Crampton of Michigan, author of the bill to extend the park system in the district which the executive board of the American Civic Association had indorsed at its annual meeting earlier in the day, told of Mr. Mather's work at the capital on behalf of park development. He gave assurances that Mr. Albright would have a continuance of support in working for the future of the system under the new administration.

SENATOR NYE SPEAKS

Senator Nye, chairman of the Senate Public Lands Committee, likewise gave assurances of his interest in the development of the parks in Washington and his desire to promote only wise legislation for the extension of the national park system. Chairman Colton of the House Committee on Public Lands recounted personal experiences with Mr. Mather, which he said had impressed on him the love the former director, has for the great out-of-doors.

Responding to Mr. Delano's toast Director Albright devoted his talk also to his experiences while working with his predecessor, and gave assurances of his strong desire to carry on the policies laid down by him.

The American Civic Association's annual board meeting in the Union Trust Building was attended by Mr. Delano, as president; Mrs. Edward W. Biddle of Philadelphia and Dr. McFarland, vice-presidents; Dr. John M. Gries of Washington, Dr. James Ford of Washington and Cambridge, Mass.; Dr. George B. Ford of New York, Warren H. Manning of Boston, Dr. John C. Merriam of Washington, Electus D. Litchfield of New York and Col. Samuel P. Wetherill, Jr., of Philadelphia, members of the executive board; Miss Harlan James, executive secretary and Mrs. Albert Lee Thurman, associate secretary.

The board adopted resolutions bearing on the national park policy in general and the development and beautification of the park system in and around Washington. It urged the acquisition of the Potomac River front on both sides from Mt. Vernon to Great Falls for the George Washington Memorial Parkway and extension of the Rock Creek and Anacostia parkways into Maryland before suitable areas are put to other uses.

TETON SECTION PROPOSED FOR PARK

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25. (AP)—The area in Wyoming known as the Grand Teton Range, and once described by Mrs. Calvin Coolidge as among the most beautiful sights she ever had beheld, was suggested today to the Senate by one of its committees as suitable to be preserved forever as a national park.

The range, which would be known as the Grand Teton National Park, is a long, narrow area lying just south of Yellowstone Park.

At the same time the Teton proposal was approved the Senate Public Lands Committee recommended a measure for the appointment of a commission to inquire into the advisability of changing the southeastern and northwestern boundaries of Yellowstone Park.

The committee already had approved a bill increasing the acreage of this park on the northwest and northern sides so that if the complete program is carried out the famous Yellowstone square, known to everyone who has peered into a geography will be changed into an irregular area taking in larger sweeps of lands in Wyoming and Montana.

Senator Norbeck of South Dakota suggested that the Teton range be called Kendrick National Park in honor of Senator Kendrick of Wyoming. The Senator, however, declined the honor. One of those to appear today before the committee to urge creation of the park was Horace M. Albright, director of the National Park Service.

BOLIVIAN WAR FEAR REVIVED

Arms Purchases in Europe Stir Apprehension

Large Quantities Bought of English Concern

Neighbors' Ban on Shipping Forms Bar, However

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25. (AP) Large quantities of arms reported ordered by Bolivia in Europe aroused apprehension here today in diplomatic circles, where it is feared that relations between Paraguay and Bolivia, only recently smoothed over, may be complicated.

The reports reaching the capital are to the effect that Bolivia has placed a munitions order of several million dollars with a British concern which has sublet part of the contract to continental subsidiaries. The first consignments are said to be in the process of delivery.

Latin-American diplomatic representatives here suggested that some concerted action should be taken by Bolivia's neighbors to remove any possibility of the tranquillity of the continent againg being disturbed. State Department officials see in the lately reported numerous seizures by Argentine authorities of arms en route to Bolivia a symptom that the Buenos Aires administration already has decided to exert influence to quench any possibility of further trouble between the two republics.

Chile established an embargo on all arms shipments to Bolivia more than a month ago when it declared its neutrality in any critical developments in the Bolivian-Paraguayan dispute. The attitude of Argentina and Chile regarding shipments of arms to Bolivia and its neighbor is regarded by officials here as the safest guarantee against possible new outbreaks. Bolivia and Paraguay have no outlet to the sea and their communications are controlled by their neighbors.

LOVE WINS OVER CHURCH CREED

Presbyterian Minister Gives Up Frock Because Bride Had Been Divorced for Cause Unrecognized by Denomination, Broken Engagement Precedes His Marriage

OAKLAND, Jan. 25. (AP) — Dr. Frederick R. (Kid) Wedge, Presbyterian minister, and his bride, the former Mrs. Jennie Mina Holloway, are honeymooning today, despite the minister's breaking of the engagement yesterday because Mrs. Holloway had been divorced for a reason unrecognized as legal by the Presbyterian church.

"I decided to give up the church," Wedge explained after the wedding. "I am glad I decided as I did."

Wedge, Harvard graduate, erstwhile prize fighter, and one-time lumberjack, sent Mrs. Holloway a letter yesterday, a few hours before the wedding, saying he was unable to go through with the marriage "because the Bible is against it."

"I worked for seven years to be ordained," he explained later. "And then I discovered that Mrs. Holloway had been divorced on grounds of 'incompatibility,' grounds my church does not recognize. My friend, Dr. Lapsley A. McFee of the First Presbterian Church of Berkeley, refused to marry me. I knew that if I carried out my plans I would have to give up my church.

"But on the other side there was my honor, and this wonderful woman. I rented a room in a San Francisco hotel and fought the problem out. I decided to give up the church."

The ceremony was performed by Rev. C. D. Norris of the Berkeley Church of the Nazarene, at the home of the bride here. Hugh Wedge, the minister's son by a former marriage, was best man. The bridesmaid was Mrs. Holloway's daughter, Mrs. Jeannette Dale. Engagement of the couple followed a romance begun when they met at a summer session of the University of California in 1928. Dr. Wedge's first wife has been dead for some time.

BOOTH HEARING DELAYED AGAIN

Peace in Salvation Army Hoped by Justice

LONDON, Jan. 25. (AP)—Hearing on the temporary injunction restraining the high council of the Salvation Army from electing a successor to Gen. Bramwell Booth was adjourned today until Tuesday. In the meantime the temporary injunction will continue in effect.

This was the second adjournment of the case, the first having been granted last Monday on the request of attorneys for the high council. The adjournment left the question of the leadership of the Salvation Army and administrative reforms hanging in the balance.

Today's adjournment was granted on request of the general's counsel because he has not been able to file his evidence in reply to evidence submitted by the defendants.

Although submitting that the case is an urgent one, attorneys for the high council agreed to the postponement. Justice Eve of Chancery Court expressed the hope that every effort will be made to arrive at a settlement.

Change Denied in Rail Meat Rate From Utah Here

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25. (AP)—The Interstate Commerce Commission reaffirmed today its refusal to disturb the present rail rates on meats and packing-house products from Ogden, Utah, and Reno, Nev., to California destinations.

In a previous decision the commission held the rates to be reasonable, but allowed a rehearing on complaint of Ogden and Nevada producing interests.

Commissioners Meyer and Porter, although concurring with the majority findings, suggested that the commission, in a future proceeding, should establish a proper relation between live stock and meat products in the traffic to California from the points named. Commissioners Lewis, Eastman, Aitchison and Campbell dissented from the finding on the ground that the meat products rates should be altered immediately.

NEWS OF SOUTHERN COUNTIES

CALEXICO HITS FEDERAL PLANS

Protests Framed Against Moving Gate in Line

Government Building Plot Cause of Disturbance

Mayor Says Proposal Would Jeopardize Welfare

CALEXICO, Jan. 25.—Vigeorous protests are being forwarded to Washington by local civic organizations against the proposal of government representatives to erect a $50,000 Federal building and open a new port of entry at a site one mile east of the business district of Calexico.

The action of business men here was taken as a result of a conference held yesterday between representatives of the Calexico Chamber of Commerce and H. A. Benner, chief of the finance division of the United States Customs Bureau, and J. L. Hughes, assistant commissioner of immigration. The Federal men declared that they had been unable to obtain a satisfactory site adjacent to the present international gateway. Unless the city is able to offer a satisfactory alternative they would be forced to establish the new port at some outlying point, they said.

A joint committee representing the city administration and the Chamber of Commerce is today preparing a protest against the moving of the new line gate away from the business section of town. 'An alternative proposal which will be satisfactory to local property owners also is to be forwarded.

"It would be a business disaster to Calexico if a new gate is established outside of the present business area," declared Mayor Mercier. "Such a move would require a complete readjustment of both property and rental values. This is true for the reason that 60 per cent of Calexico's retail trade now comes from the Mexican side of the line and is dependent on the present location of the international gateway."

Paul Clagstone, western manager of the United States Chamber of Commerce, during a visit here this week, stated that his organization would support the contentions of local business representatives.

Badly Injured Man Hurt Again in Auto Crash

HAWTHORNE, Jan. 25.—Richard Western, 38 years of age, an oil worker of Gardena, miraculously escaped fatal injury yesterday when the ambulance in which he was being removed to the Hawthorne Hospital, following an injury at the Lawndale oil field in which one leg was almost severed from his body, collided with an automobile driven by Mrs. Margaret Stewart of San Carlos.

The collision occurred at the intersection of Ballona and Inglewood avenues. The ambulance left the roadway and crashed into a tree, throwing Western from the stretcher and inflicting minor bruises. He will recover from both injuries, it was said.

REDLANDS VETERANS NAME NEW OFFICERS

REDLANDS, Jan. 25.—At the organization meeting of the Redlands chapter of the Disabled American War Veterans held today, Bruce McDaniel of the Mutual Orange Distributors was named commander. Other officers are: Charles G. Potter, senior vice-commander; W. G. Clary, junior vice-commander; Harry Whaley, adjutant; A. B. Drake, State executive committeeman; Frank M. Godshall, alternate; Dan Whaley, sergeant-at-arms; H. E. Bartow, officer of the day, and Ellsworth M. Wincher, treasurer and service officer. James C. Scott was named on the local executive committee by Commander McDaniel. There were about thirty men at the meeting.

CITRUS BODIES PLAN MODIFIED UNION

YORBA LINDA, Jan. 25.—An agreement for a modified union of the Yorba Linda Citrus Association and the Yorba Linda Co-operative Orange Association, formerly the Foothill Groves, Inc., was reached by representatives of the two groups last evening, and now awaits the decision of the California Citrus Exchange attorney as to the legality of the plan. The two marketing groups plan to use the same packinghouse but to maintain their identities. The move is understood to be in the interest of economy.

ORANGE VETERANS JUBILANT

Chapter First to Attain Membership

Rewarded For Services

SANTA ANA, Jan. 25.—Members of the Orange county chapter of the Disabled Veterans of the World War particularly and ex-service men here generally, were gratified today when it was announced that the chapter was the first of 548 in the United States to attain its allotted membership quota.

Announcement of the chapter's success was made last night at a well-attended and spirited meeting held in the American Legion hall here.

ONE HUNDRED ON ROSTER

The Orange county chapter now has exactly 100 men of the county on its roster who were either injured, shell-shocked, gassed or otherwise disabled in the line of duty in the World War, it was stated.

Under the leadership of Jack Fisher the Orange county chapter has placed itself in the front ranks of ex-service men's organizations, it was pointed out.

Examiner Hears Street Car Plea

SANTA BARBARA, Jan. 25.—The application of the Southern California Edison Company to abandon service on its Santa Barbara and Suburban Railway system was heard before Examiner Handford of the State Railroad Commission here today. The attorneys for the company pointed out that the railway had been a losing proposition for the past twelve years, in spite of increased fares granted by the commission last year.

City officials argued that the Edison company should permit the system to operate for another year at least, as a public necessity. More than 2,000,000 passengers ride on the street cars and busses annually, it was brought out. A decision is expected within the next two months.

Harassed Man Slashes Throat

ANAHEIM, Jan. 25.—After asking his wife to kiss him farewell last night, Battista Ferrari, 45 years of age, local restaurant owner, lay down upon a couch and slashed his throat with a razor, according to the police. Physicians declare he will live.

Investigation by police disclosed that the man fancied himself harassed by certain local people. Doctors had ordered Ferrari, his wife and son to move to the country to escape these asserted imaginary enemies. It was while engaged in packing the household furniture to make the move that Ferrari attempted to take his life.

TORRANCE PIONEER DIES IN HOME TOWN

TORRANCE, Jan. 25.—Funeral services for Mrs. Louisa March, 88 years of age, a resident of Southern California since 1877 and of this city since 1892, were conducted at the chapel of Stone & Myers this morning. Mrs. March, who lived at 1637 West One Hundred and Twenty-first street, helped with the farming of the ranch which occupied this and the harbor district long before it was incorporated, and was a former resident of Riverа. She leaves five children, Mrs. Mary B. Fegal of Tulare; Mrs. Clara Theobold, Mrs. Georgina Orcutt and Henry C. March, here, and Thomas J. March of Los Angeles. Interment was in Evergreen Cemetery.

Woman Fatally Hurt on Street

SAN DIEGO, Jan. 25.—Mrs. Evaline Abbott, 63 years of age, is dead today from injuries received last night, when the rear end of a street car struck her at the Santa Fe Railroad station loop, Coroner Kelly reported.

Mrs. Abbott, whom police say was waiting for another street car, was standing too close to the rail when the trolley passed her. As the rear end of the car circled the loop, Mrs. Abbott was knocked to the pavement.

The police ambulance removed the injured woman to the County Hospital, where she died shortly before noon today.

Motorman A. Gibson was unaware of the accident and proceeded on his journey. He did not learn of the crash until Motorcycle Officer C. H. Graham informed street railway officials, the Coroner said.

An inquest will be held later, Kelly said. Mrs. Abbott lived at 4174 Menlo avenue, police reports show.

CAR'S OWNER FOUND BY OLD WATER BILL

NORTH HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 25. An old, paid water bill, at last has been found of some use. One carelessly dropped on the floor of the car led to the recovery of Mrs. George Robinson's auto that was stolen a few days ago from in front of a theater here. The machine was driven to Los Angeles and left near Seventy-fourth street and Third avenue. It stood unclaimed for two days. Finally a woman in the neighborhood looked into the auto, found the old bill and communicated with Mrs. Robinson and the police here. Within two hours the machine was back into its owners' hands.

BODY OF DETECTIVE BURIED IN VALLEY

NORTH HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 25. Funeral services were conducted for Ellsworth Hamren, detective lieutenant, who, police state, took his life at his home last Friday by turning on the gas in his room. Interment was in Valhalla Cemetery, east of here. Hamren was was one of the first police officers to be stationed here. Later he was transferred to the detective bureau in Los Angeles. Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Hamren, the parents, reside in this section. Hamren was an ex-service man and a Mason. The services at the grave were conducted by members of the local Legion post.

BANDIT TRIO IN HOLD-UP

San Diego Coffee Shop Victim of Daring Robbery by Men Suspected of Other Southland Crimes

SAN DIEGO, Jan. 25.—Deputy sheriffs and police were searching today for a trio of automobile hold-up men who, traveling southward, stopped at the Encinitas Hotel coffee shop about 1 a.m. and "relieved" Fred Harting, night cook, of about $20.

The bandits pulled up at the shop with horn blaring and left the same way, according to Hartig. Two men, described as a "small Jew and a large Swede," about 21 and 30 years of age, respectively, dashed into the shop. The cook was covered with a small revolver and told to "come across," which he did. Then the pair rejoined their companion in the car and it roared off to the southward with horn in full blast.

In the meantime the Sheriff's office was notified and Deputies Kennedy and Mason headed north to intercept the bandits. While on the Rose Canyon road their car was forced to swerve sharply to avoid a speeding automobile coming south.

The officers pursued, but their car would make only fifty miles per hour, while the bandit's automobile was said to be going about eighty. Finally the quarry escaped into the night.

Police believe that the trio was responsible for the slugging of L. B. Collier, cashier of Wilson & Co., Wednesday noon on a downtown street corner, and the attempted robbery of Lillian Gale near Lemon Grove Monday night.

EL MONTE SITE RECOMMENDED

San Gabriel Group Forming Booster Committee

Plot Considered Ideal for Major Airport Area

Main Runway Would Measure 10,000 Feet in Wind

PASADENA, Jan. 25.—Proposing that the county acquire the El Monte site as a major airport terminal, recommendations were set forth last night at a conference of the airport committee of the San Gabriel Valley Development Association, held here at the Maryland Hotel, that a committee of fifteen or more be appointed from the ranks of the general committee to present the matter before the County Board of Supervisors, requesting that they take immediate action in acquiring the El Monte site, otherwise known as number eight on the master map plan compiled by the Regional Planning Commission of Los Angeles.

Members of the executive committee who will be appointed within the next several days by Louis Mathews, president of the association, will confer with the Board of Supervisers some time next week.

AVAILABILITY SHOWN

A map of the entire San Gabriel Valley also drawn up by the Regional Planning Commission, showing available property that could be used for airports, displayed to excellent advantage the feasibility of the El Monte site, not only for its adequacy in size, but accessibility in reaching Los Angeles.

The proposed site comprises 968 acres, and lies just north of El Monte at the junction of the Rio Hondo and San Gabriel rivers. The size of the field will afford two landing circles, and will have a runway of 10,000 feet in the direction of the wind, and 5500 feet in transverse with the wind.

Meteorological conditions of the field are said by experts to be perfect, and the field itself, with the exception of the City Hall of Los Angeles, is the most easily identified spot in the county from the air.

In harmony with the activities of the aeronautical committee of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, Charles Diggs, director, and William J. Fox, chief engineer, of the Regional Planning Commission, have laid out a plan whereby inadequate airports for the future mass production of airplanes, may be prevented, and an economic program be instituted at once.

HIGHWAY PLAN FOLLOWED

We have followed our major highway plans in drawing up the airport map, Fox stated, and our preliminary steps, which constituted a survey of airports in Los Angeles county revealed the startling facts that of the fifty-one airports in the county, not one of the entire number are suitable as a major terminal.

The airports constitute our present system which exists because of suffrage of owners who would rather lease the small parcels of land in outlying districts, than farm it.

Actual graphical growth depicted by mathematical procedure, shows that the present ratio is 3700 persons per plane in the United States. Density of airplanes predicted by the chart, in thirty years will drop to a ratio of 500.

The first thing to consider in locating a major air terminal, Fox states, is its close proximately to the metropolis, and the fact that it takes thirty-five minutes to travel from Mines Field back to Los Angeles after flying directly over the city, is not consistent with the other gains in speed made by the plane from its starting point to its destination. The ratio must be reduced to ten minutes to retain a consistent program, Fox declared.

MASS PRODUCTION NEAR

Mass production of planes is on the threshhold and major terminals should now be included in general plans to care for larger types of planes and smaller field for taxi planes and small craft, according to the comprehensive program prepared by the commission for the future growth in aviation.

According to Lieut. Paul Penland, active member of the aeronautical committee of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, the proposed El Monte site is the finest field as a major terminal the nation. Lieut. Penland bases his statement from years spent in the air both abroad and here.

The El Monte site has also won the indorsement of the Pacific Electric Railway Company, Southern Pacific and well-known financiers of Los Angeles, as well as Donald Baker, consulting engineer of the Los Angeles City Planning Commission, George Winfield Scott of the Municipal League and Taxpayers' Association, and many others.

Paddock Defeat Laid to Himself

PASADENA, Jan. 25.—Because he is said to have embarrassed Leslie B. Henry, chairman of the New Year's Day football game committee, by suggesting that Detroit University might be as suitable an opponent for the University of California as Georgia Tech, Charles W. Paddock, world champion sprinter, was defeated for election to the board of directors of the Tournament of Roses Association, it was revealed today. Paddock was nominated by City Director Shupe in the annual meeting last night.

When Henry referred to the "embarrassment created" as the result of Paddock's asserted suggestion that Georgia Tech and the University of Detroit stage a play-off game, the winner to play California, a heated debate was precipitated.

OPEN VERDICT DELIVERED

Authorities of Orange County Seemingly No Nearer to Facts of Cause of Death of Ferdinand Merz

FULLERTON, Jan. 25.—Authorities were apparently no nearer a solution to the mystery surrounding the death of Ferdinand Merz, Pasco (Wash.) railroad man whose body was found by the Santa Fe tracks south of here on the 19th inst., following an inquest at the McAulay & Suters funeral chapel late today. An open verdict was returned. The verdict of the Coroner's jury stated, "Death was due to the severing of the left carotid artery, left internal vein and the trachea. We are unable to state whether this was murder or suicide."

Investigators offered no new evidence or late developments to strengthen the suspicion of murder, the questionable angles of the case centering about the actions of a mysterious stranger, who boarded the train here with Merz, and who left it at Anaheim and was seen walking back up the track toward the spot where the body was found.

Charles M. O'Brien, Pasco attorney, representing Jacob Merz, brother of the dead man, assisted Coroner Brown in questioning witnesses and took the stand himself to testify regarding the past history of the decedent.

"There was nothing to believe that he (Merz) was not of sound mind," O'Brien stated. "He was in my office last, on the 11th inst. At that time I assisted him in applying for a passport to Germany where he planned to go to visit his sisters. He left Pasco abruptly several days later, although he had not planned to go for ten days. A full month's pay was due from the Northern Pacific Railroad by which he was employed as a car inspector."

C. A. Bacon, conductor on the train from which Merz fell, told of finding bloodstains on the step of the smoking car when he reached Anaheim, but had only vague reports from passengers of a man falling off. Charles Walker, station agent at Anaheim for the Santa Fe, cast a possible shade of murder on the case when he told of a stranger, answering the description of a man seen with Merz at Fullerton, who was walking back up the track toward the body.

Walker did not reach the body when he first started, he reported, returning to the station and starting back later in an automobile with George Pace, express agent, finally reaching the scene of the tragedy.

Pace told of seeing two persons apparently bending over something near where Merz's body was found, when he halted his car on Orangethorp avenue, about a quarter of a mile north. The men ran from the scene, he said. Pace did not get out of his car, but returned to Anaheim and brought back Walker and the two went to investigate.

W. A. Pike, brakeman on a work train, testified that he was the first to see the body and remaining with it until Walker and Pace returned, Chief of Police J. M. Pearson of Fullerton arriving soon afterward.

Further investigation of the possibility of foul play was being made by county officers despite the open verdict returned by the Coroner's jury. The stranger, apparently with Merz, who dropped from sight following the tragedy, is the objective of a widespread search now being conducted under the direction of Sheriff Sam Jernigan.

OLD COUPLE GREETED IN OPEN HOUSE

Mr. and Mrs. J. Colton Honored at Celebration of Golden Wedding

BURBANK, Jan. 25.—Open-house was held today at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Huntley at 622 North Tujunga street in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Colton's golden wedding anniversary. Mr. Colton is 72 years of age, while his wife is 68.

Mr. Colton, whose brother, Gen. David D. Colton, named the City of Colton after their father, came to Los Angeles from Utah in a covered wagon in 1859. He was only 2 years of age when his mother, who followed her husband to the Eldorado of the West, arrived at the Plaza in Los Angeles, he said today.

He married Addie Rollins, daughter of J. L. Rollins, the owner of the first store in San Bernardino, in 1879. She had followed him to California, also, in an oxen-drawn wagon in 1864 from Colton's home State. The Coltons came to Burbank twenty-six years ago and Mr. Colton established a feed store. A few years later he was employed by the City of Los Angeles as a patrolman along the Los Angeles River, a post which he held for eighteen years.

"Fight hard," Mr. Colton told his two daughters, Mrs. Minnie E. Piersons and Mrs. Minerva Huntley, both of this city, and his six grandchildren today, during the entertainment in their honor. "The one rule which I kept through life is 'Fight Hard and Don't Mind the Knocks.'" The Coltons live at 706 Lake street.

Burglars Steal Monrovia Safe in Daring Haul

MONROVIA, Jan. 25.—After making a daring getaway with a heavy safe from the store of the Western Auto Supply Company here early last night, unknown bandits deposited their haul on the city dumping grounds on South Mountain avenue, where they pried the safe open and took $130 as a reward for their trouble, according to Chief of Police Scott who, with Glenn Wilson of the identification bureau of the Sheriff's office, investigated the robbery today.

According to Night Patrolman G. M. Lillie, he found the front door of the store open at 7:05 while making his rounds and immediately phoned the manager, M. F. Aufderheide.

A few minutes afterward, E. L. Eliquist of Mountain avenue notified police that some people were pounding loudly on something in the dumping grounds below his home and that the noise was disturbing him. Before police arrived, Eliquist stated, the small car speeded away.

The robbers were no doubt professionals as they left no fingerprints on the safe or papers, according to Wilson. Police believe that the robbery was perpetrated by the same bandits who committed a similar safe burglary in Alhambra last week.

VICTIM OF ACCIDENT SOUGHT IN SOUTHLAND

ANAHEIM, Jan. 25.—Missing since Tuesday from the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Milbrat, who reside three miles southwest of here, Julius Milbrat today is the object of a police search throughout Southern California. He was in an automobile accident near San Diego last Saturday and his parents fear that his mind has been effected. He is described as 23 years of age, five feet eleven inches tall, and weighs 175 pounds.

YOUTH SHOT IN LEG WHEN CHUM STUMBLES

ARTESIA, Jan. 25.—Accidentally shot in the legs yesterday afternoon when a chum stumbled, causing a shotgun carried by the latter to discharge, De Leon Salvadore, Los Alamitos youth, was in a serious condition today. With two other huntsmen Salvadore was walking across the prairies south of Artesia several miles when the mishap occurred.

REDONDO SEEKING NEW HEALTH CENTER

REDONDO BEACH, Jan. 25.—A citizens' committee, headed by O. N. Tomlinson of the Chamber of Commerce, is to present to the City Council at its next meeting a proposal that this city make a bid for the health center for this district, if the county Board of Supervisors install one. The move follows closely that of Santa Monica, Compton and Alhambra, which have secured health center buildings valued at about $75,000. Support of a number of civic organizations here has already been pledged. This city is already included in an arrangement with the county by which its health problems are handled under contract and temporary headquarters for the district are in the City Hall.

Y.M.C.A. OPENS SESSIONS

Busy Program Scheduled for Conclave in Long Beach With Many Celebrities Listed to Speak

LONG BEACH, Jan. 25.—State, national and international leaders in the Young Men's Christian Association gathered here today at the opening session of the forty-eighth annual State convention of that organization. A luncheon meeting at the First Methodist Church, Fifth street and Pacific avenue, marked the beginning of the conclave which will come to a close here Sunday night.

Prominent among today's speakers was Bishop Burns of San Francisco, resident bishop of the Methodist Church in California, Arizona, Nevada and the Hawaiian Islands.

"The word Christian has not yet been dropped out of Y.M.C.A.," he told his hearers. "Christ is still the pivotal center of its activities." The three marks of a modern Y.M.C.A. he said, are a simple creed, social progress and a social spirit.

A laymen's meeting followed the opening session, with Charles J. Truman, Dr. W. S. Ford, George H. Jelte, Dr. John L. Burcham, George D. McDill, J. C. Byers, H. C. Carr, C. S. Albro and C. S. Griffith, State leaders of the organization, as the speakers.

A citizens' banquet was the feature tonight at the Hotel Virginia, where Charles P. Taft, son of former President Taft, and Sherwood Eddy, national leader, were the principal speakers. William M. Cook, of this city, former chairman of the State council of the Y.M.C.A., acted as toastmaster. Today's luncheon meeting was presided over by O. H. Barr, of Santa Ana, State chairman.

High lights of tomorrow's program include an address by Eddy at the First Methodist Church at the morning session. At 11 a.m. a series of brief talks will be given by young men delegates to the convention. A conference set for 11:45 a.m. will be addressed by Taft to be followed by a luncheon at 12:30, at which Dr. Roy Agaki, Japanese student leader, will be the speaker. All sessions of the conference have been opened to the public.

YOUTH ACHIEVES RECORD IN RADIO

Charles Perrine

AMATEUR CREATES POSITION

Outstanding Student of Hermosa School Honored for Wireless Work

HERMOSA BEACH, Jan. 25.—Achievement as an amateur radio operator brought Charles Perrine, 17-year-old boy, distinction as the outstanding student of this year's graduating class of the Union High School here today.

Young Perrine is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Charles Perrine of 40 Twenty-first street, here. The father is a scientist, now director of the Observatorio Nacional of the Argentine Republic and formerly was with the Lick Observatory at Mt. Hamilton.

A home-made radio station, much of which he has manufactured himself after school hours, supplies the lad with the means of talking with hundreds of far-distant stations, such as New Zealand and Mesopotamia. Daily communication with Dr. Perrine is made through station 1-A-H at Chuquicamata. The district is in the heart of the copper mining region of the Argentine and young Perrine's achievements bring him hundreds of requests every month for communication with relatives of persons stationed there.

Much of his success, his teachers say, is credited to his exceptional ingenuity in his work, which has twice come to the attention of marine radio operators through communication with vessels.

Young Perrine, who is said to be an unusually good student, expects to pursue a technical course after graduation. His interest in radio began about five years ago before it was generally recognized and while the family was living in Cordoba, Argentina.

Imperial Valley Shows Excellent Record for 1928

EL CENTRO, Jan. 25.—During 1928, Imperial Valley shipped to market 537,121 carloads of field products and live stock, having a gross value of $61,283,399, according to figures released today by the Imperial County Board of Trade.

The largest item in the list is the cantaloupe crop, the estimated value of which was $19,460,000. Lettuce took second place with a gross value of $10,252,000.

The total value of real estate and personal property in the Imperial basin is placed at $187,607,784. The population of the valley is now estimated as 73,895 and the number of farms, 4759.

RED CROSS PLANS ANNUAL ELECTION

SIERRA MADRE, Jan. 25.—Annual reports and election of officers of Sierra Madre Chapter of the American Red Cross will be held next Monday afternoon in the council chambers of the City Hall, according to W. R. Humphries, chairman. The meeting will be held at 4:30 o'clock. Examinations in first aid, a course being sponsored locally by the chapter, will be held next Friday and Red Cross diplomas will be awarded to those eligible, Humphries said today.

Redlands Dines Commissioners for Highways

REDLANDS, Jan. 25.—Members of the State Highway Commission were honor guests at a luncheon here today given by the Chamber of Commerce. The visitors are inspecting the State highway in this section and go from here to Indio, Imperial Valley and then back to San Bernardino.

While the Highway Commission does not make a practice of annual inspection tours, Sullivan said, members of the commission frequently go over all road projects in the State.

CHECK ADDRESSES RIVERSIDE GROUP

RIVERSIDE, Jan. 25.—Announcing his firm conviction that additional secondary roads should be included in the State's highway system, B. B. Meek, director of the State Department of Public Works, last night addressed a conference of highway officials, County Supervisors and city officials at the Mission Inn. Meek referred to the bills now before the Legislature providing for the inclusion of virtually 1000 miles of secondary roads in the north and more than one in the south. He scored "log rolling" methods and urged that a "non-political study" of the highway situation by the Highway Commission be permitted before action is taken. Meek agreed that there were many miles of country roads that should be included in the State system and could be properly taken over after sufficient survey and appraisal of all claims had been made. He stated as his belief that the opening wedge should be permitted at this time.

THEOSOPHICAL CAMP WILL BE IMPROVED

VENTURA, Jan. 25.—Louis Bahl of Duluth, Minn., manager of the Ojai camp near Meiners Oaks, where nearly 1000 persons assembled last May to attend the annual congress of the Order of the Star, international theosophical society, has been in the valley this week inspecting the camp property and conferring with George Hall, who is assistant, regarding work to be done in preparatory to opening the camp next spring. A dining pavilion to seat about 500 persons will be built, construction beginning this week, and additions to the sanitary system will be made. The work on the open air theater designed by Bertram Goodhue, Shakespearian actor, is being completed with the planting of shrubbery.

CONFESSED OIL THIEF GRANTED PROBATION

SANTA ANA, Jan. 25.—Jack Lawson, ex-foreman of the Manning lease at Huntington Beach who confessed to systematically stealing oil in wholesale quantities from the Standard Oil Company, was granted probation for a period of two years when he appeared before Superior Judge Allen. Lawson had pleaded guilty to the theft of 1000 barrels of oil, valued at $3000.

Free-Swinging Fight Turns Arena Into Madhouse

Garden Bout Witnessed by 20,000 Roaring Fans

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN NEW YORK, Jan. 25. (AP)—That accident from Akron, courageous K. O. Christner, all but happened to Jack Sharkey, the garrulous gob from Boston, tonight in a wild, free-swinging ten-round melee that turned the spacious Garden into a madhouse with close to 20,000 roaring inmates.

The sailor man from New [illegible] with his $100,000 engagement against Young Stribling in Miami Beach hanging in the balance, managed to win the decision over the night for Madison Square Garden. But not until all [illegible] supporters and the promoters [illegible] the battle of the southland had [illegible] the gravest fears for the [illegible].

Christner, woefully green but [illegible], came out of the [illegible] with a load of punching [illegible] that was a constant threat every minute of the [illegible] rounds. He won only three of them, in the consensus of [illegible] at the ringside, while Sharkey's splendid condition and dogged grit, kept him from the canvas in seven rounds.

The Boston battler, fighting his [illegible] engagement before tackling Stribling in the first of the major [illegible] elimination, outboxed the [illegible]-chested rubber worker, and [illegible] a strange brand of caution [illegible] savagery, slugged his way out [illegible] several difficulties. He made [illegible], 34 years of age, but a [illegible] boxer for only the past [illegible], was child-like as he sent [illegible] shots in Kayo's totally [illegible] body.

FREE AND EASY

THERE'S a lot of big money talk in the air these days. Its comes and goes like the evening zephyrs—$100,000 for Mickey Walker to defend his middleweight crown against Ace Hudkins at Las Vegas, Nev., July 4; $50,000 for Tommy Loughran to defend his light heavyweight crown against Ace Hudkins.

The latter bid is sponsored by Art Hudkins, brother of the "Wildcat," to which the Loughran representatives respond by a request for the name of the promoter. Art says Loughran finds it harder to beat the little fellows than he does the big ones, so he's putting in for a bout in which the "Wildcat" would be outweighed fifteen pounds.

Although a lot of the good folks of our fair community are skeptical about a July 4 bout at Las Vegas in the blistering summer heat the promoter-to-be, Mr. Thomas Kennedy, goes about the business of steaming up the works systematically. He has a reservation with Western Air Express to fly there today and he also reported yesterday that Jack Kearns and Mickey Walker have made similar arrangements to fly down Tuesday. The Hudkinses are leaving by train today for the Nevada town to make personal observations of a contract to be tendered there tomorrow.

And so it goes—the ballyhoo is great.

A FUTURE CHAMP

IN THE meantime the manager of the next featherweight champion (I have the manager's word for this) is looking askance at the publicity given the Loughran-Emanuel bout.

The gentleman I refer to is a short, pudgy individual with an engaging smile. His name is Art Winch, and his boy Earl Mastro meets Kid Francis in a sweet fight at the Olympic next Tuesday—one week ahead of the heavyweight encounter.

Mr. Winch is afraid in the excitement over the big fellows the dear old public will forget all about the little chaps.

However, Mr. Winch has received some assurance from the promoter staging the fight and others that the business will be quite good when his boy Mastro meets that other good boy, Kid Francis, the European bantamweight champion.

Mr. Winch looks upon his boy as the featherweight champion of the world by the end of the current year, and he does not hesitate to predict a win for his boy.

YOUNG STRIBLING STOPS RALPH SMITH IN THIRD

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 25. (AP)—W. L. "Young" Stribling, of Macon, Ga., contender for the heavyweight championship throne vacated by Gene Tunney, won a technical knockout here tonight over Ralph Smith, Los Angeles giant, in the third round of their ten-round bout.

Stribling floored his opponent four times in the first round, once in the second and once again in the third. Then the referee stopped the bout.

When the massive Californian stood up in his corner before the fight started the fans gazed apprehensively at his 222 pounds and at his six feet five and one-half inches in height. Stribling, who weighed 184, looked like a dwarf beside his opponent.

In only a few seconds of the first round, Stribling had Smith on his knees and then, for the remainder of the period it was a case of up again, down again for the Californian.

Stribling hit Smith at will, raining blows on the body and face. One of the first blows landed on the Californian's nose which bled during the remainder of the contest.

Stribling was complete master of the second, and after sparring a while in the third, Stribling's left shot into the Californian's jaw and he went down again. Smith arose, but it was apparent that he was in no condition to fight and the referee called a half.

OCCIDENTAL FACES CALTECH IN CONFERENCE HOOP TILT

Coach Rattle Kienholz's Occidental [illegible] will journey away from [illegible] for the first tilt outside of their own gymnasium today when the Bengal basket tossers take on Caltech in the second of a two-game series at Pasadena. Freshmen teams will play a preliminary tilt.

Kienholz will not deviate from his usual custom to open the fray against his foes with the first-string quintet. [illegible] Capt. Ernie Ketchersid and Elliott at forwards; Bob [illegible], center, and Ted Ellsworth and [illegible] guards.

The Engineers will stack their [illegible] squad opposite the Tech [illegible] team strength. Capt. [illegible] leads the Pasadena attack from the guard post, his mate [illegible] Hugh Pratt and Freedenhall are the forwards and Frank Bernardi the center. Carl Tutschulte, forward, and Hodder, guard, are among the leading Engineer substitutes certain to get action.

Oxy easily defeated Tech in the first game between these squads by a 48-22 score. The basket shooting of Ketchersid, Getts, Elliott and Ellsworth proved too much for the Pasadenans in this fast tilt. If Capt. Cramers and Sinram can halt this scoring machine and Pratt and Freedenhall hit their stride tonight, the Oxy boys may find a surprise in store for them.

The game will be held at the McKinley High School gymnasium and starts at 8:15 o'clock. The freshmen play at 7:15.

In the two other conference games, Whittier is favored to triumph over Redlands on the Bulldogs' home court, although the recent close battle which the latter team gave Occidental may bring about an upset of the Poets; and Pomona is expected to triumph over La Verne on the Sagehen court. San Diego gets a bye.

RANCHO RIDERS DEFEAT ANZACS

Invading Four Wins Tilt by 11-to-8 Margin

Three Spills Mark Contest at Midwick Club

Hitchcock Plays Brilliant Polo in Debut

BY FRANK ROCHE

A short dose of Tommy Hitchcock, polo's premier star, which is always easy to take, and three nasty spills which made everybody gulp were among the things served to Southland mallet fans yesterday afternoon at the Midwick Country Club, where the Rancho San Carlos riders galloped to an easy victory over a combination Australian and Midwick team by an 11-to-8 score. The performance of Hitchcock and the spills which occurred in the first, seventh and eighth chukkers provided one of the most exciting afternoons in the history of the Midwick club.

One spill in which Elmer Boeseke, Midwick star, and Capt. Walford figured in was one of the most spectacular ever witnessed on the Purple field. Boeseke and Walford, an English army player, who was riding with the San Carlos team, were both thrown over their mounts in a collision that looked like a sure disaster. Luckily neither man was hurt badly although Boeseke was shaken up considerably. This occurred in the seventh chukker. The other spills were taken by Walford in the first and one by Curtis Skene, an Australian player, in the eighth chukker. Neither time was either hider hurt.

TOMMY IN STAR ROLE

To get back to the game itself, it was a walkaway for the San Carlos riders from the time that Hitchcock entered the affair. Tommy, making his initial bow of the 1929 polo season, gave the fans a brilliant performance.

He made four of the eleven goals scored by the Rancho riders and he was responsible for six of the others scored by the visiting horsemen.

Tommy entered the game in the third chukker in Capt. Walford's place. The Anzac-Midwick team was leading by a 2-to-1 margin and furthermore they looked better than the Rancho team. When Tommy got in the game on his international pony Tobiano, the entire picture was changed. Hitchcock simply rode rings around the rest of the field.

Tommy batted the white pill around the field, sailing it almost half-way to the goal line on one stroke at times while the crowd roared with approval. Alden Roark rode one through that Tommy sent up and the score was tied as the third period ended.

RANCHO LOOKS GOOD

From the third period on with Hitchcock in the Rancho players looked like a million dollars. Whenever they got in bad danger Tommy would swoop in and save the ball for them. Hitchcock scored one goal

CHAPLAIN APPOINTED BY BOARD

Commission Names Kelley to Officiate; Lou Daro Offers Cash

SAN DIEGO, Jan. 25.—California now has an official boxing chaplain. Assembled here today for the regular January meeting the State Athletic Commission appointed Leslie C. Kelley, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church in San Francisco, to that position.

Following the appointment of Kelley, the commission authorized the taking of one and only one charity collection each year at clubs with the consent of owners. Money so obtained will be placed in a fund to be administered by a committee of three at the direction of Mr. Kelley.

Lou Daro, Los Angeles wrestling promoter, offered a percentage of one of his next big shows to start the fund.

Application for a boxing permit for Azusa was denied, when a volume of protesting petitions was presented. A permit for a club at Watsonville was granted, as was one for the Pico Athletic Club, between Los Angeles and Whittier.

Petition for a license to operate a club on the East Side of Los Angeles was continued for further investigation. Granting the license would conflict with the rule made by the commission not to grant new permits in 1929 in cities where clubs already are established.

PREXY'S EDICT FAVORS COACH

Spencer Refuses to Sanction Contract Termination

Dismissal by Board Without Cause, Arbiter Finds

Court of Law Sole Appeal Left to Students

SEATTLE, Jan. 25. (AP)—Enoch Bagshaw will remain as head football coach of the University of Washington until his contract expires three years hence, President M. Lyle Spencer ruled tonight.

The only appeal left to students who oppose the appeal is a court of law, Dr. Spencer's decision was reached after a week of conferences following an ouster of Bagshaw by the student board of control and the refusal of the faculty athletic committee to approve the dismissal. Immediately before the announcement of his verdict, the president had been in prolonged sessions with the faculty athletic committee, Bagshaw and the coach's attorney.

Dr. Spencer's opinion on the matter was addressed to Smith Troy, president of the associated students of the university and was released by the faculty athletic committee tonight. The president was not in his office when copies of his opinion were given out and his ruling made known.

The president pointed out that during the discussion he had consulted with many persons relative to the dismissal of the coach and had sought legal advice on the technical phases of the matter.

ACTION UNJUSTIFIED

"The issue now is not whether we would make a new contract with Mr. Bagshaw, but whether we shall terminate a contract already entered into by the board of control with the concurrence of the faculty athletic committee," the president said. Referring to the resolution of the student control board in which Mr. Bagshaw was ousted from the position of head football coach, Dr. Spencer declared that to sanction it would be sanctioning a breach of contract unless justified by very substantial failure of proper performance on his part.

"The action of the board does not purport to be a dismissal for cause," the president declared. "It attempts to assign Mr. Bagshaw to other duties, thus enabling him to draw the stipulated compensation. He was employed primarily, however, to coach, and is not required to devote his services exclusively to other duties. In

Weakened Quintet Faces Trojans at Olympic Tonight in First of Three-Game Series

BY BRAVEN DYER

"Hell's Bells." Capt. Sammy Balter, leader of the University of California at Los Angeles basketball team, was last night fired off the squad. Capt. Sammy, therefore, will not lead the Bruins into action against the Trojans of Southern California at the Olympic tonight.

Balter, along with a number of other students, aroused faculty ire by the publication of a scandal sheet, bearing the rather startling heading "Hell's Bells. The professors, so it is said, took exception to much contained therein and Capt. Sammy, being one of the moving spirits behind the whole enterprise, was promptly booted off the basketball team.

The blow is a tough one for Caddy Works, as good a coach as there is in this basketball business. Already handicapped by an injury to Larry Wilds, veteran forward, the Bruins will go into tonight's game on the short end of things, whereas only a day ago they were heavy favorites to wallop the none too-impressive Trojan quintet.

INDEFINITELY SUSPENDED

Balter is under indefinite suspension at U.C.L.A., twelve other students, none of them athletes, being mixed up in the affair. Certainly an unlucky number for Capt. Sammy and Coach Works.

Bob Baker, stalwart guard, has been laid up with the flu. Just another bit of grief for Works. Caddy was undecided last night just what he would do for a starting line-up, but it seemed certain that at least two regulars

If the same 10,000 attend, however, they will witness a basketball game which will rival the gridiron contest for thrills and action. LOUGHRAN, EMANUEL START TRAINING FOR OLYMPIC GO

BY KAY OWE

Opening the training grind almost simultaneously Tommy Loughran and Armand Emanuel yesterday went through their first workouts for the heavyweight natural at the Olympic February 5, next.

Both fighters are training at the Manhattan. Emanuel preceded rounds of boxing with Roy Moore by shadow boxing, bag punching and rope skipping. He is fresh from his fight with Harry Dillon in Minneapolis and looked fast and in good shape.

There was a big crowd on hand at the Manhattan when Loughran opened up on the floor following Emanuel's session and they saw the light-heavyweight king go through almost the same program as Emanuel.

He followed his floor work with three rounds in the ring with Dynamite Jackson, a colored chap variously reported as 17, 19 and 20 years of age. Dynamite was tough and gave Tommy a splendid workout.

It was Loughran's first workout since leaving Philadelphia and, although he took things easy, he looked impressive with his broad shoulders and piston left.

Both fighters will work at the same place today, but tomorrow Emanuel goes to Long Beach to train, while Loughran and his party will visit Catalina Island.

HORTON SMITH AND DUDLEY SIZZLE ICY COURSE TO TIE FOR LEAD IN TEXAS CLASSIC

SAN ANTONIO (Tex.) Jan. 25. (AP) Horton Smith of Joplin, Mo., and Ed Dudley of Los Angeles, playing in the same threesome, burned up a wintry course here today for a pair of 69's to lead the field in the first round of the Texas open golf tournament.

From the first tee the golfers faced a north wind which kept temperatures close to the freezing point and the scores of the leaders were regarded as unusually good considering conditions. This was especially true of the scores turned in by the Smith-Dudley-Walsh threesome. Dudley and Smith bettered par by two strokes and Walsh was

L. A. High Noses Out Hollywood, 27-22; Fairfax Captures Minor City League Title

ROMANS COME FROM BEHIND

Victors Finish Strong to Cop Hectic Tussle

Pioneers Face Manual for Gonfalon Tuesday

BY BOB RAY

With a fighting finish that saw a five-point Hollywood lead brushed aside in the final six minutes of play, Coach Al Hemsath's battling Roman cagers yesterday came from behind to nose out Bill Paige's Foothillers, 27 to 22, before a crowd of wild-eyed fans that taxed the capacity of the L. A. High gym.

COACH HEMSATH

The victory, which was the Roman's fifth straight, tied them for the league lead with the Manual Tollers, whom they meet for the city championship in the L. A. High gym Tuesday.

The Hollywooders came mighty close to upsetting the Romans' applecart and would have beaten a team that did not have the never-say-die spirit of the Blue and White cagers. It looked like a Hollywood victory with two minutes of the fourth quarter over, for the Foothillers were then leading, 22-17, and had been outplaying the Roman five throughout the last half.

However, at this juncture, the Blue and White cagers began locating the hoop with a regularity that was distressing to the Hollywood rooters. A free throw by Jerry Nemer, who won high-point honors with ten scores, started the Romans up grade. A field goal by Nemer and then a long shot by Tower evened the score, 22-all, with but four minutes to go. The Roman attack, gathering momentum as it went along, continued to baffle the bewildered Hollywood defense and field goals by Capt. Shapiro and McMahon and another free throw by Nemer gave the Blue and White quintet its triumph with five points to spare.

The game was a thriller all the way and, we'd like to add, perfectly officiated by Frampton and Laurenson, who were working under the difficulty of having the fans crowded right down to the side lines on all four sides of the court.

The Romans started strong and at one time enjoyed an 8-1 lead, only to have their defense break and the Foothillers to climb up to within one point of a tie as the half ended.

Three field goals by Binkley, Hollywood center, who found an open spot in the Roman defense, helped the Hollywooders to take an 18-17 lead as the third period ended. When Binkley and Forbes found the bucket for two more field goals to open the last quarter it looked all over for the Romans. But the Blue and White cagers got their attack functioning in time and breezed on to victory with that ten-point rally previously described.

Capt. Shapiro and Dud Tower, the Roman guards, played their customary brilliant game, while the floor work of Pancho Eberly and "Bink" Binkley was outstanding for the losers.

In the preliminary affair the Hollywood lightweights upset the dope by thumping the Roman "Bees," 28 to 13. Thirteen Hollywood points in the last quarter turned the game into a rout. Watkins and Markowitz of Hollywood and Fallas of L. A. High starred.

TIGERS ON TOP

In a game featured by fouls and free throws, Coach Hap Van Pelt's Lincoln melon tossers crushed the strong Jefferson High cage five under a 32-to-24 score yesterday afternoon. The tussle, which was held on the Democrats' court, found the reserve power of both squads fighting it out in the fourth period.

The squads played on even terms up to the last period, the score resting 23 to 21 in favor of the Democrats at the end of the third quarter. In the last period the Tigers proved too strong for the Jefferson boys, holding the Democrats to a lone field goal by Chino Mitre, while they rang up a total of 11 points.

Mitre, Sexton and Von Bulow led the Democrats' scoring. The Tigers' scoring threat, Bill Pazdra, rang up 8 digits to cinch high-point honors.

Coach Pop Bates's Bee cagers handed the Democrat Class B squad their first defeat of the season in the curtain-raiser, Lincoln winning by a score of 22 to 17.

FAMOUS AUTHOR LANDS JEWFISH

HERMOSA BEACH, Jan. 25.—When Sergt. Guy Empey, famous war author, came ashore yesterday afternoon with a jew fish weighing close to 300 pounds, it was Empey's first experience with big game now present twenty fathoms down under the Olympic barge and the two hours required to bring the monster to gaff had the man of "Over the Top" going from the time of pick-up until the fish was flipped on deck.

RICKARD'S STORY TOMORROW

Another chapter in the life of the world's greatest fight promoter will appear exclusively in The Times tomorrow. Dyed-in-the-wool sports fans hail Rickard's autobiography as one of the most interesting features ever printed. Read and judge for yourself.

Playing Stymie Rule of Game

BY SOL METZGER

How often does our opponent say, "We won't play stymies today." That may be all well and good but they are doing it these days in golf because it happens to be the rule of the game. You either play them or you don't golf according to the book.

They rarely worry stars, the short one especially when both balls are close to the hole. Under those conditions all stars use the same method. They use a lofted club, usually a niblic, and swing it very much as for a putt—straight back and through on line, letting the loft jump the ball. The scheme is to keep the clubhead low going through.

The trick of the stunt is to strike the ball just hard enough to have it drop directly into the cup. If you try to bounce it along the turf so it will reach the cup in this way the chances are it will not hit the cup on one of its bounces.

Par golfers make their approaches stick. Metzger's printed and illustrated leaflet, "The Art of Pitching," explains in detail how to do this. Send stamped, addressed envelope to Sol Metzger, in care of "The Times" and ask for it.

in the fourth period, two in the fifth and he served another up to Walford, who had come back in the game in Forrester's place for a goal.

In the sixth period George Gordon Moore took advantage of one of the many Tommy sent up and he banged the ball across for another goal. Roark got one on a pass from Tommy and then Hitchcock banged through another one which sailed high in the air before going over. Curtis Skene and Jim Spaulding broke through with goals for the Anzac team. The spill between Boeseke and Walford occurred in the next chukker and it slowed up the game a little for a while.

Skene and Walford got goals in the seventh, as did Capt. White. Moore missed one right in front of goal that Tommy put up for him. His pony swerved just as he was about to push it across.

MORE SCORES

The last period was a hard riding one with the losers trying to catch up with the flying Hitchcock. Jim Spaulding made one goal for the Anzacs and then Moore came through on a shot from Tommy and made one for Rancho. Spaulding made one for the Anzacs just as the game was called. Skeene spilled from his pony in this period but was unhurt.

Hitchcock will appear tomorrow at the Midwick club and he will ride a full game. Capt. Walford will remain on the sidelines. The Midwick team that will oppose the Rancho riders tomorrow will be made up of Teddy Miller, Hal Roach, Elmer Boeseke and Edward Baldwin.

The line-ups yesterday:

San Carlos (11)		Anzac-Midwick (8)
Moore (2)	No. 1	Beverage (1) Spaulding (3)
Forrester	No. 2	Skeine (2)
Hitchcock (4) Walford (2)	No. 3	Pearson (1) White (1)
Roark (3)	Back	Boeseke

Umpire, Neil McCarthy; timekeeper, W. D. Medill.

COLONIAL FIVE COPS PENNANT

Belmont Hilltoppers Lose in Crucial Tilt

Fremont Pathfinders Down Roosevelt Team

Harding Quintet Nose Out Garfield, 18-15

Coach Ross Bowen's Fairfax Colonials won the Minor City League basketball title for the second consecutive season yesterday afternoon by handing Coach John Buehler's Belmont cagers a 30-15 licking. The game was played before a capacity crowd at the Hilltopper's gym.

Hunter Bergner, elongated Colonial center, was the outstanding player on the Fairfax five, outjumping Capt. Chuck Skelton of Belmont besides taking high scoring honors with 15 digits. Hunter's brother, Dick, hit the basket for six points, while Harris, playing the other forward, hit the hoop for 7 digits.

George Matsura played good basketball for the Hilltoppers. Although handicapped by an injured right eye, Matsura played a strong floor game and was high-point man on the Belmont team with 7 points. Mayo, at running guard played strong defensive ball for the Hilltoppers.

The Fairfax lightweights won second place in the Class B circuit, by trimming Coach Clarence Ebers's Belmont babes 30-18. Phil Anderson, Colonial forward, took high honors with 18 points.

FREMONT WINS

Coach Irving Tanner's Fremont basketball squad defeated the Roosevelt quintet in the final game of the season yesterday on the Rough Riders' court by the score of 24-19.

Rough-and-tumble tactics featured the game with Capt. Willie Huthman of Fremont, the high-point scorer with 12 digits.

Coach De Groot's Roosevelt lightweight five cinched the championship of that class by downing the Fremont babes in a preliminary contest, 26-17.

GARFIELD DEFEATED

The Harding basketball quintet won a hard-fought 18-to-15 decision over the Garfield Bulldogs on the Warriors' court last evening. The defeat gave Garfield the undisputed cellar championship of the Minor City League.

Martin, the long-drawn-out Harding center, was high-point man, scoring 8 of his team's points. Garfield threatened many times, but was always a little short of the mark.

Harding's floor work was decidedly better than Garfield's, this representing the only difference between the two teams.

The Garfield babes ran off with the preliminary game, 27 to 7. It was the pups' first victory of the season. Harding never had a chance after the first basket, which was scored by Garfield.

Medina shot from all angles, and managed to ring up 10 points for high-point honors.

Line-ups:

Ruether Not Yet Signed by Seals

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 25. (AP)—Although granted a salary increase of $1000 for the season, Walter "Dutch" Ruether, leading pitcher of the Coast League last year, has not signed his 1929 contract with the San Francisco Seals. Last year the former New York Yankee star, then a free agent, signed with the Seals for $5000 for the season, plus a $5000 bonus. This year his contract calls for $6000. Ruether figures he is out $4000 so is waiting around to dicker with the owners.

Mercury Five, Pacific Coast Cagers Battle

The Los Angeles Athletic Club basketball team, undefeated in four starts in the Big Six A.A.U. League, will be out to run up the winning streak to five straight tonight when the Mercuries tangle with the Pacific Coast Club quintet of Long Beach at the L.A.A.C. gymnasium. The game starts at 8:45 o'clock.

will score a knockout over Francis. He has been punching like a lightweight in his workouts at the Manhattan gymnasium.

Mastro is without doubt a better hitter than his rival. Francis has won his Pacific Coast bouts by throwing gloves on the offensive and by his superb blocking.

Backers of Mastro will send him out to score a kayo just as they did when he fought Gaston Charles, the Frenchman, in Chicago. Charles was stopped in two rounds.

But it will be hard to bet against Francis. In his four fights in California nobody has even extended him.

SPEEDY DADO FINISHES HOOD IN OPENING ROUND

Speedy Dado, Filipino flyweight, made short work of Ernie Hood, Pasadena product, last night in the ten-round main event at the Hollywood American Legion. Hood lasted exactly two minutes and fifty-six seconds of the first round. Harry Lee, referee, stopping the affair at that time, and giving Dado a technical-knockout decision.

Hood hit the floor twice before it was all over, on his first trip taking a two-count and on the next visit to the canvas bouncing right up with a one-count. He was very dizzy, however, and Dado had him on the ropes and was giving him the works, when the bloody battle was stopped. The house was packed.

Johnny Torres took a close decision over Jimmy Piela in the six-round semi-wind-up. Piela had Torres on the floor in the first round, but the smart Mexican played 'possum the rest of the session, feigning a wrenched ankle. At the start of the second round, Torres's ankle was okay, however, and he began to land hard blows on Piela's head. In the sixth session Torres upset Piela [illegible] with a right to the jaw.

Young Firpo defeated Jack Barry in the six-round [illegible] event. Firpo hit the canvas in the fourth round, but came back in the same session to beat [illegible] severely. In the two four-round preliminaries, Red Stephens [illegible] Mike Cardoza battled to a draw in one, while Charley Kiley defeated Al Paranque in the curtain-raiser.

Fairweight Golfers Clash in Four Flights

Two Rounds of Match Play Scheduled Weekly

BY EDWARD LAWRENCE

A unique and interesting golfing event is now in progress over the Wilson Memorial course, the Griffith Park weekly players tournament.

The qualifying round, which was played yesterday and the day before, not only indicated the interest taken by public-course golfers in the game, but also the fine brand of golf played on the municipal courses.

There were sixty-eight qualifiers, divided into four flights. Low gross was won by W. S. Jones, a four-handicap golfer, with a 73. Low net went to J. A. Christensen, 82-14—68.

Match play starts next week. Two matches are scheduled to be played each week. Three trophies are offered in each flight.

PROGRAM BROAD

Plans have been made by the ...Edison Company for a five-year ...building program of $130,000,000, ...Mr. Miller added. "As indicated in ...the major budget items, most of ...the new money will be used for ...additions to our distribution system ...and for new business," he ex... ...plained. "Our engineering work, ...including the building of generating ...plants, is so well in hand that it ...has become a matter of routine. ...Activities now and for several years ...to come will be centered on the de... ...velopment of new business in fields ...that seem to have endless possi... ...bilities.

"During the next five years at ...least 100,000 electric ranges will be ...sold in our territory and there prob... ...ably will be a market for at least ...300,000 many electric refrigerators. ...Thousands of horsepower will be ...required for industrial heating proc... ...esses in our varied manufacturing ...industry. Other thousands of horse... ...power will be needed for agricul... ...tural projects, commercial and ...highway lighting, and oil field de... ...velopment in addition to all the ...normal applications which are con... ...stantly appearing as new uses for ...electricity."

STATUS OF WOOL MART REPORTED

Survey Notes Demand as Rather Quiet and Mills Showing More Interest

BOSTON, Jan. 25. (AP)—The Commercial Bulletin will say tomorrow:

The market this week has been rather on the quiet side. There has been an increasing interest in wool on the part of the manufacturers, however, as the week has progressed, more especially in the finer wools and one or two of the large mills have already secured a sizeable nest egg in fine Texas wools against the new season, or possibly against current contracts, for the mills have still a fair volume of old business on the books.

New prices named by the American Woolen Company on staples, practically unchanged, or in a few numbers slightly lower than six months ago, should prove attractive to the buyers of cloth.

Contracting in the West is stopped.

Foreign markets are fairly steady, although fine wools are not quite up to the level of early December either in London or in the colonies. Cross-breds are very firm.

Mohair is quiet but not quotably changed.

The trail and water shipments of wool from Boston from January 1, 1929, to January 24, 1929, inclusive, were 12,316,000 pounds against 18,482,000 pounds for the same period last year. The receipts from January 1, 1929, to January 24, 1929, inclusive, were 14,922,400 pounds against 19,747,300 pounds for the same period last year.

Offering of New Bonds on Market Today

Street improvement bonds of El Cerrito and a refunding mortgage issue of the Milwaukee Electric Railway and Light Company comprise the new financing announced yesterday for public subscription here today.

The Elliott-Horne Company offers $249,941 City of El Cerrito one to ten-year 7 per cent street improvement bonds issued for the improvement of Berkeley Country Club Terrace section. They are priced to yield 6½ per cent net.

Dillon, Read & Co., Harris, Forbes & Co. and Spencer, Trask & Co. offer $10,000,000 Milwaukee Electric Railway and Light Company refunding and first mortgage bonds 5 per cent series "B," due 1961, at 100 1-4 and interest. By December, 1931, these bonds will be secured by a first lien on the company's entire fixed property.

Lockheed Stock Listed in North

Announcement of the listing of the Lockheed Aircraft Corporation capital stock of 138,250 shares, no par value, on the San Francisco Curb Exchange was made yesterday by Harry J. Moffett of Moffett & White, Inc., fiscal agents for the company. The stock will be called for trading in San Francisco on Monday.

Lockheed, the stock of which has been active on the Los Angeles Curb Exchange, has no funded debt and reports $295,000 cash on hand. Estimated earnings for the current year equal $2.50 a share, according to officials.

LEATHER PRODUCTS FACTORY OPENS UP

Atlas Leather Products Corporation has opened a factory in Los Angeles to manufacture women's leather and novelty belts, luggage and automotive leather findings and other leather specialties, it was announced yesterday. Philip Sockett, identified with leather goods manufacturing for some time, is in charge of production. He was formerly with Atlas Leather and Textile Company, which recently discontinued business.

COAST RIGHTS COME OFTEN

Newer Companies and Newer Market Offer Greater Possibilities for Frequent Participation

BY EARLE E. CROWE

Frequency of subscription rights offered to stockholders by the new and growing companies listed on the Los Angeles and San Francisco exchanges is undoubtedly one of the chief reasons for the plainly manifested trend on the Pacific Coast to favor the accumulation of Pacific Coast securities. In the last year or so the pressure on these companies for new capital to meet the requirements of expansion has impelled the offer of a surprising number of stock privileges at attractive figures.

Newer companies, operating in a growing market with the potentialities that the Pacific Coast offers, are better candidates for stock subscription possibilities than the older and seasoned companies listed in the New York market. It is true that the expanding prosperity of the last few years throughout the United States has called for capital expansion by almost every type of corporation, but it is more likely that the trend of prosperity will be better sustained on the Pacific Coast than in the East.

PRIVILEGES VALUABLE

Investors sagacious enough to foresee the trend toward attractive offers to stockholders, and having the patience to await developments, have profited handsomely. The number of offers last year covered approximately twenty companies representing a wide range of business activities. Sale of the rights for cash, or the exercise of the privileges to reduce the cost of the investment, placed these investors in admirable positions.

Pacific National Company, holding unit for the Pacific National Bank group of Los Angeles, was the principal exponent last year of valuable subscription rights. The rights to buy this stock were quoted as high as $85 on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange. The close was at $27½.

Next came the Byron Jackson Pump rights, which sold as high as $14.50 on the Los Angeles market, and $13.50 in San Francisco. Shell Union Oil, Los Angeles-First National, American Company, Golden State Milk, Kolster Radio and Leslie Salt were other companies to extend worth-while privileges to their stockholders.

OFFERS LISTED

The range of prices in 1928 for rights quoted on the Los Angeles market is shown in the following table:

	High.	Low.	Last.

Diversification of industries indicated in the foregoing lists illustrates the broad nature of the prosperity enjoyed by Pacific Coast companies. Banks, oil companies, public utility, specialty manufacturing, department store, farm machinery, oil equipment, salt, radio, and glass stocks are included.

Cold Weather Slowing Trade in Wide Area

NEW YORK, Jan. 25. (AP)—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say:

Midwinter weather conditions continue to favor indoor operations, especially in factory industry, which maintains its lead in activity, as compared with other forms of business activity. Severe cold with, in most areas, very stormy weather, has tended to retard business by salesmen on the road, while retail trade has been helped by the weather, mainly in population centers. In all three lines, however, operations were relatively more active than a year ago.

In the list of favored industries, iron, steel, automobiles, implement and machinery manufacturing lines seemed to have an unquestionable lead, but cold weather very generally helped the coal industry; copper mining was active under the stimulus of large foreign and domestic takings, and oil-well and gas supplies, electrical goods and radio materials were bought freely. In the list of less fortunately situated trade, dry goods buying outside of large centers was reported rather spotty, building operations were interfered with in many instances by weather conditions, and buying of wool, knitwear and jewelry was spotty.

Weekly bank clearings, $13,740,096,000, an increase of 30.8 per cent over a year ago.

Wool Growers Due Tomorrow

The Montana and Utah delegations to the National Wool Growers' convention opening at Phoenix next Monday, numbering several score, will arrive in Los Angeles tomorrow at noon, according to Fay R. Smalley, assistant manager of the Alexandria.

A reception in honor of the visitors will be given at the Alexandria tomorrow afternoon by local stock and packing-house men and tomorrow night Smalley, Frank M. Hauser of the Hauser Packing Company and J. A. McNaughton of the Union Stock Yards will give a dinner at the hotel in honor of the delegation. The dinner will be attended by members of a large Montana excursion now here.

Smalley, Hauser and McNaughton will fly to Phoenix Monday to attend the convention.

Citizens' Bank to Continue on Former Lines

Determination of the Citizens' National Trust and Savings Bank to retain an independent status was made plain by M. J. Connell, chairman of the board, in speaking before 300 of the directors, officers and staff of the bank, at the annual dinner on Thursday evening. J. Dabney Day, president, was in the chair, and in addition to addresses from several officers of the bank, remarks were made by Carl R. Gray, president of the Union Pacific Railroad, and John G. Mott a director of the bank, who accompanied President-elect Hoover on his recent good-will tour of South America.

Mr. Connell, speaking for the directors, said in part: "It is necessary for us to repeat again that we have no intention of changing our policy in any particular. Our institution is making excellent progress financially, is growing in deposits and resources, and after giving effect to the increase in capital that is now being effected we shall have capital and surplus of $15,000,000 in addition to an investment of $1,500,000 in the Citizens' National Company, the investment arm of the bank. We feel that the bank has never been in a better position to serve this community and we do not see how it could be improved merely by an increase in size.

"Directors and principal stockholders of the Citizens' National Trust and Savings Bank some time ago entered into an agreement by which stockholders who desire to dispose of their holdings shall first offer the stock at the current market price to the controlling interest, thereby effectually precluding the acquiring of any considerable holdings of the stock by those who might be interested in securing control."

Retail Sales of National Concern Gain

CHICAGO, Jan. 25. (Exclusive)—Reporting total sales for 1928 at $214,350,446 as compared with $186,683,340 in 1927, Montgomery Ward & Co. today issued its annual earnings statement. The net income for 1928, after charges and Federal taxes, was $17,703,834, equivalent to $4.77 a share on 3,410,983 common shares outstanding, after allowance for Class A dividends. This compares with $13,127,431 net income for 1927, or $10.25 a share on 1,141,251 common shares in 1927.

Figured on the same number of shares as outstanding in 1927, last year's earnings are equal to $14.26 a common share.

During 1929 at least 250 additional chain stores will be placed in operation and there will be some increase in the number of retail department stores, George B. Everitt, president, said.

Price Slash Continues on Crude Grades

NEW YORK, Jan. 25. (Exclusive) Additional announcements of price reductions on crude oil were made today. South Penn Oil Company cut Corning crude 15 cents a barrel to $1.65 and $1.75, respectively.

Prairie Oil and Gas Company and Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing Company have met cut in midcontinent crude-oil prices initiated by the Carter Oil Company yesterday. In addition, they set a price of 60 cents a barrel for 24 deg. gravity and below.

Humble Oil and Refining Company posted prices on Texas crude oil showing a reduction of 1 to 32 cents a barrel from the previous price schedule.

BANK REMOVAL SET

Hollywood Institution to Enter New Home April 1

Gilbert H. Beesemyer, president of the Bank of Hollywood, announced yesterday that the institution on April 1 will be in its new quarters in the limit-height Bank of Hollywood Building, now under construction at Hollywood Boulevard and Vine street.

"Hollywood is rapidly becoming one of the principal financial centers of the United States and within the next five years, I confidently expect, that from the standpoint of investments, this district, population taken into consideration, will rank with the big financial centers along the Atlantic seaboard," Mr. Beesemyer, who is executive head of the Guaranty Building and Loan Association and the United States Guaranty Corporation, holding company for eleven building-loan associations with resources of $25,000,000, yesterday declared.

AIRCRAFT COMPANY EXPANDS

NEW YORK, Jan. 25. (Exclusive) United Aircraft and Transport Corporation, formerly Boeing Airplane and Transport Company, has acquired the Hamilton Aero Manufacturing Company and Hamilton Metal Plane Company, both of Milwaukee, Wis. Hamilton Aero is one of the largest manufacturers of aircraft propellers in the United States.

INCREASE URGED FOR EXCHANGE

New York Governing Body Recommends 275 New Members be Added

NEW YORK, Jan. 25. (Exclusive)—Under a resolution adopted by the governing committee of the New York Stock Exchange today the membership would be increased by 275, making the total number of members 1375.

The committee suggested that the increase be made by giving each of the 1100 members the privilege or right of transferring his proportionate share of the new membership. Since there will be four times as many such rights as memberships, an applicant will have to acquire the rights of four of the present members before his name will be considered by the committee on admission. The proposal will come before the members for vote.

EXETER OIL NET INCOME ESTIMATED

Present Earnings Are Running in Advance of Last Year Figures

Estimated net earnings of the Exeter Oil Company for 1929 on the basis of the present monthly rate of $10,000 will show an increase of approximately 140 per cent over the 1928 net income, according to a statement yesterday by W. R. Cowan, vice-president of the company. The 1928 earnings statement has not been completed, he said, but will show net earnings of approximately 100 per cent over the preceding year.

Recent acquisition of leaseholds and fee property in promising territory adds to the prospects of the company for the current year, Mr. Cowan said. The concern has been successful in its development of properties having a settled production, showing an appreciation of from one-third to two-thirds after improvements to wells and equipment, it is stated.

Dividends at the rate of 1 per cent monthly have been paid regularly on the outstanding 500,000 shares of Class A stock since the organization of the company in May, 1926. To date a total of 30 per cent has been paid.

The company owns in fee and controls through leases 446 acres of potential and proven oil lands, situated in Santa Barbara, Kern, Ventura and Los Angeles counties. It has been drilling its own wells to shallow depths in proven territory, but drills its deep sand wells in cooperation with other companies on a profit-sharing basis.

Pacific Equities Gives Out First Profits Report

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 25. (Exclusive)—Pacific Equities had profits of approximately $40,000 for its initial quarter ending December 31, last, and since that date has made $60,000 additional, President De Lancy Lewis reported today.

"Pacific Equities has been operating one full quarter ending December 31. Up to that date the management considered it premature to take profits on certain stocks in which developments were expected. As of January 24, the company has $300,000, or approximately one-third of its capital, out on call in New York, besides a substantial cash balance locally. The company has no indebtedness, either funded or current, due to banks or brokerage firms," declared Lewis.

The company holds at original cost large blocks of stock in Claude Neon Electrical Products, Claude Neon, Inc., of New York, Claude Neon Federal, Inc., Pacific Mutual, International Reinsurance Company, Pacific Finance, Pacific Indemnity, Pacific National Fire Insurance, Gladding-McBean & Co., Consolidated Steel, Southern California Edison and other securities.

Packard-Nash Rumor Denied

NEW YORK, Jan. 25. (Exclusive) Despite vigorous denial by Alvan Macauley, president of the Packard Motor Car Company, consolidation of this concern with Nash Motors, Inc., was today reported as being given serious consideration by controlling interests of these companies, according to usually well-informed banking circles.

Tentative plans are understood to provide for the declaration by Nash of a 10 per cent stock dividend and a subsequent exchange of stock in both companies on a share for share basis. The Packard Company now has outstanding 3,004,264 shares of $10 par value capital stock and Nash Motors, Inc., has outstanding 2,730,000 shares of no par value capital stock.

MONOLITH MEETING HELD

The new Laramie (Wyo.) cement plant of Monolith Portland Midwest Company has been completely financed and the status of preferred stockholders unchanged by the recent change of ownership of common stock by the Monolith Portland Cement Company, President Coy Burnett declared yesterday before the annual meeting of stockholders. The Laramie mill has just been opened.

NICKEL COMPANY PREMIER

Common Stock of International Leads All Others in Class With $880,000,000 Value

BY JOHN F. SINCLAIR

[Copyright, 1929, by North American Newspaper Alliance.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—International Nickel, based on the present value of its 17,258,208 shares of common stock, is worth today more than $880,888,000. No other mining property in the world's history has ever been capitalized at such a figure. Even such stocks as Kennecott and Anaconda have never approached it. In 1927 its total valuation on the market was less than $70,000,000.

While enormous sums have been made in the stock in the last six months, enormous amounts have likewise been lost, for the bears began selling the old stock short when it was $50 a share and they have been selling it short ever since. The old stock was split up six for one, and the new stock has been selling around $72 a share; that means $432 a share for the old.

Percy B. Comans, Montreal, is largely responsible for the success of this stock. Many other Canadians have made very large fortunes in it, including, it is reported, A. W. McConnell of Montreal and Arthur Meighen of Toronto, former Prime Minister of Canada.

Banking resources of the United States, instead of moving westward, are developing "a strong and unmistakable drift to the East," according to figures from the Comptroller of the Currency.

These figures show that in the five years ending June 30, 1928, 70 per cent of the entire increase in the United States was accounted for by certain eastern States, which possessed only 27 per cent of the country's population.

The United States as a whole showed an increase of 32 per cent in banking resources in five years, but eliminating these eastern States, the increase would be only 20 per cent. New York State absorbed 28 per cent of the increase for the entire country, which totaled $17,539,417,000.

Incidentally, the United States today possesses two-thirds of all the banking resources of the world, yet it has only about 40 per cent of the world's monetary gold supply.

AVIATION COMPANY EARNINGS STATED

Net earnings of National Aviation, Inc., for the first six months of operation, embracing the period from June 23 to December 31, 1928, were $331,017, which is equivalent to $2.20 per share on the corporation's 150,000 shares of outstanding stock, or at the annual rate of $4.40 per share, it was announced yesterday. The report was submitted to the committee of listings of the New York Curb Market, where the corporation's stock was listed last week.

LOS ANGELES EXCHANGE

Banks Lead Spirited Trading as Bull Movement Continues on Local Market

With speculative interest centered upon the bank shares a strong buying wave swept through the entire list to force prices upward yesterday on another unusually active session of the Los Angeles Stock Exchange. Spirited trading activity was confined not only to the bank but oil and industrial shares as well, and under the stimulated demand, the closing gong sounded on a long list of price advances.

Speculation on the terms of the bank merger ran high from the opening of the market. Los Angeles-First National soared 4 points on the opening to a new peak at 150. Profit-taking followed and under pressure of selling orders quotations dropped to 142 to recover to end at 144, off 2 points net. Security Trust and Savings, the other principal to the deal, shot up to an all-time high at 650 1-8, the opening sale, and 35½ points above the previous day's close. The stock finished at 639 3-4, up 24 3-4 net but more than 100 points above the price last week. An odd lot crossed the board at 620 at the last minute.

Attention was again focused on Rio Grande in the oil list with the result that another new peak was scored at 42 1-8. The close was up 1 1-4 net to 41 3-8. Union traded actively to gain ½ to 50 7-8 and Union Associates advanced 5-8 to 49 5-8. Rights to both stock advanced in line. Signal gained 1-4 to 40. Standard of California lost a point to 68 1-4. A few others eased fractionally lower.

Emsco Equipment was a feature in the industrial group with a jump of 3 3-4 points to 43 1-4. The issue traded briskly on speculation of what dividend will be declared on the new stock. Byron Jackson shot up 3 1-4 points to 79 1-2.

BROKERAGE UNIT IS ADDED BY COMPANY

Bowes Brothers & Co. of San Francisco and Los Angeles have established a brokerage department in addition to their investment banking business, it was announced yesterday. The principal source of revenue for the brokerage department will be the Lawbeck Corporation with offices in Chicago and New York. This step, it was stated, will permit a reduction in the cost of financing new Pacific Coast buildings.

AD CLUB CHIEFS TO ATTEND CONFERENCE

Herman A. Nater, assistant vice-president of the Bank of Italy National Trust and Savings Association, and president of the Advertising Club of Los Angeles, leaves Saturday for San Francisco to attend the midwinter conference of the executives of the Pacific Advertising Club's Association. He will be accompanied by W. G. Scholtz, head of the Scholtz Advertising Service, who is chairman of the committee fostering the participation in the Coast convention.

LOS ANGELES CURB

Swinging in line with the strong tone manifested on the parent board, yesterday's trading on the Los Angeles Curb Exchange continued at a record pace and marked up a higher set of prices on the whole. Lockheed Aircraft jumped to first position in point of activity and after touching a top at 20, finished at 18, up ½ point.

Western Air Express, continuing to transfer in large volume, slipped back 1 1-4 points to 42 1-4. Klinner shot up to a new top at 2.25 and closed at 2.20 up 10. The movement is attributed to pool operations coupled with the high rate of plant production which, officials state, will be stepped up to two motors a day next week. Fokker eased 3-4 to 23½ while Maddux rallied 1-4 to 12 1-2.

Chapman Ice Cream was a feature of the day with an advance of 2 1-4 points to 28 1-4. Bandini performed sensationally with a jump of 65 cents to 5.25 despite the announcement of the passing of the dividend. The action follows a steady advance for several days which is attributed to strategic position of its holdings at Santa Fe Springs. Claude Neon advanced 5-8 to 65 3-4.

Sales totaled 291,876 shares, valued at $792,368.

BY HOWARD C. KEGLEY

Interest at Santa Fe Springs is centering in the eastern portion of the field, in the vicinity of the General Petroleum Corporation's No. 225 well, which is making more than 9000 barrels a day of clean oil. This interest was heightened yesterday by the announcement that the Standard Oil Company will at once drill two wells in that area. Standard's South Whittier Community No. 23 has been spudded in and South Whittier Community No. 24 will spud in within a few days.

Coincident with this announcement, it was reported yesterday that the Plymouth Oil Company's deep test in the extreme southeast end of the field is down more than 5950 feet without having picked up favorable indications. This tends to further establish the structure to the northward and indicates more of an east and west trend of the geological axis than had first been thought.

General Petroleum's new well is considerably north of what had been regarded as the axis, and the next points of interest are the Bandini wells, slightly north and east of the G. P. well. Three of these are due for completion within ten days, and should they show by results the same geological situation as General Petroleum's well, it should stimulate outpost deep drilling to the east of the present producing area.

Standard Completions

Three new wells in three different fields were completed yesterday by the Standard Oil Company for a combined output of about 4000 barrels.

At Santa Fe Springs the company completed its Koontz No. 11 for 1600 barrels a day. The well is 5708 feet deep.

The San Gabriel No. 9 was completed at Seal Beach at a depth of 5432 feet for 2200 barrels a day. This well was redrilled after the first production test had failed.

At Montebello the company completed its Whitehead No. 3 at 3825 feet for an output of 146 barrels a day of clean oil testing 23 deg. gravity. This well is located in the northwest part of the Montebello field. It is the company's first completion in that part of the field.

The Mascot No. 1 being drilled by the Standard on a lease held by the Mascot Oil Company in the Midway field is standing cemented at 906 feet.

The company's Walker No. 14 at Santa Fe Springs is swabbing at 5649 feet and is expected to be on production today.

Rio Grande Activity

Test piling is being driven by the Rio Grande Oil Company at Long Beach for its new marine terminal to be constructed on Channel No. 2. The construction will be speeded up as a part of the general plan for moving oil from wells in the Elwood field to the refinery at Vinvale. The oil will be transported by tankers from Elwood to Long Beach and then piped to Vinvale.

A gas main is being laid between Santa Fe Springs and Vinvale and gas will be purchased at the oil field and used at the refinery for fuel.

The company will complete one of its new 118,000-barrel tanks at Elwood today and start oil flowing into it. The second will be completed in about ten days, giving the company 396,000 barrels of storage at the field developed jointly by it and the Barnsdall Oil Corporation.

New Lawndale Companies

Lawndale continues to lead all California oil fields in activity, with thousands of workmen, visitors, oil officials and local residents gathered there, forest of derricks is springing up where a few weeks ago there were only three in sight.

Seven new companies have just announced locations and drilling plans. They are the Globe Lease and Royalty Company, Boyd Hammond, Pan-California Oil Corporation, Richfield Consolidated Oil Company, St. Helens Oil Company, Sovereign Oil Company and Elbe Oil Company.

Pan Going Deep

The Pan-American well on the McNally lease in the Coyote Hills section is said to be below the 6800-foot mark and still is going down. Pan-American is reported to be seeking a new oil sand which geologists think lies below 7000 feet in the Coyote Hills area. Efforts were made some time ago to bring the well in at 4800 feet, but trouble with water developed and the company decided to go deeper. The project offsets the Standard Oil Company's producers on the Emery lease.

Wildcat Tournament Winners

W. W. Copp of the Mariand Oil Company won the president's cup in the golf tourney participated in Thursday by the wildcat committee of the Chamber of Mines and Oil, at the Los Angeles Country Club. The cup was awarded by R. A. Broomfield, president of the chamber. The secretary's cup, offered by Edwin Higgins, was won by W. L. Stewart, Jr., who gained the right to have his name engraved upon it.

President Broomfield entertained the wildcat committee and directors of the chamber for dinner at the club in the evening, having a number of special guests, among them his son, and L. R. Holmes, I. H. Latham, R. O'Garrio and W. S. Rodgers, officials of the Texas Company. The wildcats presented President Broomfield with a beautiful gavel to be used this year in presiding over chamber affairs.

Ball for Water Test

The Richfield Oil Company is bailing its Didier No. 1 at Puente for a water shut-off test, and is planning to make a production test in about four days. The well is standing cemented at 3434 feet after having penetrated 107 feet of oil sand, and the test is being watched with much interest by the oil industry, since the well is a wildcat.

Gets Small Well

The Chanslor-Canfield Midway Oil Company has completed its No. B-5 well in the Midway field for an output of 240 barrels a day with a cut of 14 per cent, but the cut is decreasing daily. The oil tests 28 deg. gravity. The company's No. B-6 is standing cemented at a depth of 3587 feet and a production test will be made soon.

Signal Hill Summary

Production from the deep zone at Signal Hill during the past week averaged 135,400 barrels a day, flowing from 300 wells, according to a summary of field reports. There are 160 wells drilling, sixty-five are standing idle and twenty new rigs are going up.

Ring Spuds In

The Ring Petroleum Company has spudded in its Simons No. 1-A in the old brickyard at Inglewood, in a northwest extension of the Potrero field. This is the farthest northwest of the several wells drilling in that direction from the Associated Oil Company's producer—Cypress No. 3.

MEXICO MINE DEAL STILL UNDER WAY

NORTH AMERICAN SMELTING SEEKS TO ACQUIRE RICH ESTATE

Directors of North American Mining and Smelting Corporation, operating subsidiary of Associated Metals Corporation, have authorized the continuance of the initial negotiations for acquisition of a newly formed consolidation of mining properties in Northern Mexico in what is reputed to be one of the highest mineralized zones on the continent, Andrew Stevenson, president, announced yesterday.

The property under negotiation comprises some thirty-odd mines having large reserves in gold, silver, lead, zinc and copper, Mr. Stevenson said. Directors also authorized the acceptance of several new properties in California and Arizona and approved a recommendation of the company's chief consulting engineer, Walter Gordon Clark, for early examination of a large placer gold and platinum deposit from which samples have been taken which assay as high as $15 per cubic yard in value.

PREMIUM FOR SPOT COPPER SIGNIFICANT

NEW YORK, Jan. 25. (Exclusive) Spot copper is selling at a premium of nearly 5-8 cents per pound over copper for future delivery in London, the metal trade learned today. Normally the price of spot copper is in close alignment with the future rate, but copper dealers here declared that the premium reflected the strong demand for copper for early delivery. Manufacturers of copper abroad do not realize that the price of copper is up for good and are not covering their future requirements. They think they will be able to buy copper more cheaply later on, said Irving J. Louis, vice-president of the National Metal Exchange, in explaining the situation abroad.

HUGE NATURAL GAS PIPE LINE PLANNED

NEW YORK, Jan. 25. (Exclusive) Standard Oil of New Jersey and the United Gas Company have organized a syndicate to lay a $30,000,000 pipe line from the Monroe oil fields in Northern Louisiana to the industrial district of St. Louis. The line's output will be 100,000,000 feet a day, according to an announcement made today. Besides the two organizers the syndicate includes Columbia Carbon Company, Electric Power and Light Company, United Carbon Company and Palmer Corporation, and represents control of 70 per cent of the natural gas reserves in Louisiana.

BUCKEYE POSTPONES SPECIAL MEETING

Directors of Buckeye Union Oil Company announced yesterday in a letter to stockholders that the special meeting called for Monday has been postponed until February 8. The meeting is to consider an increase of capital or a merger with another oil company, or complete sale of all assets of the company, all of which have been proposed to the directors.

TOTAL VALUE RISES ON FARM ANIMALS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25. (AP)—The Department of Agriculture announced today that reports received by it indicate the total value on the 1st inst. of all farm animals was $5,982,713,000 as compared with $5,512,506,000 on January 1, 1928, and $5,039,221,000 two years ago.

SAN FRANCISCO

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 25. (AP)—Insurance issues stood out in relief in a market that lacked a definite trend today on San Francisco Stock Exchange today. Firemen's Fund continued its backing of the past few days with another new all-time high of 141, a gain of 2 points. Home Fire Marine rallied 15 points, an advance of 2½ points. Associated Insurance Fund, admitted to trading today, opened at 10½, eased to 10⅛, but strengthened to close at 10¾.

Pacific Gas and Electric rose from 85 to a new all-time high of 86.

The industrial section of the list was irregular in the morning trading, but closed strong. Crown Zellerbach moved to a new record low of 22¾, a loss of ⅝. Crown Zellerbach preferred, 7%, however, advanced from 94½ to 95⅝, touching its high for the current year.

The Oliver and Illinois Pacific Glass, which were the objectives of a bear attack yesterday, had buying support and moved ahead a point or more.

Strength was apparent in Sperry Flour at 95½. Pacific Lighting at 72¾. Dairy Belle "B," which rose from 17½ to 19½, up 1½; Dairy Dale "A," which improved from 23¼ to 24; Leslie Salt at 41, Oliver "A" at 39¾ and Oliver "B" at 39.

Magnavox opened at 8½, declined to 8¾, and appreciated to 9¼, netting 6. Kolster Radio was off more than a point, Chlorox was steady at 43½ as were Paraffine at 84, Caterpillar at 74 and Byron Jackson at 79. John Deere was a fraction lower at 48½.

The oils were heavy, with Shell Union at 27⅝ and Richfield at 44½. Standard Oil dropped from 68¾ to 68, closing at 68½, off ⅝. The Unions were exceptions to better fractional gains. Union Oil declined from 51 to 50½, but finished up ½ at 50¾. Union Associates was up ⅛ at 49½.

The banks continued to move within the narrow limits of yesterday. Bank of America improved from 130¾ to 130¼, up ¼. The American Company netted ¼ at 145½. West Coast Bancorporation was steady at 29¾.

BAY CITY CURB

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 25. (AP)—An exceptional activity day was enacted on the San Francisco Curb Exchange today. The oils were again by far the most active, and a feature was that most of them rose to higher levels, with a few exceptions. Universal Consolidated opened at 1.62½, rose to 1.65, but closed at 1.60, with a gain of 1½ cents for the day. Occidental Petroleum rose from the opening of 2.20 to 2.40. Republic Petroleum rose from 4.75 to 5.50. Italo Petroleum opened and closed at 1.32½, but fluctuated to each side of this price during the day. Palmer Union Oil was one of the exceptions, dropping from 12 cents to 10 cents and the preferred stock sold at 32 cents.

The banks were also active, but drops were noticed in most of these stocks. Bank of America of California dropped from 130¼ to 129¾. Bank of America sold at 193 throughout the session, and Los Angeles First National opened high at 310¾ and closed at 142½, with 2280 shares changing hands. Marine dropped from 39¼ to 39.

The industrials also helped to swell the share volume for the day. Pacific American Fish Company lost from 36¾ to 36, with a total share volume of 2230 shares. The preferred of this stock dropped from 106 to 107¾, with 420 shares thrown in. Willamette opened at 102 and closed at 101¾. California Art Tile "B" closed at 11. Columbia Steel opened at 12 and closed at 11⅞, with 540 shares recorded. The preferred was off throughout the session. Western Sulphur opened at 35¾ and closed at 35¾, one of the many industrials shown on United Paper Box dropped from 22½ to 23, with 610 shares.

METAL MARKET

CLEVELAND, Jan. 25. (Exclusive)—Daily Metal Trade today says: "Many small and moderate size purchases of foundry iron continue to feature the pig-iron market in the East. At the same time urgent requests for shipments are encountered and a heavy rate of consumption is evident. At Pittsburgh, while new business in pig iron is lacking, the market is steady and furnace stocks are being reduced by the active shipments.

"Makers of strip steel at Pittsburgh are encountering difficulty in making satisfactory shipments of heavy specifications, coupled with steady new buying, having booked them four to five rate of consumption is evident. At Pittsburgh, while new business in pig iron is lacking, the market is steady and furnace stocks are being reduced by the active shipments.

"Makers of strip steel at Pittsburgh are encountering difficulty in making satisfactory shipments of heavy specifications, coupled with steady new buying, having booked them four to five rate of consumption is evident. Competition on hot rolled steel bars is less keen at Cleveland, while private business in cast iron furnace stocks are Chicago is considerably above that of a year ago.

"The copper market is quiet at 17c, Connecticut; zinc, 6.35c and lead, 6.50c, East St. Louis. Tin unchanged at 49c."

Kansas Ready to Spend Cash for Dry State

TOPEKA (Kan.) Jan. 25. (AP)—The $40,000 law-enforcement bill was signed late today by Gov. Reed a few hours after another administration measure, providing rewards for the capture of liquor-running automobiles, airplanes and other vehicles, was killed by the Judiciary Committee of the House.

The law-enforcement measure, passed yesterday by the Senate and by the House last Tuesday, authorizes expenditure of the appropriation under the Governor's direction and gives him authority to appoint attorneys with the power of special attorneys-general to investigate violations of the liquor and other criminal laws, obtain evidence and assist in prosecutions.

Texan Would Bar Clergymen From High Office

AUSTIN (Tex.) Jan. 25. (Exclusive)—As an aftermath of the recent intense presidential campaign in Texas, a joint resolution was introduced in the House today by Representative Thompson of Houston, submitting to vote of the people a proposed amendment to the constitution making ineligible any pastor of a Protestant church or priest of the Catholic church to hold office as Governor or to serve as a member of either branch of the legislature of Texas.

The preamble of the resolution asserts ministers and priests would be barred from holding these offices because the "recent activities of the clergy reflected no credit to the State or church."

NOTICIAS MUNDIALES DE ULTIMA HORA

NOTAS TELEGRAFICAS

El "Rey del Trigo" Ha Ido a Rusia a Ayudar a los Agricultores

MOSCU, Enero 25.—Thomas Campbell, de Montana, de quien a veces se ha dicho que es el más gran productor de trigo del mundo, ha llegado a Moscú, invitado por el "trust" de los granos, para actuar de consultor en el problema que para la Rusia soviética constituye la cuestión de las semillas.

Dijo que, mediante la ayuda de maquinaria, la Rusia soviética podría llegar a ser el mayor exportador de productos agrícolas del mundo. El trust de los granos va a organizar una serie de granjas, además de las ya existentes, y a dotarlas de maquinaria moderna.

El Presidente Acuerda dos Importantes Nombramientos en Guerra

WASHINGTON, Enero 25.—El presidente Coolidge ha decidido nombrar al general de brigada Charles H. Bridges, de White Hall (Illinois), ayudante general del ejército con el grado de general de división.

Ya Está Limpia el Area Afectada del Pecho del Rey

LONDRES, Enero 25.—En su boletín de hoy han anunciado los médicos del rey Jorge que ha desaparecido completamente el mal en la zona afectada del pecho del monarca.

Esta declaración ha producido honda satisfacción, pues quiere decir que ya Su Majestad no padece más que de la debilidad resultante de su prolongada dolencia, y que se halla libre de toda infección su aparato respiratorio. En tales condiciones, es casi seguro que seguirá mejorando de manera continua.

SARASOTA (Florida), Enero 25. Hoy ha llegado aquí el ex-gobernador Smith, de Nueva York, para pasar una temporada de vacaciones de invierno en Florida como huésped de John Ringling, gran empresario de circo. Viajaban con él en el vagón particular que los trajo de Savannah (Georgia), donde pasaron tres días, John J. Raskob, presidente del comité democrático nacional, y William F. Kenny.

En la manifestación de bienvenida, dirigida por un comité de recepción encabezado por el señor Ringgling, figuraron una banda de viento, una guardia militar de honor, y un elefante de circo.

Triana Ha Sido Postulado por los Agraristas

CIUDAD DE MEJICO, Enero 25. La Liga Agraria ha designado candidato a la presidencia del país al ex-general Pedro Rodriguez Triana. Este, al declarar que aceptaba la distinción, manifestó estar convencido de que será derrotado en los comicios.

Compónese la citada liga de unos cuantos sindicatos de obreros y campesinos, con limitado número de miembros. Estos son de tendencias comunistas.

Triana comenzó su carrera en 1910 como revolucionario simpatizador de don Francisco I. Madero. Más adelante combatió en compañía de Pancho Villa y Emiliano Zapata. Se retiró a raíz del asesinato de Zapata, y desde entonces se ha venido distinguiendo como líder agrarista.

SALINAS, Enero 25.—A una madre y a su hija, ambas de King City, al sur de ésta, les fue concedido hoy el divorcio por un juez del Tribunal Superior. Cada una de ellas figuró como testigo de la otra, emplearon las dos al mismo abogado, y ambas acusaron a sus maridos de intemperancia habitual.

La madre, Florence Spangler, se divorció de Clyde Spangler, a quien, entre otros cargos, le hizo el de crueldad; y la hija, Elsie Dirth, dijo que su cónyuge, George W. Dirth, usaba lenguaje obsceno.

Llorando, y dando gritos lastimeros de "hijita mía, hijita mía", la señora Eva Sibbick perdió ayer el sentido y se desplomó en el piso del corredor al que da la sala del juez superior Rosenkranz.

Acababa de decretar el citado funcionario judicial que se confiara la custodia de la niña Ivonne Sibbick, de doce años de edad, a su padre, William Sibbick, que había obtenido el divorcio de su mujer, acusada por él de ser demasiado cariñosa con otros hombres.

La señora Sibbick le redarguyó, alegando que Sibbick era persona incapacitada para cuidar de la niña. De allí que el juez haya ordenado a las autoridades juveniles que instruyan una información completa de las condiciones de la casa en que vive Sibbick.

YEARS OF CONTROVERSY OVER WESTMORELAND PLACE ENDS

Phantom horses and carriages which have flitted up and down the old streets of Westmoreland Place while the rest of the world roared by in high-powered automobiles are to lose their happy hunting ground, it was revealed yesterday. The tract consists of forty-three acres lying between Tenth and Pico streets and between Vermont avenue and a line near Elden avenue.

Years of controversy over the removal of the building restrictions on the tract have come to an end and the restrictions are removed. The tract now is to take up life again, as it were, where it left off when its streets were traversed by the wealthy of Los Angeles, riding in aristocratic Victorias drawn by fine horses with coachmen handling the reins.

Compromise succeeded where litigation failed. Those few who built the original homes when the tract first was opened have accepted a cash consideration for acquiescing in the removal of the old restrictions and development will proceed under the restrictions defined in the present city zoning ordinances. Just how much was paid to the property owners involved was not learned, but it is understood to have been a figure considerably less than was offered them about five years ago.

DREAM DERIDED

Those are the prosaic facts in the case, but back of them is a bit of interesting history that tells the story of a growth and development of Los Angeles so fast that it leaped right over the Westmoreland tract and left it, with its horses and carriages, struggling in the throes of litigation. In the beginning, or pretty close to the beginning of things hereabouts, the Ballerinos owned a large estate given them as a Spanish grant. The estate extended from Hoover street to Vermont avenue and from Pico street to within 200 feet of San Marino street.

In the latter part of the '90's Clark & Bryan, one of the oldest and best known real-estate firms in the city, bought a part of this Ballerino property and subdivided it, putting it on the market as the Lone Star Tract. In 1901 the same firm bought the rest of the Ballerino estate and put it on the market as Bungalow Row, on Vermont avenue, Westmoreland Tract and Westmoreland Place.

There were many jokes at that time on Clark & Bryan, because of the "pipe dream" to get people to "go out and live among the gophers." The area was considered pretty much of a wilderness beyond Alvarado street to the Los Angeles Country Club, then at Pico street and St. Andrews Place. There were no street cars and no real streets.

Henry E. Huntington extended the Ninth-street carline from Ninth and Alvarado as far as the country club at the time these subdivisions were put on the market. Vermont was made from a dirt road to a sixty-foot street. Tenth and other streets were cut through. An active campaign was launched on the Westmoreland Tract and Bungalow Row, and practically three-quarters of the property saw houses being erected. No active effort was made to sell Westmoreland Place.

WAITED TOO LONG

Welsey Clark used to say they were waiting for Los Angeles and the ornamental trees that had been set out to grow up. But they waited too long, for when, in 1910, a campaign was put on the automobile had come into general use and the district was considered too close in. The automobile simply passed up Westmoreland Place with its horses and coachmen and moved on to Windsor Square and Beverly.

About nine lots had been sold in the tract originally, houses being put up on them under certain restrictions. Later the sellers wanted to liberalize the restrictions, but the purchasers refused to move. The matter was taken into court after efforts to compromise had failed. The case dragged on for years, the original purchasers and builders winning out. It was only yesterday that announcement of the compromise was made. A large development plan has been drawn up and before long construction of business houses, apartments, homes and hotels is expected to begin.

CITY ZONING ACT UPHELD BY HENNING

Undertaker Seeking to Restrain Enforcement of Ordinance Loses

The Los Angeles city zoning ordinance was upheld again yesterday in a ruling by United States District Judge Henning in the action of Louis E. Ruppe, an undertaker, who sought an injunction to restrain the city from enforcing the ordinance.

It was brought out that Ruppe spent $50,000 for a mortuary at Forty-fifth street and Western avenue, but was instructed to stop operations under the provisions of Ordinance No. 31,746, New Series, called the zoning ordinance. Ruppe was arrested for violating the ordinance by continuing in operation, but sued out a writ of habeas corpus. An appeal to the State Supreme Court resulted in the ordinance being upheld. The injunction proceeding in Federal Court followed, and yesterday the ordinance was again upheld.

Golfer Gives Blood for Son

Larry Kelly, golf professional of the Potrero Country Club, yesterday gave a quart of his blood in a transfusion to save the life of his 3-year-old son, Larry, Jr., at the Children's Hospital.

The boy had been weakened to a critical state by influenza, which developed following an attack of pneumonia and pleurisy. He had been invalided since November, and had grown so weak that doctors warned his parents that a transfusion was necessary. Kelly promptly volunteered.

ALASKA-YUKON RALLY SET

The first reunion of the Alaska-Yukon Club for the new year will be held next Monday evening in Veterans' Hall, 246 South Hill street. President H. U. M. Higgins announces that the Juneau division will supply the program, which will be followed by dancing.

SUPERIOR BENCH SHY ON JUDGES

Only Forty-five Jurists Available for Duty Here With Fifty Posts to Fill

It's hard to run fifty Superior Courts with only forty-five judges, but Superior Judge Keetch, presiding, is a miracle man, his associates on the bench say.

With Superior Judge Collier drafted to sit in Ventura, Superior Judge Yankwich ordered by the Judicial Council to sit in Riverside, and Superior Judge Valentine absent on account of illness, who should show up at the Courthouse with a medical certificate yesterday but Superior Judge Emmet Wilson.

Judge Wilson's physician has ordered him to take a month's rest.

So Presiding Judge Keetch got busy on the telephone and drafted Municipal Judge Bogue to serve on the Superior bench. Then he asked the Judicial Council to scour the State for at least three more judges to take "vacations" of hard work in Los Angeles county.

There are forty-eight departments of the Superior Court here but the Judicial Council has arranged for two extra-session departments.

PURCHASING AGENTS VISIT SOAP FACTORY

The Los Angeles Soap Company was host to about 100 members of the Los Angeles Purchasing Agents' Association today at its factory and general offices on East First street. Luncheon was served, at which, after several introductory speeches by company officials, P. P. Keenan, president of the association, voiced the pleasure of the purchasing agents in being permitted to inspect a plant whose products, though locally produced, have found ready reception in twenty-two western States.

WAREHOUSEMEN IN SESSION

Three Hundred Delegates in City for Meeting That Will Continue for Four Days

The annual convention of the American Warehousemen's Association opened at the Biltmore yesterday afternoon with 300 delegates attending. The convention is the first held in Los Angeles and the thirty-eighth in the history of the association. J. Edgar Lee, president, will preside at all sessions of the four-day meeting.

Yesterday's session was brief, most of the time being occupied with organization of the meetings and reports of particular interest to the members. A. G. Arnoll welcomed the delegates to Los Angeles on behalf of the Chamber of Commerce and Lee delivered an opening address in which he urged a high standard of warehousing and invited steamship lines and railroads to enter the field.

Elmer Erickson, general secretary, told of the co-operation of the association with the United States Department of Commerce, and President Louttit of the California Railroad Commission traced the history and operation of State regulation of warehouses.

Wives of the delegates were entertained at luncheon and bridge in the Jonathan Club yesterday afternoon and tonight the annual banquet of the association will be held at the Biltmore with dancing and entertainment afterward. Today's session will open at 10 a.m. with a number of reports on the schedule.

Tomorrow the eastern delegates will be taken on a tour of Hollywood, Beverly Hills and the beaches. Monday the convention will be called to order again with several special divisions meeting separately.

INDIANS TO BE DISCUSSED

"Indian Arts and Crafts" is the subject of an illustrated lecture to be given at the Southwest Museum, Highland Park, tomorrow at 3 p.m. by Mrs. Ruth W. Henley. She is assistant curator of the museum and is familiar with the Pueblo Indians since childhood, having spent the first thirteen years of her life in New Mexico.

PROGRESS MADE IN BANK MERGER

First National and Security Boards Approve

Consummation of Deal Hangs on Stockholders

Full Particulars Promised at Later Date

Consolidation of the Los Angeles-First National Trust and Savings Bank and the Security Trust and Savings Bank, was assured yesterday when directors of both banks approved a plan for the merger of the two institutions under a national charter. The proposal now awaits the indorsement of stockholders, who will receive the details at meetings to be called later.

Partial confirmation of the proposed combination was given Thursday when it was learned that the directorates of the two banks had been called in special meetings. Stocks of the two banks have risen sharply on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange in the last week in response to the rumors.

FIGURES WITHHELD

In a joint statement issued yesterday by J. F. Sartori, president of the Security, and Henry M. Robinson, president of the Los Angeles-First National, it was explained that the terms for exchange of stock into the new bank must await an appraisal of assets. The statement read:

"Until the formal merger agreement is adopted by the stockholders, no definite figures can be given on which to base share values. We feel we should advise stockholders and the public to wait until the actual figures can be made available and not to be unduly influenced by rumors or speculation as to what the figures may be."

On the street the popular rumor is that the exchange for Los Angeles-First National into the new bank will be on a share-for-share basis. For Security the conjecture is 4 4-10 of the new for one of the old.

ROBINSON TO BE HEAD

As forecast in The Times, the consolidated bank will be headed by Mr. Robinson as chairman and Mr. Sartori as president. The joint statement also names J. M. Elliott as honorary chairman of the board; M. S. Hellman, vice-chairman, and Mr. Sartori, chairman of the executive committee, as well as president.

Construction of a central bank building to house the consolidated bank is indicated in the statement as one of the developments to follow the consummation of the merger. Until this can be done, all officers and employees will continue in substantially their same positions, and all offices and branches will continue for the present to function in the same banking quarters, according to the announcement.

Combination of the two banks will give to Los Angeles the eighth largest bank in the United States with resources of approximately $600,000,000 and deposits of about $572,000,000. The banks taking part in the merger are two of the oldest as well as two of the largest in Southern California, the Los Angeles-First National having been established in 1875 and the Security in 1889.

EX-INDIAN FIGHTER TO BE BURIED TODAY

Masonic funeral services for Thomas Allen, former Indian fighter, ex-Sheriff of Harney county, Oregon, and for thirty years superintendent for the William Hanley cattle interests of Oregon will be conducted today at 10:30 a.m. at the Stone & Meyers undertaking establishment. Mr. Allen died suddenly Wednesday at his home in Palms while changing a tire on his automobile. He was 75 years of age.

WAMPAS CALLS OFF FROLIC

Cancellation Gets Unanimous Vote of Members; Official Statement to Give Reasons

The 1929 Wampas Frolic scheduled for next month at the Shrine Auditorium, to introduce to the public this year's thirteen "baby stars," was called off last night by a unanimous vote of the members of the publicity men's organization. The action was taken at a special meeting held at the Hotel Roosevelt in Hollywood.

Within the next twenty-four hours, according to Barrett Keisling, president of the Wampas, an official statement will be forthcoming setting forth the reasons for cancellation of the annual frolic. It is understood that financial problems arose which resulted in abandonment of the plan for the show.

The Wampas Frolic is an annual affair to sponsor thirteen young girls with promising film futures and has been held for a number of years past. The action of the Wampas members came as a surprise to Hollywood, inasmuch as tickets were being sold and plans for the entertainment were nearly complete.

While Wampas members declined to discuss it, it is understood the action was urged by the board of governors and that the vote came after a prolonged discussion. The frolic committee is to meet today to formulate plans for some sort of testimonial gathering for the thirteen "baby stars."

GOLDEN TRIO ENTERTAIN

The Golden Trio has been booked by the Minnesotans for the program next Friday evening, when the Minnesota rally will be held in Music-Art Hall, 233 South Broadway.

There also will be whistling numbers, community singing and vocal solos. Refreshments will be served and dancing is to follow. Plans for the picnic reunion February 16, next, will be announced.

TRUSTEE'S U.S.C. GIFT ANNOUNCED

Official Gives $15,000 to Endowment of University Chair of Philosophy

A gift of $15,000 toward the endowment of the department of philosophy of the University of Southern California from Frank E. Eckhart, a member of the university's board of trustees, was announced yesterday by Harry J. Bauer, chairman. In announcing the gift it was stated that to date $293,200 had been subscribed toward the building of a hall of philosophy and for the endowment of its teaching.

FRANK E. ECKHART

"In many institutions of higher learning," Mr. Eckhart said in making his gift, "the scientific aspects of life are emphasized to the disparagement of the truths of religion. The result is moral confusion in the minds of youth. The department of philosophy of this university is committed to the task of mediation between science and religion.

"I am glad to have been able to further this movement and to provide a portion of the fund required to endow this important enterprise."

COLORADANS TO DANCE

A dance to be held next Friday evening under the auspices of the Colorado State Society at 1024 South Grand avenue. A special vaudeville program will feature the entertainment.

ALMA RUBENS'S NERVES BREAK

She Fights Physician Taking Her to Sanatorium

Film Player Finally Put in Ambulance for Trip

Alma Rubens, Hollywood motion-picture actress and wife of Ricardo Cortez, was in the Rosemead Sanatorium near Alhambra last night, suffering from a complete nervous breakdown following her flight down Hollywood Boulevard yesterday which ended when she is asserted to have stabbed with a paper knife H. Barnett, 525 South Manhattan Place, a medical student. The latter was not seriously hurt.

Dr. E. W. Meyer, Miss Rubens's physician, who joined in the pursuit of the actress with Barrett, stated that Miss Rubens's condition is serious and that it may be two months before she recovers.

The physician and his assistant, Barrett, called for Miss Rubens at her home at 1745 North Wilton Place, yesterday noon to escort her to the sanatorium, according to Hollywood police reports and a statement made by Dr. Meyer.

CHASE STARTS

When Miss Rubens, Dr. Meyer and Barrett reached the physician's car the actress suddenly bolted down the street to Hollywood Boulevard, Dr. Meyer said.

"Barrett and I gave chase," the physician recounted, "and called for Miss Rubens to stop. But she ran faster, started screaming that she was being kidnaped, tore off her hat and gloves and threw her purse away."

The two men overtook Miss Rubens on Hollywood Boulevard near Van Ness avenue, according to police who were called to the scene by C. C. Howard, an oil station operator at 5803 Hollywood Boulevard.

Miss Rubens brandished the knife, police and Dr. Meyer asserted, and struck Barrett in the shoulder and in the leg. Barrett was not wounded seriously.

The knife was taken away from Miss Rubens, according to Dr. Meyer, and he and Barrett took her back to the physician's car and started for the sanatorium.

Efforts to quiet Miss Rubens, however, were futile, the physician declared, and the trio stopped near the LeRoy Bagley mortuary at 5440 Hollywood Boulevard, and called for an ambulance.

ANOTHER ATTEMPT

While waiting for the ambulance, Miss Rubens is asserted to have tried a second escape. Another call was made for Hollywood police, but by the time they arrived, Miss Rubens had been placed in the ambulance and driven away to the sanatorium.

Ricardo Cortez was reported not at home last night, but Mrs. A. Driscoll, who said she is Miss Rubens's aunt, stated that her niece's condition resulted from overwork in completing a motion picture. Mrs. Driscoll stated that Miss Rubens had not been in favor of going to the sanatorium, but had consented yesterday.

Detective Lieutenants Larimer and Coward answered both police calls, and verified Dr. Meyer's account of the double attempt of the actress to escape her physician.

Asserted wild parties conducted by Miss Rubens recently have resulted in her being placed under $500 bond to insure her appearance in court on charges of disturbing the peace.

The complaint was made by Mrs. Sarah Uhl, Miss Rubens's landlady. Rita Carewe and Leroy Mason, motion-picture players, are scheduled to appear as witnesses against Miss Rubens.

Fall From Box Kills Woman

A fall from a soap box in her home at 12514 South Main street, two weeks ago, resulted in the death yesterday of Mrs. Ida F. Knight, 75 years of age, according to reports on file at the Sheriff's office yesterday.

Death was caused by a cerebral hemorrhage, according to Dr. A. W. Lindberg.

FISH CANNING RULE TESTED

Efforts of State Commission to Padlock Sardine Plants Resisted in Court Action

Efforts to close up the plants of a trio of sardine packing concerns for three months made by the California Fish and Game Commission for an asserted violation of a rule which requires that fifteen cases of sardines shall be packed from each ton of fish received at the factory, are being made at a hearing on a petition for an injunction before Superior Judge Tappaan.

It is expected that a decision in the present action will determine for all time to come a strict definition of the term offal in connection with fish canneries in California.

The defendants who are in court to show cause why the injunction should not issue are the Van Camp Sea Food Company, the Southern California Fish Corporation and the Wedum Packing Company. They are represented in court by Attorney B. D. Marx Greene of San Francisco, who besides being counsel for the canneries is vice-president and general manager of the California Sardine Export Association.

The Fish and Game Commission is represented at the hearing by Attorney Eugene D. Bennett.

According to the commission the defendant canning companies failed to pack fifteen cases of sardines from each ton of fish received at their plants and that such failure constituted a violation of what is known as Rule 6. The penalty for such violation is padlocking the factory for a period of three months.

It is the contention of the canneries that the order of the commission which endeavors to determine the capacity of a canning plant is arbitrary, unreasonable and illegal. Also that such a rule has the effect in compelling packer to pack fish that are unfit.

B. Houssels, vice-president of the Van Camp Sea Food Company, was one of the principal witnesses yesterday for the defendants. He testified that because of the rule of the commission his plant has been compelled at times to pack unfit tuna fish and sardines.

The Lancer

by Harry Carr

THIS year those bright young men of the Wampas seem to have selected "Baby Stars" who are not experienced veterans of the screen.

There have been seasons when an appropriate slogan for the Baby Stars would have been:

"Thirteen Baby Stars—Each baby thirteen years on the screen."

A PATRIOT

Senator Walsh of Montana is a statesman whose heart beats and throbs for the good of humanity—a true patriot. He has just blocked the bill in Congress to save the big trees of Yosemite; says it might interfere with his country estate. Visitors who are now in Los Angeles from Montana should take heart, however; we all have our crosses to bear.

IF HE HAD SUCCEEDED!

Last summer Senator Walsh announced himself as a candidate for President of the United States. Well, well; we all have our little jests.

MONEY TALKS

Debts to the United States will be a subject not tactful to be mentioned at the coming session of the Reparations Council in Paris.

Probably on the principle that it is no use talking about something you never intend to do.

The announced make-up of Mr. Hoover's Cabinet indicates, however, that the Allies will have to indulge in considerable conversation about what they owe—like it or not. There is a peculiar significance in the fact that Dwight Morrow, Secretary-of-State-to-be, is a financier of international standing.

JOSTLING THE CLOUDS

A skyscraper 110 stories high is contemplated for New York. The architect says there is no reason why office buildings should not go still higher.

There is probably no physical reason why they should not go 200 stories high; but when that comes life in the streets below will become a struggle for room and air. The reason that streets already have arrived at the suffocating point is that buildings are too high. The population of a good-sized city is concentrated on a hundred feet of street front.

BLEAK OUTLOOK

I should think that the sheik who eloped with a 15-year-old Pasadena girl would find no comfort in the knowledge that the enraged father who hunted around Tia Juana with a loaded revolver for him, now is on his way to New Mexico to take his daughter home.

"MA" FERGUSON

One of the convicts pardoned by "Ma" Ferguson of Texas is in jail for trying to kill his lady love; he was doing life for killing another girl in Texas when "Ma's" ready fountain pen signed his pardon.

It is impossible to estimate what "Ma's" pardons to crooks have cost this country; or what "Ma" herself cost the State of Texas in prestige and dignity. An honest heart can live down any mistake of the past. Texas, in sackcloth and ashes, might be able to live down "Ma."

SOUTH DAKOTANS TO MEET

President N. E. Anderson urges all South Dakotans to attend the February reunion next Friday evening in Veterans' Hall, 246 South Hill street. Following the program there will be dancing.

Ex-Convict Trio Seized by Police as Perpetrators of "Torture" Jewel Robbery

ONE CONFESSES PART IN HOLD-UP

Two Partially Identified in Another Affair

Recent Thefts Held Solved by Men's Capture

Prison Records of Suspects Known to Authorities

Solution of a recent $6000 diamond robbery and possible solution of a second $12,000 robbery was announced by Captain of Detectives Cahill yesterday with the arrests of Roy de Hogg, 36 years of age, Walter Dayly, 46, and John Golden, 39, asserted ex-convicts.

Dayly, according to Cahill, confessed being one of the two bandits who held up Mr. and Mrs. Abram Zacharonsky in their home at 1537 West Twenty-ninth street last Wednesday night and, after binding them hand and foot, forced them under threat of torture to disclose the hiding place of their valuables.

Hogg, though denying any part in the robbery, was identified by Mr. and Mrs. Zacharonsky as Dayly's partner.

Golden is suspected of having driven the automobile in which the bandits made their escape after the robbery, it was stated.

PARTLY IDENTIFIED

Partial identification of Dayly and Golden as the two bandits who held them up last Saturday night was made by Mrs. T. H. Peppers and R. P. Beamish of 217 South Lorraine Boulevard. The robberry occurred in front of Mrs. Peppers's home at 163 South June street. Mrs. Peppers had been accompanied home by Mr. and Mrs Beamish from a theater party. Mrs. Beamish waited in her husband's automobile while Mr. Beamish escorted Mrs. Peppers to her front door. There the bandits stepped out of the shadows of shrubbery, leveled revolvers and threatened to shoot them if they offered resistance.

From Mrs. Peppers the bandits obtained jewelry valued at $12,400, and from Mr. Beamish $40 in cash.

Arrest of the three suspects was made by Detective Lieutenants Sperry, Pruitt McCaleb and Gibson on information furnished by Captain of Detectives Vernand of the University police division detective bureau.

NUMBER TRACED

Several hours after the robbery of Mrs. Peppers and Mr. Beamish Capt. Vernand succeeded in tracing the license number of the automobile used by the bandits. Further investigation showed, according to Capt. Vernand, that its occupants had made an attempt to dispose of a large quantity of diamond jewelry to a local "fence."

At this juncture of the investigation Capt. Cahill and his men joined the search, the car was again traced and the arrests made. The same car, it was stated, was used in the robbery of Mr. and Mrs. Zacharonsky, giving the detectives the lead on which partial identifications of Dayly and Golden were made yesterday.

Dayly, according to police records, has served sentences in penitentiaries in Idaho, Montana, Oregon and in San Quentin and Folsom. Hogg, Cahill stated, was paroled from San Quentin in August, 1926, after serving eight of a one-to-twenty-year sentence for implication in the robbery of the Home Trust and Savings Bank here. Golden, Cahill said, was sent to Leavenworth penitentiary for mail robbery in Omaha, Neb., and later was pardoned by the President.

WITNESS GONE IN HARDY CASE

photostatic copies of letters, was turned over to Little yesterday by Chief Deputy District Attorney Jordan. The letters included those written by Judge Hardy to McKinley and one to Mrs. Sielaff.

Mr. Jordan said he will attend today's hearing, and it is indicated that if sufficient evidence to warrant the proceeding is brought out, the District Attorney's office will resume its investigation.

Col. Thomas Cooke, foreman of the grand jury, said that the grand jury's evidence in connection with the affair will be turned over to Assemblyman Little, and that the grand jury will render the committee any assistance required.

Miss Morris is wanted by the committee to testify concerning attempts to locate men who were supposed to be the mysterious kidnapers of Mrs. McPherson. An attempt on the part of peace officers to find her proved abortive. Her testimony is regarded by the committee as of extreme value.

To control the throngs expected at the hearing, two legislative sergeants-at-arms have been directed to take charge of seating arrangements in the Railroad Commission hearing rooms.

Assemblyman Hornblower of San Francisco, accompanied by Mrs. Hornblower, flew down from the northern city yesterday and are quartered at the Biltmore. Assemblyman Hornblower immediately repaired to Chairman Little's office, where he began to familiarize himself with the evidence. The pair worked until late at night and then locked up the documents in a safe.

Assemblyman Clowdsley of Stockton, another member, is expected to arrive this morning. Assemblymen Sewell of Whittier and Woolwine of Los Angeles complete the committee.

Convicts Taken East to Prison

Mrs. Allieve Sawyer, Long Beach apartment-house owner, left yesterday in custody of Deputy United States Marshal Jones for the Federal detention home for women at Alderson, W. Va., to serve a term of a year and a half for using the mails to defraud in connection with the promotion of the sale of the so-called petrified body of her son.

Other prisoners were scheduled for eastern points.

Actress Promises That She Won't Marry

Sally Blane

SALLY BLANE, Wampas baby star, forged herself a suit of arrow-proof armor against the shafts of Cupid yesterday.

In Superior Judge Keetch's court, Miss Blane signed a five-year contract with F.B.O. studios, guaranteeing that she will work for $110 to $600 a week, and will abstain from marriage during that period, unless her employers approve.

Miss Blane is 18 years of age so a Superior Court judge had to help sign her contract.

JURY FAILS TO SHAKE HAYES

Convict Denies Knowing How Hawkins Got Gun Used in Fatal Justice Hall Shooting

Further examination yesterday of "Zeke" Hayes by the grand jury failed to cast any light on the mysterious origin of a gun with which Jack Hawkins, another convict, attempted to shoot his way to liberty from a jail elevator last week and paid for the bold essay with his life.

Hayes, who was handcuffed to Hawkins when the latter fell before a stream of officer's bullets, was on the grand jury witness stand and with the jurors for several hours, during which he gave way to tearful explanations, but denied emphatically that he knew where his dead pal obtained the weapon.

PRISONER TELLS OF QUARREL

Out of the investigation came the facts that Hayes and Hawkins quarreled bitterly in the jail two months ago, which necessitated their separation and that later Hawkins told Hayes that he intended to kill him.

While the feeling still persisted that Hayes was not telling the jury all he knew, Attorney Schenck, who represents him, was called to the jury room in an effort to elicit further information but Hayes contended doggedly that he did not know the origin of the gun.

To the grand jury he asserted that he did not have the handcuff key, which was found in his jail bunk after the shooting. Sheriff Traeger, however, declares flatly to the jury that he saw the key drop from Hayes's pocket onto the bed.

LEACH JURY CASE UP

Officials in the investigation are about equally divided in believing that Hayes is telling the truth, or that he is concealing information, true to the underworld code. The inquiry will be resumed Tuesday when several attaches of the jail hospital and turnkeys will appear for questioning.

Another matter before the jury yesterday was the charges of jury tampering and asserted third-degree methods used by majority jurors to force an agreement in the trial of Martin A. Leach, a Los Angeles promoter, convicted of twenty-six counts of grand theft.

Although the grand jury had requested the presence of several members of the Leach jury, the matter finally was deferred until Monday morning for hearing.

Immediately after this jury had reached a verdict convicting Leach of twenty-six counts of grand theft and violation of the Corporate Securities Act and Frank Hurlburt, a co-defendant, of one count, three women members charged that they had been "third-degreed" to force an agreement. The jury had been out for 100 hours.

"Casey" Jones Plans Aviation School Here

Establishment of a flying school here in the near future was announced at the Ambassador yesterday by C. S. (Casey) Jones, president of the Curtis Flying Service, who is seeking a site.

As soon as the proper location is found work will be started on hangars and other equipment, and within a few months the school will be able to train as many as 200 flyers in a class, according to Jones.

"Los Angeles is the ideal flying center of the United States and we are going to establish one of our schools here because no other place has such flying weather," declared Jones.

The Curtiss flying service already maintains schools at Detroit and Chicago. It also operates an airplane taxi service in several eastern cities.

Jones himself has spent more than 3500 hours in the air and is well known in aviation circles. He started for California from New York with Col. Charles A. Lindbergh. Lindbergh turned back at Chicago and Jones flew on alone.

DELINQUENTS GIVEN ANOTHER WARNING

Another warning was given yesterday by C. K. Steele, director of assessments for the Board of Public Works, to delinquent property owners in the assessment district for the opening and widening of Third street between Figueroa street and Vermont avenue. He pointed out again that only those property owners who have brought suit to restrain the collection of the assessments may become delinquent without having liens put on their properties. Unless the others pay up before next Friday liens on their properties will be sold to the city and additional penalties imposed.

SHAW ANSWERS COUNTY CRITICS

Replies to Charges Against Charities Management

Supervisor Tells of Survey Now Being Conducted

Needs at General Hospital Shown in Statement

Replying to criticism that there has been "loose" management in the handling of county charities and hospitals, Supervisor Shaw said yesterday that an investigation is under way and he made public a preliminary report of a survey carried on under his direction. It is the primary purpose of the report, he added, to apprise the public of the fundamental needs of these divisions of county government and such immediate corrective measures as may be needed.

The survey, Mr. Shaw said, will determine the extent of reorganization needed, changes in departmental heads, case supervisors, visitors' systems, etc; the setting up of machinery found lacking by the grand jury, the bureau of efficiency and his own office, which will detect waste and inefficiency and "make possible sane administration and revision where such waste and inefficiency is found prevalent." The survey, he added, also will determine changes necessary in bringing about "a more economic and beneficial application of county charity such as will comply with the recommendations of the grand jury and bureau of efficiency.

AIMS OF WORK TOLD

"Determined and firm executive administration of the various departments coming under the general tern county charities has been ordered and such order will be invoked rigidly with the further encouragement to weed out inefficient and temperamentally unfit employees," Mr. Shaw said. "This office will not act to prevent the discharge of inefficient employees as long as the principles of a square deal, sensible reasoning and analysis are applied in the course of such dismissals. Rather, the dismissal of inefficient and inactive employees will be immediately requested.

"It was found during the few months' economic business principles urged by the grand jury and the bureau of efficiency were applied in the conduct of county charity that such business-like procedure is possible as well as profitable to the county. A continuation of such methods and the addition of a simplified systematic operation of all departments of the county charities has been programmed for the present and future.

"Early indications show that in 1929 the population will be increased rapidly from month to month and such increase will be a drain upon the funds of the charities department, inasmuch as a large percentage of all population increases are dependent upon county relief.

HOSBITAL NEED SHOWN

"Comparisons of actual relief expenditures for the past six years show that the apparent enormous expenditures in relief furnished and the cost of its administration were arrested considerably following the partial application of business principles and organization.

"Misinterpretation of the title outdoor poor relief and laxity on the part of the case supervisors and visitors in defining 'relief' has encouraged that attitude among the indigents that the county must relieve their every necessity and that it is the province of the county to support them as a matter of course.

"As a means of discouraging such misconstrued beliefs the name of this charities division will be changed to county welfare and employees of this division, from the departmental head to the office personnel and field visitors, have been instructed to emphasize the true meaning of county aid as defined by the law under the principles of mercy. This will eliminate, in a measure, the practices of professional indigents."

The County Farm, Mr. Shaw found, has found it difficult to meet the pace of population growth, while crowded conditions at General Hospital manifest the crying need for the earliest possible completion of the new County Hospital unit No. 3.

JURY NOW HOLDS FATE OF LASKER

Venire in Case of Former Financier Locked Up for Night After Instructions

The fate of A. I. Lasker, former head of the Lasker Finance Corporation, was placed in the hands of a jury late yesterday in Judge Emmett Wilson's department of Superior Court. The jury was locked up for the night at 9 p.m. Lasker was tried on two counts of grand theft and six counts of making false entries in the books of the finance corporation.

Instructions were given to the jury of six men and six women following the completion of closing arguments, presented for the defense by Attorney Dudley Robinson and for the State by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Van Cott.

Lasker was charged with making a number of false entries in the company's books with intent to defraud the company of approximately $150,000. He also is under indictment with former Dist.-Atty. Keyes in connection with the asserted "fixing" of criminal charges filed against him during Keyes's regime in the District Attorney's office.

Attempts to have the present charges dismissed on the ground that Lasker had been placed in jeopardy by the previous accusations failed when Judge Wilson denied a defense motion for dismissal and ordered the case to go to the jury.

The present case went to trial last month.

Other Woman Named by Wife of Oil Operator

Fred W. Roberts, wealthy Glendale oil operator, not only deserted his wife and four children, but lived at Lynwood with another woman, Mrs. Isabella B. Roberts asserts in a divorce petition filed yesterday.

Mrs. Roberts names Ada De Lue as co-respondent in the suit, and demands a division of oil property worth $175,000 and alimony of $1000 a month pending the divorce settlement. Roberts left home in June, 1925 according to Mrs. Roberts, and since then has not adequately supported his family.

On one occasion, Mrs. Roberts says, he took Miss De Lue to San Francisco and introduced her as his wife.

SUFFERER ENDS CAREER IN JAIL

Widow's Son, Ill and Jobless, Passes Bad Checks

Captured by Victim, Culprit Ends Life in Cell

Pathetic Farewell to Family Scrawled on Wall

Benny Gustinski, 26 years of age, the son of a widow living in poverty at 6223 Home avenue, wanted to die anyway, because "I have T.B." But before he died, according to a note he wrote on the wall of the Georgia-street Jail with a piece of glass yesterday, he wanted to get a job to help his mother. He couldn't find a job, so he forged several checks and was caught.

Using the same piece of glass with which he wrote a parting message to his mother and another to the authorities of the University of Southern California, bequeathing the institution his body for scientific purposes, Benny opened an artery in his arm in his cell early yesterday morning and got his wish. He was found dead by Jailer Glendenning when the latter opened the cell door to give Benny his breakfast.

JAIL-BREAK THREAT

With the news of Benny's death came the information that extra guards had been placed in the Georgia-street Jail on Thursday night to prevent a jail-break. Benny had threatened that he would get out and take other prisoners with him. Instead he committed suicide. The note he left for his mother, scratched on the cell's painted wall, read as follows:

"Dear Loving Mother: After you had begged me not to do anything wrong I did, anyway. My lawyer wanted money and I couldn't find work, so I told you that I was working because you were worrying so much. I thought that I could find work, but I couldn't. I found the checks I had the day I told you I got work and I knew that you wouldn't want any money because you wanted me to give it to my lawyer.

"SONG TO FATHER"

"Forgive me, sweet little mother, for living—I am going to father today. It is the best way out. I'm sorry I brought all this shame and disgrace on you, so I am going to die. Oh, mother, mother, how sorry I am that you should suffer so on account of me. Give B. and Rose my love—also to Mary—my best regards to Floyd and Mr. and Mrs. Pope.

"If I didn't find work this week I was going to die anyway. I would have killed myself already but you were so in debt that you could not bury me. You couldn't afford to bury me, dear mother, so I want my body to go to U.S.C. for scientific purposes. So good-by, sweet, loving mother—so-long Alfred and Steve—Good-by Mary and Floyd. So-long, B. and Rose and all the Fredericks and Floyd."

BODY TO HOSPITAL

This message was unsigned but the second, scrawled on another part of the wall was addressed "to U.S.C. and the General Hospital, latter preferred," and asked the authorities of either institution to "kindly accept me for scientific purposes so that I may be of some use in the world. My folks cannot afford to bury me." This message, although addressed to the institutions, closed with "Good-by, mother, pray for me so that I may meet you in heaven —Good-by—I have T. B. anyhow.

"BENNY GUSTINSKI."

Gustinski was arrested on the night of the 23rd inst., after a chase. He had attempted, the police said, to pass a check for $24 in a grocery store. The grocer, becoming suspicious, held the check. Gustinski grabbed it and ran. He was captured and clubbed into unconsciousness by his captors, who called the police. The police said they thought the records would show he had been arrested before.

Fathers of Two Girls Ask Police to Start Search

Fear that their daughters may have been lured away caused the parents of Naomi La Rose and Frances Fuller, each 13 years of age, to request a police search for them yesterday.

NAOMI LA ROSE

The girls were seen last on the 17th inst. at the home of the Fuller girl at 4033 Cumberland avenue, according to the report of the girls' fathers, George La Rose and Earl Fuller, to Captain of Detectives Hansen of the police juvenile bureau.

Naomi, is is stated, visited her friend, and later told Mrs. Fuller that they were going back to Naomi's home at 1402½ Bates street. They never arrived there, it is stated. Neither girl had any extra clothing or left any indication that they intended running away, the fathers stated.

INFANT'S BODY FOUND IN OLD AUTOMOBILE

The body of a one-day-old boy was found last night in a bundle left on the rear seat of a dismounted old automobile tonneau standing on a vacant lot at Second and Mission streets. Policemen Pitts and La Teer, passing in a police car, noticed the bundle and investigated. A gunny sack and a paper bag contained the infant's body, which was wrapped in a piece of blue calico dress. The body was sent to the morgue.

WESTINGHOUSE PRESIDENT HERE

Herr Expresses Optimism for Future

Regards Los Angeles as Fertile Field

Describes Expansions in Electricity

Here primarily for personal reasons E. M. Herr president of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, took occasion yesterday to voice optimistic views regarding matters electrical. He expressed satisfaction at the steady year-by-year progress of the Westinghouse company, which advance, national in scope, he declared represents a healthy growth and is far better than a boom, which usually requires the alteration of manufacturing facilities.

E.M. HERR

Los Angeles with its unusually low electrical rates to the household and industrial consumer provides a fertile field for the development of the electrical-appliance industry, he said, and declared that far more electricity per person is being consumed here than in large eastern cities, where the rates in some instances are double those of Los Angeles.

USES NEWSPAPERS

Mr. Herr said that to forward electrification of homes and industries the Westinghouse company last year inaugurated a new policy of newspaper advertising, forsaking its former practice of advertising in periodicals and journals, the success of which undertaking has resulted in an increased appropriation for the ensuing year.

Touching on the electrification of railroads, Mr. Herr cited the recent decision of the Pennsylvania Railroad to electrify its New York-to-Washington run, involving an expense of approximately $100,000,000. Because of the economical operation of electric trains, which among other features are not required to stop for refueling and do not require turntables for the engines, he expressed the belief that eventually all roads beset with heavy traffic, such as the New York-Washington run of the Pennsylvania, will be obliged to consider electrification.

The development of radio, in which the Westinghouse company is playing a dominant part, is phenomenal, he said. Talking motion pictures and television rapidly are becoming simplified in the experimental laboratories of the company. That television at a moderate cost may be within the reach of everyone within four or five years is probable, he said.

NEW PROCESS

Characterized as a boon to the building industry, he pointed out recent developments of the company in the welding of structural steel by electricity. The new process eliminates riveting; is silent and unlike riveting does not weaken the steel at the joints. Exhaustive tests have proved it a superior method of construction, he said.

The Westinghouse company, which maintains fourteen district offices, one of which is in Los Angeles, is concentrating its activities in seven such offices. The balance of its business will be conducted through sub-branches, according to plans. It operates two manufacturing plants in Emeryville, one for the production of porcelain and the other for appliances.

Mr. Herr, whose trip west was prompted by the illness of his wife's brother, Frank Forsyth, arrived Monday. He intends to remain for about two weeks and while here is staying at his brother-in-law's home in Altadena.

New Tints for Homes Topic at Convention

Will you paint your new or old stucco house this spring in Yuma Red, that suggests Hopi and Mohave desert atmosphere, or would you rather have your home by the sea finished in Del Monte gray, smacking of salt air, of the sea and sand dunes?

The color question yesterday was the pertinent topic at a sales convention held by the members of the Bass-Hueter Paint Company. The meeting, held in the Alexandria, was in charge of President E. H. Dyer, and was attended by delegates from various Southern California districts.

"The color question is an up-to-date question," A. E. Lawrence, advertising manager, stated. "In the final analysis, it is a woman's question and will be solved by her."

The speaker declared that various new colors for home painting have been developed, such as Yuma red, Del Monte grey, Cascade green and Carmel blue. He said a successful color scheme for Southern California must be indigenous to climate and soil.

BUTLER RECOVERING AFTER OPERATION

Fred J. Butler of the theatrical producing firm of Belasco, Butler & Curran, one of the lessees of the Belasco Theater, is reported to be recovering rapidly from an operation for mastoiditis at the Good Samaritan Hospital. Butler was operated on Tuesday by Dr. Hill Hastings, with Drs. Phillip Newmark, Otto Brown and Melville Loomis in consultation. It is expected he will be able to be removed to his home, 514 South Mariposa street, next week.

TWO VALLEY BOULEVARD PLANS AIDED

Council Denies Protests Against Bond Elections in San Fernando District

One of the most extensive improvement programs ever undertaken in the San Fernando Valley district was launched formally yesterday when the City Council denied protests against the petitions to hold elections in the three municipal improvement districts which have been formed to carry out the program. The bond issues to be voted on total $1,360,000.

The program comprises the improvement of Ventura Boulevard from Lankershim Boulevard to Sepulveda Boulevard, a distance of seven miles, and of South Sherman Way from Ventura Boulevard to Valley Vista Boulevard, a distance of three and a half miles. Ventura Boulevard between the limits mentioned is paved at present to a width of twenty feet and it is planned to widen it to seventy feet.

The Sherman Way improvement is designed to connect the valley with the new site of the University of California at Los Angeles and the rapidly developing section contingent to it by providing a broad paved highway from Ventura Boulevard to Wilshire Boulevard.

Under the action of the Council yesterday, the program will be carried forward after the approval by the voters of the necessary bond issues at special elections which will be held on the following dates: Municipal Improvement District No. 61, for the improvement of Ventura Boulevard between Lankershim Boulevard and Pacoima avenue, $670,000 bonds, February 21; District No. 62, Ventura Boulevard from Pacoima avenue to Sepulveda Boulevard, $315,000 bonds, February 19; and District No. 63, South Sherman Way, $375,000 bonds, February 19.

WOMAN HELD UNTIL COURT FINDS CHILD

Hearing on ex-Husband's Complaint Continued for Further Action Today

Mrs. Alfhild Scott doesn't like her husband, A. P. Scott, but she is very fond of her 6-year-old daughter, Louise Ann.

So when a divorce decree gave Scott the custody of little Louise, Mrs. Scott packed her daughter off to Seattle to stay until her husband's detectives would become tired of searching for her.

Six months ago, however, Mrs. Scott returned to Los Angeles, unable to bear the rigors of the northern climate. And she kept the child in a school at Sixth street and Vermont avenue. Yesterday detectives found Mrs. Scott, living under the name of Hanson. They immediately had her arrested on a writ of habeas corpus and took her to court.

Mrs. Scott reluctantly told Superior Judge Rosenkranz where the child is located, and the judge ordered her held for an hour until bailiffs could rush out and attach the child on the writ, which was granted.

"My husband hasn't contributed a cent toward the child's support for a year," Mrs. Scott said. "He just wants to get possession of the child in order to make me feel bad."

The hearing was continued until today at 10 a.m., when the child will be in court.

Gargle with Listerine

Kills germs in 15 seconds

Don't let a sore throat get serious. It's a germ condition that ought to be whipped early.

At the first sign of trouble, gargle with full strength Listerine. Your improvement ought to be rapid. If it is not, consult your doctor.

Listerine, full strength, is effective against infections because it is powerful against germs. It kills even the virulent B. Typhosus (typhoid) germ in 15 seconds, as shown by repeated tests in three great laboratories.

CITY'S MILK SCORES HIGH IN ANALYSIS

Health Department Finds Seven-Month Test Shows 95.4 Per Cent Rating

Official representatives of the Bureau of Dairy Control, State Department of Agriculture, recently completed a surprise milk scoring contest and survey of the city milk supply.

Samples of milk were taken from each creamery and dairy supplying milk to the city. These samples were scored for flavor, odor, sediment, and bacterial count; also chemical analysis was made for butterfat and other solids. Inspectors of the Los Angeles city health department collected the samples and the score represents the quality of milk supplied to the consumer from day to day.

Under the direction of Dr. George Parrish, health officer, and Dr. William Veit, city veterinarian, are fourteen dairy inspectors who spend their time on dairy and plant inspection and in collection of milk for analysis in the city laboratory. During the seven months ending December 31, last, 2882 samples were collected by the inspectors and analyzed by the city laboratory. As a result of this continuous checking of the city milk supply by the health department, the rating given by the bureau of dairy control was 95.4 per cent.

MARCO PLEA OPPOSED IN FLYNN BRIEF

Deputy Attorney-General Deals Blow to Effort for Reversal and New Trial

Quoting thirty experts from high California court decisions, Deputy State Attorney-General Flynn yesterday filed a brief in the Appellate Court opposing the appeal of Albert Marco, alias Marco Albori, from a two-to-twenty-year sentence in San Quentin on assault charges.

The brief deals largely with legal technicalities and purports to refute all of the points urged by Thomas White, defense attorney, in an opening brief asking for a reversal of judgment and new trial.

Flynn's brief asserts that the trial court's instructions to the jury on the matters of law were correct and proper, that the trial court properly refused the defendant's request for instructions to the jury, that the court did not comment on the facts of the case, that there was no abuse of discretion during the trial and that the evidence is sufficient to support the verdict.

The brief also contains a lengthy statement of the case and lays great stress on the legal authorities quoted.

Albori, asserted vice baron, was convicted of assault in connection with the shooting of Dominic Conterno and Harry Judson recently in the Ship Cafe at Venice. He now is in the County Jail pending a determination of his appeal by the Appellate Court.

POLICE AID SOUGHT IN BOND HUNT

Disappearance of Fortune After Death of Woman Attributed to Theft

Futile search for a small fortune in Liberty bonds following the death recently of Miss Fannie Gapen, 35 years of age, at Hotel Trenton, 427 South Olive street, will result in a call for assistance from police today, it was announced last night by Mrs. Florence Baker, a cousin from Indianapolis.

Miss Gapen was known to have owned a number of unregistered Liberty bonds, Mrs. Baker declared, and statements attributed to her cousin by friends to the effect that her income was sufficient for subsistence without having to work lead her to believe that the amount invested in bonds must have exceeded $25,000.

A thorough search has been made of all local banks, it was stated, and no trace of a safety deposit box or account of any kind has been found. The fruitless search and the fact that Miss Gapen left no will or information as to where her fortune might be located left the conclusion for Mrs. Baker that her cousin retained the bonds in her own possession and that they were stolen from her effects following death.

A homemade cloth container in which bonds would have fitted was found empty in Miss Gapen's purse, it was said, and all other effects had been packed in a trunk and stored in the hotel basement when Mrs. Baker arrived from Indianapolis to take charge of the body which has been cremated and returned to Indiana for burial.

The fact that Miss Gapen's fortune was invested in Liberty bonds was made known to Mrs. Baker last July, when the latter visited here. The former had inherited a large amount of property and money from her parents and early last year had sold a house in Indiana for $5000 cash, all of which went into Liberty bonds, Mrs. Baker reported.

PORTS OPEN UP NEW FARM ERA

Maynard McFie Points Out Foreign Trade Growth

Development Association Has Aided Commerce Gain

Agriculturists Form Only Part of Beneficiaries

The increasing dependence of California farmers on the State's ports for distribution of farm and orchard produce was shown by Maynard McFie, a director of the California Development Association, in a talk yesterday before the Lions' Club at the Biltmore.

Nearly one-third of the State's foreign exports of $287,000,000 in 1927 were farm products, according to McFie. Of the total of $87,000,000 in agricultural exports, the largest single item, $13,265,000 worth of unmanufactured cotton, moved through the Los Angeles customs district to world markets.

McFie, who is past president of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce in addition to being director of the State chamber of Commerce, emphasized foreign trade as one of the problems affecting both the business man and the farmer. He was speaking in connection with the association's campaign for 1000 new members to bring about greater development of agriculture, industry and commerce within the State.

FOREIGN MARKETS

"The California farmer, more than ever before, is taking advantage of foreign markets for the disposal of his crops," McFie declared. "He is loading the holds of outbound ships with his produce and sending it to every port of the world—cotton to Japan, peaches to Java, apples to Holland, butter and eggs to Buenos Aires, oranges to England, barley to Germany, dried fruit to Scandinavia; to bring back thousands of dollars in profits and to open new markets destined to relieve his problems of overproduction.

"The farmer has always counted on this export business for disposal of a large part of his crops, but for the first time he is concerning himself directly with the development of these markets. To dispose of the surplus that has been such a serious problem in the past, he sees South and Central America, the Orient and Europe as buyers of astounding potentialities.

"Cotton, barley, dried and canned fruits continue to be the chief exports, but the California farmer now is experiencing a new and heavy demand for his fresh farm and orchard produce.

"ICE BOX" SHIPS

"Refrigerated ships—huge floating ice boxes—almost unknown in California ports six years ago, now are taking thousands of tons of fresh fruit and vegetables to Europe, Latin America and the Far East. The export of oranges from Los Angeles Harbor amounts to more than $3,000,000 a year, while other fresh produce is headed for the $1,000,000 class.

"The importance of the rapidly growing trade out of California ports is shown by the fact that nearly $100,000,000 worth of new, speedy ocean vessels are being built or announced for the transportation of California's farm, forest and factory products to world markets.

"The foreign trade committee of the California Development Association, co-operating with agricultural organizations throughout the State, is planning the development of this new export trade by stimulating better transportation, communication and marketing facilities.

MANY PROJECTS

"Development of markets, however, is only one of some twenty projects the California Development Association, as the State chamber of commerce, is undertaking for the farmer. Rodent control, weed control, plant disease and pest control are projects where activities of the association and co-ordinating agencies have saved the California farmer many thousands of dollars annually.

"Production, marketing, legislative and labor problems have been studied and material contribution made toward their solution. The association is aiding to create Statewide and national sentiment against the passage of legislation which would cause California a disastrous economic loss through precipitate closing of the State's usual farm labor supply.

"Conservation, carried on by other departments of the association, is working toward the fire-proofing of our forests to guarantee a perpetual and sufficient water supply for orchards and fields.

CLOSER CONTACT

"In California there is an increasing realization of the interdependency of agriculture, business and industry. Through the California Development Association, we are bringing agriculture into intimate and continuous contact with business and industrial forces. At all meetings of the association, local and State-wide, agricultural leaders mingle with the leaders of commerce and industry to the mutual advantage of all.

"Many of our agricultural problems can be solved by the farmer himself, but it is more and more evident that many others, such as water supply, quarantine, marketing and labor and irrigation vitally affect both rural and urban people and best can be solved through co-operation of all interested groups. The California Development Association is providing a basis for the solution of these fundamental problems in addition to effecting an organization to handle emergencies."

DESERT TRIP MADE

Because travelers to the Morengo Desert recently reported finding old Indian writings on the rocks there, Thomas L. Hosmer, executive manager of the Woodcraft Rangers, is in the desert this week-end seeking the writings and a camp site for the Rangers' spring vacation exploration trip. The boys will spend a week camping in the desert and studying the findings in the old Indian territory. The head of the Rangers' organization was accompanied by Steme M. CONTEST CALLS NEW ENTRANTS

Last Invitation to Students of Constitution

"Times" Semifinals Set for Three Months Hence

Organization of Government Told by Van Osdol

Three months from today, April 26, The Times semifinals in the Oratorical Contest on the Constitution will take place. Far greater headway has been made this year than ever before and with the closing of the school semester next week and the opening of the next semester February 1, many new entrants will make their appearance. Announcement of the contest will be made in all secondary schools at the first assembly of the final semester and a further invitation to students to participate will be given.

Places of meeting for the semifinals have been definitely decided upon as follows: Group A, including Districts 1 to 7, will be held at the San Diego High School; Group B, Districts 8 to 13, inclusive, taking in the schools of Fresno, Inyo, Kern, Kings and Tulare counties, will be held at the Fresno State Teachers' College; Group C, Districts 14 to 20, inclusive, will be at the Glendale Union High School; Group D, Districts 21 to 27, inclusive, being the seven large high schools of Los Angeles, will be at Jefferson High School; Group E, Districts 28 to 34, inclusive, known as the harbor section, will be at Roosevelt High School, and Group F, Districts 35 to 41, inclusive, will be at Whittier Union High School.

IN OTHER STATES

Districts 42 to 47, inclusive, constitute the State of Arizona and State finals will be held at the University of Arizona, Tucson, May 1. The State of Nevada includes Districts 48 to 53 and the State finals will be held at Reno April 26.

James A. Van Osdol of the citizenship committee of the American Bar Association continues his discussion of Constitutional history as follows:

"In due time the new government was organized with Washington at its head. Its first concern was to set up the governmental machinery under the new Constitution. Congress and the President continued with such care and wisdom in this that what they did stands today without much material alteration. The Senate formed itself into three classes, so that not more than one-third of that body retires at a time.

DEPARTMENTS CREATED

"Four executive departments were created, namely: State, Treasury, War and Attorney-Generalship. The first persons to fill these positions were, respectively, Jefferson, Hamilton, Knox and Randolph. Of the present departments of government, the Postoffice alone has come down to us from colonial times, having made its first appearance in Massachusetts in 1639.

"The Federal judiciary was organized with John Jay as chief justice and five associate justices. These constituted the Supreme Court with district courts, one in each State. United States circuit courts were instituted later.

AFTER TEN YEARS

"Barely ten years after the adoption of our Constitution, we confronted Napoleon, then at the height of his power, and compelled him to make peace and cease his depredations on American commerce. Five years later and, before any European nation had dared to, We sent our fleet to the Mediterranean and administered a lesson to the Algerian pirates and rendered American commerce in the Mediterranean safe from piracy without tribute; and at the end of twenty-five years we met Great Britain on sea and land and inflicted such loss on her commerce that the mother country was compelled to recognize the equal rights of the United States on the high seas.

"During the 300 years since the first English colony was planted in America this nation has created the vast aggregate of $400,000,000,000 of national wealth, while England, her near rival, has in 2000 years of creative opportunity created only $170,000,000,000."

YOUNG RED GIVEN JAIL SENTENCE

Senior Gets Ten Days for Distributing Handbills in Violation of Ordinance

Alfred E. Senior, 21 years of age, admitted member of the Young Workers' Communist League, yesterday was sentenced to serve ten days in jail by Municipal Judge Sheldon for violation of the city handbill ordinance. The sentence, which followed conviction by a jury, took into account the fact that Senior has been in jail since his arrest on the 18th inst., the court stated.

Senior was arrested by students of Roosevelt High School for distributing among them handbills signed by the Communist League. The literature, referring to a school election, was headed: "We are voting today for what? More sham democracy." It attacked the R.O.T.C. as part of a militarization program.

Federal deportation proceedings are pending against Senior, according to Detective Lieutenant Hynes of the police Red squad. Hynes declares that the young Communist admitted after his arrest that he entered the country three years ago from Canada without a permit to do so.

I wonder how many of my readers know the difference in quality, flavor and sanitary conditions under which it is manufactured of the different brands of prepared mustard offered for sale by our Southern California merchants. Prepared mustard is manufactured from whole mustard seed, some grown in California and some coming from different countries of the Old World. Oftentimes mustard seed coming across the ocean in the holds of the freight vessels, being packed in tight compartments, becomes heated and with the moisture contained in the seed becomes moldy and takes on a bitter, musty taste. Prepared mustard ground from either musty flavored seed or a blend of this and better seed will still carry this off-flavor. Also prepared mustard is a product that has to be packed under very sanitary conditions in order to produce a really high-class article.

I was in the factory of the Joannes Corporation the other day and was shown the beautiful, clean seed from which Joannes Salad Dressing Mustard is made, and also was taken through the spotlessly clean grinding room, in which are three large burr-stone grinding machines. The Joannes Salad Dressing Mustard goes through all three of these mills before it takes on that velvety texture which is so to be desired in prepared mustard. A taste comparison of Joannes Salad Dressing Mustard and three other brands was sufficient to show me its wonderful superiority in flavor. Of course, I do not know the conditions under which these other brands of mustard were prepared, but I can vouch for the cleanliness of the Joannes factory, together with the delicious, clear-cut mustard flavor of Joannes Salad Dressing Mustard, and assure my readers that they will make no mistake in insisting on this brand.

How many of the readers of Sallie's column go to the Appliance Display Room in the basement of the Bureau of Power and Light at Second and Broadway, where a cooking school is conducted, but where classes are held twice a week —Mondays and Thursday—all absolutely free, think of that! But not only is there a free cooking school conducted in this splendid department—educational from an electrical angle, but recipes modernized by electrical appliances which make everything not only more delicious, but simpler to prepare and serve—are used. For instance, they take grandmother's recipes and modernize them so all who attend will be delighted with the ease of preparing the many good things to eat. Now everyone of us can make our cooking and housework a pleasure and joy if we just use the new electrical appliances, all of which are to be found in their greatest perfection downstairs at the Bureau of Power and Light, where you are shown how to use them correctly and are taught how little it costs to operate them with the present low rates given by the bureau. Do go in any time and see this splendid display. It will certainly be time spent profitably.

Oh, there are countless occasions when you will find these Guasti jellies exactly what you need to make your repast complete—be it breakfast, luncheon or dinner. You must see to it that the jelly you buy is Guasti's (pronounced Gwas-tee,) however, for there are other kinds on the dealers' shelves, but none with the incomparable taste of the brand above mentioned; so don't take a substitute, will you; and if your near-by grocer can't supply you yet with the Guasti brand telephone or write in to the order department of the Italian Vineyard Co., 1248 Palmetto street (MUtual 2124,) and they will see that your order is promptly taken care of. THIRTEEN STUDENTS EXPELLED

Thirteen students responsible for the publication of Hell's Bells, scandal paper on the campus of the University of California at Los Angeles, were suspended indefinitely yesterday from the university upon action of the administrative staff, composed of members of the faculty and Dr. Ernest C. Moore, director of the university. The students are members of the local chapter of Pi Delta Epsilon, national honorary journalistic fraternity, and are dismissed from the university for "flagrant violation of the regulations of the university."

The suspended students are among the leaders in campus life at U.C.L.A. Sam Balter, a member of Pi Delta Epsilon, is captain of the university basketball team, which will meet the team from the University of Southern California tonight in the Olympic Auditorium, and he will not be able to play, according to Dr. Moore. Others who were suspended are Monte Harrington, editor of the California Daily Bruin, student newspaper; Laurence Michelmore, managing editor of the Daily Bruin; J. Brewer Avery, editor of the Southern Campus, university yearbook; Gene Burgess; Harry Miller, Joe George, George Badger, business manager of the Daily Bruin; Clarence Sansom, Selmar Westby, Robert Morris, Walt Bogart and Roger Maxson, sports editor of the Daily Bruin.

In explanation of the suspending of the students, Dr. Moore stated last night, "The publication of the paper, Hell's Bells, is a flagrant violation of the regulations of the university. The university is and must be a decent place. The young men responsible for the editing and publishing of that paper forgot that." He also stated that the administration staff has no plans whatsoever for the reinstatement of the suspended students in the near future.

The affair will be discussed today by members of the U.C.L.A. Student Council at a meeting specially called by Kenneth Piper, president of the Associated Students.

Bullet Kills Brooklyn Man

Shot through the right temple, the body of Adolph Gross, recently arrived from Brooklyn, N. Y., was found last night in a room of a hotel at Third and Hill streets. When discovered by R. J. Dunlap, hotel employee, the Brooklynite had been dead twelve hours.

Gross left a note expressing the wish that his son, William Gross, of 6240 Zerwood avenue, receive the death payments of his two life insurance policies for sums totaling $3000. The police say that Gross had a wife in Los Angeles.

Medical School Position Filled

Dr. Paul S. McKibben, professor of anatomy at the University of Michigan, has been appointed head of the department of anatomy of the school of medicine, University of Southern California.

Following his graduation from the University of Chicago he was successively an assistant, an associate and an instructor in anatomy at that university. In 1913 he took charge of the courses in anatomy at the University of Western Ontario, remaining there until 1927 as head of the department, when he joined the faculty of the University of Michigan.

He is a member of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the Association of Anatomists and a Fellow of the Royal Society of Canada.

NINETEEN SUSPECTS INDICTED

Federal Grand Jury True Bills Include One Against Juan O. Ramos, ex-Banker

Nineteen persons were indicted by the Federal grand jury yesterday after a session lasting late into the afternoon. Among these was Juan O. Ramos, former director of the Latin-American division of the United States National Bank, from which he is accused of having embezzled $45,000. Ramos is under arrest in Amsterdam, Holland, and has indicated his willingness to return voluntarily to this country for trial. He formerly was a prominent figure in the political and military affairs of Mexico.

John Henry and John Frank Smith were indicted for violating the Immigration Act by transporting Chinese across the border by airplane. With them, Lin Sam, alias Jose Lin, was indicted. The two men are said to have headed a smuggling plot.

ACTOR SEEKS EARLY SETTLEMENT OF SUIT

John E. Burke, motion-picture actor, wants an early trial of his suit against Mack Sennett's producing company, his attorney, Charles Cradick, told Superior Judge Keetch yesterday. Burke has a $1150-a-week contract with the Senett company, but he hasn't been working, so his employers are not paying him. He asserts the contract calls for payment whether he is making pictures or not. Attorney Cradick said his client wants an early settlement so he might make a contract with another producer.

Today's Bible Text

Enter into His gates with Thanksgiving, and into His courts with praise: be thankful unto Him, and bless His name. For the Lord is good; His mercy is everlasting; and His truth endureth to all generations. Psalm c:4, 5.

NOT MUCH AT THAT

Some men don't seem to have anything but their past to look forward to.

BETTER BODIES

Lines in the paper promise larger and more beautiful bodies. It was thought for a minute that our loved ones had ceased reducing and were coming in plump sizes, but it turns out that the publicity had to do with motor cars.

THE HOLY CITY

The roads to Gethsemane and the Mount of Olives are now paved with modern concrete and asphalt and are as smooth as Wilshire Boulevard. It seems like sacrilege to see a string of Fords whizzing along to Calvary, but there they are.

HOT AIR AT THAT

The international radio conference which was recently held at Toronto decided that no nation should have sovereign rights to the air. There are a lot of Senators at Washington who will take great pleasure in disputing this announcement. If any prince or potentate attempts to stay or hamper their sovereignty of the ozone there will be a war that would make the last world embroilment seem like children plucking nosegays.

FLYING TO MEXICO

There is now a flying service for passengers as well as for mail and express between Mexico City and Brownsville, Tex. It is by way of Tampico and Vera Cruz and is, therefore, a great factor in easing the commercial and industrial contacts of the two countries. Time used to be a great handicap in reaching all these points. Now it is none at all. Our relations with the southern republics promise to be largely atmospherical. Railroads are costly and inadequate. The planes may have to substitute. Let her go.

HOUSING PROBLEMS

Chicago is said to now have the greatest negro population of any city in the world and the problem of housing the darkies has grown important. In helping to a solution Julius Rosenwald, merchant, financier and philanthropist, has undertaken a rather large building problem. He is putting up four solid blocks of apartments which will be rented to approximately 500 families, with an average of four rooms to an apartment. The homes will be thoroughly modern with tile baths, electric refrigeration and other equipment. In the middle of the group is a big playground and nursery for the children and there is also a community house and dining hall. This one investment will house 2000 or 3000 sable citizens and call for the expenditure of more than $3,000,000. Mr. Rosenwald says that a small profit on the investment is possible but whether it is or not he is ready to repeat it or go still further if the emergency calls.

LIGHT OPERA

Somebody ought to dash off a musical extravaganza about Afghanistan, which flea-bitten country seems to have had three different kings in one week—if the press dispatches be correct. It is, in fact, difficult to pen a paragraph about Afghan royalty without having it grow cold before it gets into type. Rushing the khan seems to be ameer sport. King Amanullah left his throne in disgust when his subjects refused to shave and bob their hair. Apparently he tossed the scepter to his older brother, Inayatullah. This brunette party held the reins for a couple of days and then fell foul of Habibullah. Just now the Afghans don't know to whom to bend the knee and, therefore, they are not totowing at all. Amanullah is trying a comeback. He is running the machine from Kandahar. Inayatullah is bossing Kabul and Habibullah says, "I am here at Herat." It looks as it would take a couple of decks of cards and a dice box to settle the thing. The Afghans running around in their afghans are furnishing the local color. What the Afghans need is a guy like Luis Firpo.

GUARDIAN OF PROSPERITY

If the California Development Association is one of the principal promoters of California prosperity, the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association, which has just had its annual meeting, may be described as prosperity's chief guardian. Its success in inducing the officers headed by President John E. Coffin to continue their exacting duties for another year is a guarantee that the same watchfulness which has preserved good industrial relations during past years will continue.

The Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association's chief function is the maintenance, through the open shop, of peace in industry. It works for the benefit of both employers and workers by seeking to remove the causes of friction, by seeing that there is a quick adjustment of just grievances on either side. The association is incorrectly described as opposed to organized labor. It makes no objection to the legitimate aims of labor organization, does not discriminate in its employment bureau or in its machinery for the settlement of disputes, between men who carry union cards and those who do not. It does object to the closed shop, strikes, sabotage, the boycott, the blacklist, racketeering and other violent and illegitimate manifestations of industrial warfare, and uses its best efforts to prevent such methods from gaining a foothold in this industrial area.

In this it has met with a very large measure of success. It has consistently maintained the open shop in our principal industries and so close does the curve of rising prosperity parallel that of the general acceptance of the open-shop principle that a causative relation between them cannot be doubted. Under its protection, Los Angeles has become the home for thousands of workmen who prefer freedom from being dictated to by grafting labor leaders, and for hundreds of manufacturers anxious to conduct business in a land of no strikes.

Los Angeles was the pioneer open-shop city in the sense that it was the first place where effective machinery for avoiding industrial conflict was set up. It was early seen that it was not enough to insure maintenance of the rights of employers; that the rights and privileges of workmen must be taken care of with equal vigilance, if the open shop was to endure. The open-shop machinery of Los Angeles has been copied elsewhere with the result that 81 per cent of all factory workers in the United States are now employed under open-shop conditions. But in Los Angeles the same principle has been more widely applied, particularly in the building industry, where it has been found equally successful.

Because the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association, during its thirty-three years of existence, has built such a solid foundation for the industry of the great city Los Angeles has become, it is entitled more than almost any other organization to continued public support, so that its beneficent program may grow with the growth of the community. Industrial peace is more important than almost any other factor in the prosperity of Southern California, and unless the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association is maintained at full efficiency industrial peace will disappear.

MEXICAN BANANAS

News comes from Tampico that Mexico soon will be growing enormous crops of bananas. Aside from the large area of banana plantations that will be coming into bearing in the near future other extensive orchards will wave their long green leaves before next autumn, while already the industry is making a healthy showing, exports having grown from year to year. The banana tree grows very rapidly in hot, humid climates and rich soils, attaining full height and fruitage in about nine months.

On the Tamesi and Panuco River bottom lands 80,000 plants will be set out by a large Mexican company in February. This company will continue planting until it has 7500 acres under cultivation. All the necessary farming implements and machines as well as other equipment for the plantation have been ordered from the United States. Other projects of the kind are under way, and it will not be long before Mexico will be competing with Honduras and Nicaragua in the banana markets of the world.

What has encouraged the Mexican banana growers to expand their industry has been the rise in the price of the fruit in the United States and other countries. What may tend to discourage them is the proposed American levy of $1 a bunch on bananas imported into this country. We have been importing about 60,000,000 bunches a year, valued in the countries of their origin at about 60 cents a bunch. The total value in 1927 was $34,000,000.

The advance in price in recent months has been due to a crop shortage in Central America caused by a disease known as the Panama, which threatens to destroy more than 50 per cent of the 1929 crop. The disease never has appeared in Mexico, and the authorities are taking rigid measures to keep it out. An American duty of $1 a bunch on bananas would greatly reduce our consumption of them, but there probably would be no decrease in the demand from Europe which is very large and more than sufficient to enable Mexican growers to dispose of their crops, unless the banana plant disease now so disastrous to the plantations of Central America can be conquered.

SPEAKING OF OPERATIONS

Woman who accidentally had a sponge sewed up in her body following an operation eighteen months ago has just obtained a judgment for $75,000 against the surgeons who did the job. If the sponge drained her system the lady is now draining the doctors. The jurors in the case must have been rather sympathetic. Some hospitals might have had the woman pinched for trying to get away with one of their sponges.

THE WATCH DOG

Momentarily relieved of office, former Gov. Hunt of Arizona has gone to Mexico for a vacation. But he best not get too far from his base of supplies. Somebody might muzzle the Colorado River while he isn't looking.

The LEE SIDE O' L.A.

BY Lee Shippey

DEAR Ante: Yesterday I wrote you a few lines about skiing at Big Bear. But you ain't heard nothin' yet.

We met a nice man named Kleinsmith, who lives about five miles, mostly up, from Pine Knot. He says when he wants to run down to the village he doesn't fool around with slow things like motor cars. He slips on his skis, instead of the top step, and comes right on down like the lady who was bathing when a caller came and was told to "just slip on anything." He says it's no trick to make forty m.p.h. on skis on a good track.

That explains the ski jumps. When there's a good snow on a holiday, as there was last New Year's Day, a flock of ski jumpers go out from Los —Swiss and Norwegians who learned to ski in their home States. New Year's some of them jumped as much as 125 feet, they say, some of the jumps being right over the tops of pine trees growing farther down the steep hill.

Southland Tobogganing

A toboggan is a flat-bottomed sled with its front curled up in a permanent. It looks just as safe and gentle as an escalator. There's a track about three or four blocks long, with snow heaped up on each side of it so it looks as if you couldn't run out.

And when you see those that know how tobogganing looks like the greatest fun on earth. First of all, the altitude is appealing. The idea is to sit behind some good-looking man and hold him tight, with both arms, and to have another nice-looking man sitting behind you, doing the same. It's just the opposite of motoring—the tighter you cling the safer for all. I know lots of folks who ought to do all their speeding on toboggan slides.

Uncle Bill's Overconfidence

Uncle Bill thought he could drive the thing. Said he used to be the fastest sledder on the hill in his boyhood days, back in Iowa. Cousin Flo sat next, then me, and Mr. Wilson shoved off and jumped on behind me. At the first little bump he threw both arms around me, tight, and I thought it was goin' to be just heaven. But at that instant, or fraction thereof, because things happened every one-hundredth of an instant from then on, we hit another bump. And, boy! The thing toboggans need is shock absorbers! We bounced, and I guess forty feet of Mother Earth must have passed under us before we lit. Flo and Uncle Bill and Mr. Wilson and I were all squealing at once. I think Uncle Bill was saying something just awful, but it came out in such fragments and splinters that no one could possibly understand it. I only think that was what he was trying to say because I know what I was trying to say.

A Falling Out

Then a curve, a bump, a sudden severing of tender relations, a flight toward the stars—and, ugh! A cold plunge and lights out.

I thought I'd dived to the bottom of the River Styx, but it was only a snowbank. Some one grabbed me by the feet and yanked me out. But for my companions I looked all in vain. The air was full of legs, but not a head was visible. They were all standing on their heads in the snow. But I think I mentioned the fact that we girls weren't wearing knickers. As I gazed on all that showed recognition flashed to me. I thought of that little poem:

Rose's are pink,
Violet's are blue.

Snowbanks Almost Human

Now a snowbank, when the snow is fresh, is like a bed of down. But snow is like Uncle Bill—when it gets old it gets crusty. The snow in which we were baptized was elderly. We were peeled peaches when we came up for air. But Mr. Wilson had fared even worse. He had been severely wounded in the pants, rear sector. As nearly as I could judge, peeking through my fingers, the tear was about nine by eleven inches. As he had no other trousers with him, he had to wear his overcoat all the rest of the trip.

Then Mr. Clanton, who has charge of the government fish hatchery there, guided the toboggan down for us, and that really was heaven. He's awfully nice-looking, too, and I sat right next to him. He sat that toboggan like a Centaur, and, somehow, there didn't seem to be any bumps in the track, the way he guided.

Then along came a Klondike dog team,—nine Malamutes hitched to a sled, driven by a young man named Meynard. Can you picture that, Ante, right here in Southern California?

More tomorrow, Ante, dear. And, say, I'm sure goin' back to the mountains next time it rains in town, for they tell me when it rains here it nearly always snows up there—in winter. By-by.

NELLIE.

BUNCOMBE

Few more futile and ridiculous declarations have ever been made by men of prominence and authority than that of William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor. He is quoted as having declared that "organized labor will oppose with every bit of power it has" the introduction of automatic machinery to do the work now done by trained men.

Automatic machinery has become the hand-maiden of labor, taking away the drudgery and opening myriad avenues for the exercise of the skill of the willing worker. Mr. Green's own well-paid job is due to conditions made possible by modern labor-saving machinery. Within the short span of life allotted to thousands of persons now living, "tallow dips" and sperm candles were the chief source of light for the household, and lard oil for the shop and mine. They have seen these displaced by kerosene and this superseded by the electric light; they have witnessed the birth of the telephone, electric mine equipment, electric railway, linotype machine and automobile; the phonograph, typewriter, flying machine, radio and countless other inventions that have crowded one upon the other, most of them within the lifetime of Mr. Green.

Would he, despite the demagogic attitude he assumes, care to go back to the "good old times" that would result were it possible for his senseless threat to be realized in its fullness? He would not. Nor would any of those who heard and shouted assent to his utterance. It was mere buncombe, and nobody knows it better than the honest workers in the ranks, by whose toil Mr. Green profits and holds his job.

BEANS AND BROADCASTERS

A Santa Barbara housewife, cooking over her electric range recently, was astonished to hear the announcer's voice—and then "Ave Maria" came forth. There was no radio in the house.

Upon investigating, she traced the music to a pot of beans simmering innocently over the burner. Upon stirring them, they broke into a chorus and a full radio program. Have the radio people been gyping us? Or are we on the verge of another discovery? Was it the beans? Is there a song in every pot and pan?

A woman bought a new piano. When it was duly installed and she began to play, it broke forth into the harshest discords and jangling. She indignantly sent for the music dealer. He looked at the bric-a-brac on the mantel. He studied the window fastenings intently. Finally he fixed his attention upon the stove. Stuffing a bit of folded paper under the stove leg, he mended the piano!

That stove was just trying to help the piano render the "Fifth Symphony." Many a church window breaks forth with fearful rattling and tries to help the organ and congregation sing the Doxology. They are keyed together.

However, to have a stove pick up a radio concert is something different. Did the electric wiring act as an aerial and the pot as loud speaker? Is there something in the common utensils of life that is sensitive to the vibrations of ether?

WORKS SLOW

It doesn't take long to see a joke if it is on the other fellow, but when it is on oneself it takes the longest time to break.

EVOLUTION
By James J. Montague

In the days of the not long ago
The rascals and rogues of the time
Sought the people called "hicks"
In the districts called "sticks"
When they plied the profession of crime.
For they fancied the illicit art
Of shaking the populace down
Would never succeed with the erudite breed
Which peopled the streets of the town.
"In cities," asserted the masters of craft,
"The people are sure to be wise to our graft."

But an outlaw more bold than the rest
Attempted, one fortunate day,
To practice his trade
While the noontide parade
Was surging along through Broadway.
And, much to this person's surprise
His timid and tentative prank
Bore opulent fruit in the lucrative loot
Of two pawn shops, a store and a bank.
So he said to himself, with a sinister leer
"Let the others rob rubes; I'll just stick around here."

Today one may roam o'er the plains,
Or ascend the wild lonely ravines
With never a fear
That a bandit lurks near
With a gun parked away in his jeans.
He may camp on the wildest of trails
And never turn clammy and cold
With the fear he'll be shot like a dog on the spot
While a brigand makes off with his gold.
No longer the crooks the great spaces invade
They are after the big metropolitan trade!

LETTERS TO The Times

[Name and address of writer must accompany all letters for this column. Letters of a personal nature or involving contentious religious questions are not acceptable.]

"The Sheep Mind"

TUJUNGA, Jan. 22.—[To the Editor of The Times:] How adequately this arresting phrase seems to fit the times in which we live. In the matter of fashion—stand any day at a street corner and watch the passing feminine procession. The same kind of coats tightly wrapped in the same way, the same length of silk-clad legs, which is plenty, the same cocky little hats pulled low—to see them go mincing by on their fashionable high heels they look so much alike that if one called "Nanny" they might all stop and "baa."

Everywhere we see them—men and women moving in the same sheep-like droves, all apparently actuated by no higher motive than "They are doing it—so must we." Ye gods! What a reason! How few there are who have the initiative to think originally, or the courage to express it in their lives. The world's great prizes wait for those who do.

Henry Ford says that only 10 per cent of the people do any real thinking, and Edison corrects him: "No, Henry, not more than 2 per cent."

Griffith Park Airport

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 22.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I have been watching with unusual interest recently the effort made to deprive the citizens of Los Angeles of their parks, and particularly a portion of Griffith Park for an airport.

As a citizen and taxpayer of the city of Los Angeles I feel it would be one of the greatest mistakes we could make to permit such action to be taken, inasmuch as our population is coming to Los Angeles because of the conditions that nature has bestowed upon us. At the present time we have few enough public parks and as population increases, it will be impossible to secure other sites.

H. H. TOWNSEND.

Subways

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 23.—[To the Editor of The Times:] As a solution of the traffic problem in this city and county permit me to suggest that the City Council appoint a committee of responsible citizens, some of whom shall be engineers, to study the advisability of building subways through the main highways of Los Angeles. Most of the large eastern cities of the size of Los Angeles are already making preparations for this emergency. Cleveland, O., is now considering the appropriation of sufficient money to endow a committee to study this problem and of purchasing a franchise given by the city some years ago to a private corporation. Sooner or later street cars will have to be taken off city streets or put underground, and the fact that this city is gaining so rapidly in population, wealth and the number of automobiles makes this problem acute. People are more and more moving out to the suburbs and the fact that this question will have to be met some time makes its consideration imperative now.

"Who Killed Cock Robin?"

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 23.—[To the Editor of The Times:] In the past week much has been published as to who killed Chief Yellow Hand. The writer received the following letter from Comrade J. M. Sanger, 520 William street, Bridgeport, Ct.:

My dear Comrade Mazzanovich: You probably noticed in the Winners of the West that E. A. Brininstool is seeking information regarding to the duel that Buffalo Bill was claimed to have fought with Chief Yellow Hand. Here is the true story of the fight as I have heard it. Sergt. Jacob Blant of the Fifth United States Cavalry had charge of the advance guard, Buffalo Bill acting as guide. They met Chief Yellow Hand with some of his braves. A battle followed. Sergt. Blant shot and killed Chief Yellow Hand. Buffalo Bill scalped the dead warrior and claimed his regalia. Sergt. Blant is now a member of Newark (N. J.) Camp No. 6, National Indian War Veterans.

Modern High Finance

A Kansas City man mortgaged his home to buy a car. Then he went around and tried to mortgage the car to get money to build a garage.

"How are you going to buy gas?" curiously inquired the man of whom the loan was asked.

"Well, if I own a house, a car and a garage, I should think any dealer would be willing to trust me for gas."

Encourages Glances

Trust the ad writer to find the right word. A new fabric for women's dress is thus described: "A filmy, silken web that entangles glances as it gives freedom to the stroll." That costume material is going to be bought on the jump.—[Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

The Alaska Weekly prints this story from its correspondent at Miller Creek, Alaska: "H. D. Cowden, miner, returning to his parked truck at Glacier Creek, saw a bear climb throught the rear door. He watched from a thicket and saw the bear take a position on the seat. One huge paw accidentally turned on the ignition and a big shambling foot pushed the self-starter and with a roar the car started down the grade, bear and baggage. The bear took a flying nose dive through the side curtains and the truck came to rest in a willow thicket, where it is still a pile of dilapidated wreckage."

OUR STURDY LITTLE HEARTS

BY ALMA WHITAKER

A prominent M. D. was conversing on the subject of science.

"No one today can dispute the power of thought—and particularly our subconscious thought . . . our emotions, our imagination being vastly more influential than our intelligence," he said. "For instance, there are our slave muscles, controlled by our intelligence. We can exact obedience from our leg and arm muscles, our facial muscles and so forth, through our mind. These muscles need rest. . . .

"But have you ever thought that your heart, a tiny organ no bigger than your fist, over which your mind has no control, generates energy which is equivalent to a lifting strength of 500 pounds with every beat—35,000 pounds a minute, since the normal heart beat is seventy per minute? And it never rests. How can we doubt that the kingdom of heaven is within us? We don't know how it does this—so we call it God.

"If so many mighty things in the world are encompassed by thought, and solely through thought, why not health and healing? Every modern doctor, the more he is steeped in science, recognizes this God power today. Which is why psychoanalysis enters so largely into modern medicine. We know that thought can poison the system and that cure depends on a changed attitude of mind as well as upon material remedies. Relaxation, giving the subconscious mind and those sturdy, untiring little hearts of ours, a chance to assert themselves is an important process of all healing. The subconscious mind, the emotions, the imagination, are stronger and more reliable than the conscious mind. Yet the subconscious is always working, like the heart. It never rests.

"Try this when you have an important article to write. Go to bed, and use your conscious mind to relax all your slave muscles. If you are under a tension, begin on one foot at a time, working up toward the neck muscles—the hardest to relax. You will soon be asleep. Your subconscious will work for you and go right on working out your problem. You will awake with your problem alert in your conscious mind and if you rise and get to work on it at once you will do the best work you ever did.

"Those old maxims—'Follow the dictates of your heart,' 'Let your conscience be your guide'—are right, founded upon real scientific fact. Genius, I would say, is a perfect balance and cooperation between the conscious and subconscious mind. Sometimes medical science can assist in gaining this co-operation, so essential to health, happiness, efficiency, by combatting the poison in the system with conscious intelligence and helping to thwart the vicious cycle. Some day we shall understand so much better how to use this tremendous power within us, which now sometimes seems to conflict with our conscious intelligence. We are learning all the time. We already know enough to stand in awe before those amazing sturdy, alarmingly competent little God-ruled hearts of ours in their extraordinary power. That is why Dr. Millikan recently said that science and religion must walk hand in hand. We dare not separate them, no matter what ardent fundamentalists we prefer to say we are."

It was hard for my limited intelligence to grasp all that that doctor said—without any scientific training of my conscious mind. But I think my subconscious mind comprehended. After long months of restless nights, I found I could relax the slave muscles as he told me. I went to sleep trying to calculate just how much weight that busy little heart of mine would generate the power to lift e'er I awoke to meet the next day's task.

I intend letting my subconscious get in all its good work from now on—and utilizing those millions of units of power that faithful little old heart of mine is generating for my use. It's an independent little dynamo and obviously an infinitely more tremendous thing than my head—which often even fails to rule my slave muscles properly.

Husband Called Callous Person

To celebrate the death of his father-in-law Clyde H. Battles got drunk, his wife Elsie testified in Superior Judge McComb's court yesterday.

When I came back from the funeral he abused me and gave me no sympathy whatever," Mrs. Battles testified in response to questions by Attorney A. P. Michaels.

He also snubbed his wife's tears and refused to take her to a show of amusement, she said. Judge McComb granted her a divorce.

STOPP FUNERAL TODAY

The funeral of John F. Stopp will be conducted at the E. Clampett Chapel, 1236 South Vermont avenue, today at 2 p.m. Interment will be in Inglewood Park Cemetery. Mr. Stopp, who died at 1947 Wellington Road, Monday.

Americanism: Calling a man world champion because he does something after men scorn to do.

Another way to keep from growing old is to assume that the approaching car's single headlight is the one on the left.

If beauty contests awaken new interest in personal appearance, let's have a national contest to discover the best cook.

Every town has a few "good fellows" who will lend a friend the money their wives need for shoes.

They seldom long for a halo unless they are vain enough to long for hand-clapping.

Winter finds the number of unemployed greater in this country, as well as England, unless horseshoes can be called employment.

The new Irish shilling has a chicken design on one side, but the significance isn't clear. The coin is chicken feed, of course, but it isn't the kind of money our chickens have designs on.

Americanism is safe while most of us can pronounce the names of the Governors and not mean pronounce the names of gangsters.

The church Rockefeller is building for Fosdick has caught fire three times, showing the danger of using oil in the neighborhood of one who makes his sparks fly.

Correct this sentence: "I was delighted," said the druggist, "because we had an unusually good sale of stamps today."

No matter what the weather is, each day I walk six miles or ten, and if you watch you'll see me whiz astward the brae and down the glen. Where countless graybeards I've outdone before their glowing fires are gone, I wander in the dream, I wander in the dear snows, or by the babbling wood land stream. I scale the misty tain's granite rim, I journey to the fens and meres, and I'm as sound in wind and limb as some men of forty years." I will not call a fat old man whose age was ninety in the shade; he ate large doughnuts from a pan, and spread them thick with marmalade. I interviewed him years ago, and asked him how he'd so long, and he declared, "I have you know that I am hale and strong, because I have no exercise, and rest in this easy chair, and eat large quantities of pies and other rich but goodly fare. I do not think it old man smart who goes around in cowhide shoes, who strains his tired and overworks his heart, and overworks his brain and thews. ACCUSER OF ACTOR REVEALS TRUE NAME

GIRL THEFT SUSPECT TO PLEAD GUILT

Juanita Montanya, who under the name of Juanita Montoya, recently attained notoriety by suing Wallace Beery, film actor, for many thousands of dollars, will plead guilty in Superior Court to a charge of burglary, she told Municipal Judge McConnell yesterday. She told the court her true name is Montanya.

Taking the witness stand, the 20-year-old girl admitted entering the home of Mrs. Frank Kelly, 6803 Della Vista Way, and taking two red coats. She declared she is a friend of Mrs. Kelly's daughter, whom she went to see, and entered through a window when she found no one was at home.

Dep. Dist.-Atty. Penney called Mrs. Kelly to identify the coats and to declare she had not given the girl permission to take them. Judge McConnell fixed bail pending trial at $1000.

STUDENT'S BODY FOUND AFTER HUNT

Harry Haskell of Pomona College Reported to Have Taken Own Life

The body of Harry Haskell, 18-year-old Pomona College student missing since the 9th inst., was found by a searching party of deputy sheriffs in the foothills near Claremont yesterday. A gun found near the body led the officers to report the death as a suicide. He was a nephew of Harry Haskell, editor of the Kansas City Star, and a brother of Douglas Haskell, editor of an art magazine in New York City, according to the officers.

According to friends of the youth who lived with him at 748 Dartmouth street, Claremont, Haskell's life ambition was to become a great philosopher or musician, and he became despondent at times because of the apparent futility of his quest. Haskell, whose parents are missionaries in Bulgaria, always was a great student, his friends told the officers.

On the night of his disappearance Haskell seemed to be in good spirits, his friends said. He was last seen on College avenue at midnight on the 9th inst., wearing an overcoat and carrying a flashlight.

Public Officials to Get Courses

A short summer course for public officials and personnel is to be held at the University of Southern California in June, according to announcement of President R. B. Von KleinSmid.

Departments of study are to be attended by State, county and municipal officers and employees. They include:

Administration of justice, assessments and taxation, budgets, building inspection, city clerkship administration, educational administration, fire prevention and control, governmental accounting, juvenile welfare, municipal law, police administration, planning and zoning, recreation and parks, street traffic control, sanitary engineering and water supply.

PLANE FARE REDUCED

Rate to Las Vegas Cut in Half by Western Express

A 50 per cent reduction in fare between Los Angeles and Las Vegas, Nev., was announced yesterday by Western Air Express. In the past the full rate of $60, which applies between here and the Utah capital, has been charged for Las Vegas. The reduction is due to heavy travel between Southern California and Las Vegas.

Trimotored, twelve-passenger Fokker cabin planes leave here at 7:35 a.m. and arrive in Las Vegas in approximately two hours, the company reports. The week-end trips to Tia Juana, operated every Saturday and Sunday, are being made in one hour, it is stated.

PROWLER ADDS VICTIM TO LIST

Another Attack Reported in Wilshire Region

Woman Says Man Seized Her After Ringing Bell

This Makes Twelfth Case in Two-Weeks' Period

The series of unsolved attempted attack cases in the Wilshire district, which began more than two weeks ago, was augmented by still another case yesterday when Mrs. Georgia Ann Wilson reported she was assaulted by a man who called at her home at 1303 South Harcourt street. This makes the twelfth case of the kind on record. At a late hour last night no arrests of persons responsible for the series of threatening notes, telephone calls and weird house breakings had been reported.

Mrs. Wilson stated that the attack occurred Wednesday evening, which was the same day on which Mrs. Stella Walsh was terrorized by a negro in her home at 1721 South Highland avenue. Mrs. Wilson told police that when she answered the bell at the front door she was grabbed by a roughly dressed man. When she screamed he struck her on the head, she said, knocking her unconscious.

Two hours later she said she recovered her senses lying on a davenport in the living-room. Visiting friends had revived her, she said.

Mrs. Wilson did not report the occurrence until Thursday evening, police stated, making it difficult for them to find any trace of her asserted attacker.

Police Captain Jackson, commander of the uniform section, and Captain of Detectives Cato, head of the detective bureau in the Wilshire division, announced yesterday that they are detailing as many men as possible in an effort to apprehend the guilty persons and asked the co-operation of the citizens of the district. Victims of prowlers are asked to communicate with the police as soon as possible so that special squads of detectives held in readiness for such an occasion may have a chance to surround the neighborhood in which such occurrences take place.

THEFT GUILT PLEA MADE BY SNETHEN

Permission Given Former Traffic Board Official to Seek Probation

Standing before Superior Judge Shaw yesterday, Clarence R. Snethen pleaded guilty to charges of stealing approximately $9000 from funds intrusted to his care while he was acting as secretary to the Los Angeles Traffic Commission. After entering his plea Snethen asked for permission to file an application for probation, which was granted.

Judge Shaw fixed February 14, next, as the date for hearing on the probation application and for sentence.

Snethen was arrested in Louisiana recently while serving as advance agent for a road show following a search throughout the United States when the loss of the money was discovered.

When returned to Los Angeles Snethen is asserted to have admitted spending a portion of the money upon Vivian Thomas, motion-picture actress. He told officers that he first began to take money as salary advances but continued taking "advances" until he owed the commission so much money he could not refund it.

Snethen had been employed by the Los Angeles Traffic Commission for five years and was paid a salary of $650 monthly.

AVOCADO GROWERS JUBILANT

Shipping of First Full Carload to New York Celebrated at Luncheon

Celebrating the shipping of the first full carload of avocados ever sent from California to New York and Chicago markets, officials of the Calavo Growers' Association of California gathered with a group of food experts at a luncheon yesterday in the clubrooms of the Central Manufacturing District.

Miss Genevieve Callahan, newly appointed editor of Sunset Magazine and secretary of the business section of the Home Economics Association, was guest of honor.

The menu featured the avocado, and food experts testified to the fruit's high nutritive and caloric value, as well as to the many ways in which it may be served.

The carload of fruit left at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon and officials of the Calavo association expect it to be followed soon by other such shipments.

Witness Gets Jail Sentence

P. L. Bailey, one of the State's principal witnesses in the trial of Alexander Hamilton James on robbery charges, yesterday was sentenced to five days in the County Jail for contempt of court. Sentence was imposed by Judge Fricke, who held Bailey in contempt for his failure to appear in court under a summons.

Bailey was taken into court on a bench warrant issued Thursday, and after giving his testimony was ordered locked up to begin serving the contempt sentence. James, known in the prize ring as James Murphy, was accused of robbing Bailey and R. Salman of $69.

STAGE STAR HEADS FOX FOLLIES

Plans to Make Brilliant Revue an Annual Institution; Hollywood's First "No" Man Turns Down Plays; Vivien Oakland Plays Big Vitaphone Role

BY GRACE KINGSLEY

Hollywood's first official "No" man has arrived! He is the noted psychologist, Dr. William K. Marston, B. A., LL.D. and Ph. D. Harvard, as well as lecturer at Columbia University, and honorary member of all the principal psychological societies and chapters in this country, whom Universal is employing to psychologize that company's stories and pictures.

We chatted with Dr. Marston yesterday, and found him already hard at work, perusing plays and advising Universal heads concerning the value of projected story material. His conclusions were highly interesting, though he modestly exclaims that the movies are a new world to him.

"I have gone over a number of stories," he explained, "and I've formed my ideas of them as valuable or not valuable for the screen, after careful thought. One play which Universal was ready to buy is based on futuristic ideas. But I do not believe it would be a success because its premises are not within the experience of audiences, and are not imaginative enough to arouse their imaginations. Another New York play is successful because of vivid color and character drawing, but I hardly see how it could be a successful picture.

"I think that 'The Luxury Husband' another Broadway piece, would make a good picture."

Many pictures and plays are successes, says Dr. Marston, without the producers fully realizing what elements in them are the real drawing cards.

"It is my most interesting business to find out what these elements are," said the psychologist.

Bursting forth on the screen, now that we have the sound pictures, no doubt will be many musical comedy and revue shows.

GERTRUDE LAWRENCE

But once more William Fox is beating the other companies to it. Not only is he to inaugurate the first big revue on the screen when he gives us the Movietone Fox Follies, but he is also, if all goes well, to make the Follies an annual institution, just as the Ziegfeld Follies were an institution on the stage for many years.

In the meantime the production of the Fox Follies is going merrily forward, out at the Fox Hills studios, under the immediate general direction of Marcel Silver, who made the first Movietone pictures in France with Raquel Meller. He is aided by Edward Royce, who has charge of the staging of the several dance and specialty numbers, as well as of the black-out skits. Royce staged "Rio Rita" and all the George M. Cohen musicales, as well as other big New York successes.

Gertrude Lawrence, star originally of Charlot Revue, in which she was seen here at the opening of El Capitan Theater, at present star of a New York musical play, will be one of the principal performers in the Follies, while Clark and McCullough will be the leading male comedians.

It is likely that Louise Dresser, under contract to Fox, and for many seasons a musical comedy star in New York, will appear in a sketch with some singing numbers.

The whole galaxy of Fox stars will probably appear in the revue, including George O'Brien, Edmund Lowe, Warner Baxter, June Collyer and others, although at present not yet assigned numbers.

Lois Moran will open the Follies with a brilliant dance number, assisted by a ballet of thirty dancers from the Fanchon and Marco forces, accompanied by an orchestra of thirty pieces. The orchestra will be under direction of Arthur Kay.

Robert Benchley, dramatic critic of Life, is to write and star in a number of black-out skits.

Two charming singing and dancing teams will be made up of Sue Carol and David Rollins, and Sharon Lynn and David Percy. Both teams will have several romantic numbers, vocally supplying the young love interest without which even a Follies revue isn't complete.

Lola Lane of the vaudeville team of Lane Sisters, will have a number or two.

Dorothy Jordan, of "Treasure Girl" in New York, will appear in a musical number.

All the writers of music and books of well-known New York shows, seem to have been cornered.

The book will be written by Harlan Thompson, with score and special numbers by Dave Stamper, who has been with "Ziegfeld Follies" for twelve years; and by Conrad, Mitchell and Gottler, who have written music lyrics and books for "Greenwich Village Follies" and others; while those who will contribute sketches are Bill K. Wells, who wrote for George White's "Scandals," and Paul Gerard Smith, for many years with the "Ziegfeld Follies;" while Brown and Henderson, who have several musical comedies to their credit, will contribute heavily to the production.

A male chorus of thirty voices will further enhance the musical score of the production, while Fanchon and Marco will furnish, in addition to the chorus, three adagio teams and twelve specialty dancers.

Laemmle for "Voice with Smile"

Edward Laemmle is nothing if not consistent. Having declared that, if the success of talking pictures depends on the voices of pleasant and carrying quality, the ideal heroine should be a telephone girl, so he is going right ahead and prove it.

The Universal director is to hold a voice-and-beauty contest among telephone girls with a view to selecting one to play a leading role in in one of his forthcoming talking pictures.

Warners Sign Big Cast

Warner Brothers are building up a splendid cast to surround Grant Withers in his next role as the star reporter in their 100 per cent James Starr's Vitaphone newspaper story, "Headlines."

VIVIEN OAKLAND

Vivian Oakland, wife of John T. Murray, and his vaudeville partner and for a time a star with Hal Roach comedies, is to have a featured role; while Edmund Breese, noted stage and screen actor, is to have a big part. Ben Hall is to play a comedy cub reporter, and Frank Campeau will be whatever menace a newspaper office may be supposed to have.

Lasky Names It "Black Eagles"

"Black Eagles" is the title of the next Paramount production in which the engaging Gary Cooper will appear, and which Lothear Mendes will direct. That announcement came yesterday from B. P. Schulberg.

The story is an adaptation of one written by Jacob Wasserman, called "Golowin," and the background is the Russian revolution.

The white ant of the tropical country is declared to lay more eggs than any other insect, its record being 85,400 each day during the season.

"GOLONDRINA" CHARMS ANEW

Drama of Early California Played Single Night

McGroarty Author of Historic Three-Act Piece

Richard Sterling Fills Role of Five Years Ago

That the romance of old California will never die was proved anew last night when John Steven McGroarty's "La Golondrina" was given a single repeat performance in the picturesque setting of the Mission Playhouse, San Gabriel.

The "Standing Room Only" sign appeared long before the curtain was scheduled, and it was without doubt a record crowd, both in size and enthusiasm, that greeted the re-showing of this drama in three acts founded on a historical romance of the golden age of California. The period of "La Golondrina" is somewhat later than that of its predecessor, the Mission Play. It takes place during the time when the Spanish rule is just beginning to sense danger.

The story itself is woven around a love tale of Concepcion Arguello and Count Nicolai de Resanof, and is one that is a favorite in the traditional stories of California.

The cast, which presented the drama at the Playhouse last night is changed in many instances from the one which portrayed the story at its last showing, five years ago. Last evening's audience, however, had the good fortune of seeing the original Count Nicolai de Resanof, Grand Chamberlain of Russia, in Richard Sterling.

Mr. Sterling, who scored in the previous production, repeated his success anew. He imbued his character with aristocratic and romantic attributes, the two things needed to make his role the outstanding one that it was.

Some of the best work of the evening was done by Julius V. Madsen as the patriotic trouble-maker, Senor Bustamente. Madsen is undoubtedly a master of characterization.

A large and able cast appeared in the other supporting roles of the production.

Adding a decided note of enjoyment to the whole were the song and dance selections presented at internals throughout.

"Cielo Andaluz," a spirited Spanish number by Eve Rosita and Raoul Rameriz, was spontaneous and delightful, and especially well received.

Lovers of California history would welcome a more frequent return of this charming piece by one who has given the State that other immortal pageant drama, the Mission Play.

Anita Page to Grace Stage

Anita Page, who has rapidly come to the fore as one of the screen's most popular stars, will appear in person on the stage at Loew's State Monday night in a big fashion revue which will be staged as an added attraction.

Miss Page, assisted by twenty models direct from Broadway, New York, will display a dazzling array of Paris-inspired rayon creations. The revue, which will take place between the first and second evening shows, will be presented under the direction of the Rayon Institute through the May Company.

The fashion show will also be presented Tuesday night, with Gwen Lee, another Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer star, appearing.

IMPROVISATIONS IN MUSIC PLAY LIKED

Marking their second musical offering to local theatergoers, members of the colored Lafayette organization last night staged "Little Jessie James," a vehicle by Harlan Thompson and Harry Archer. Laughter seems to be the keynote of this production, which is the merry tale of a "small town beauty" who goes to New York to "knock 'em dead."

With more than twenty songs included in the play, "Little Jessie James," as presented by the Lafayette Players, is a production that one goes away remembering. In addition to the regular tunes of the show, the Lincoln management has added several special numbers, sung by the principals. These include a red hot "blues" song by Evelyn Preer, entitled, "It Takes A Good Woman to Keep A Man Home Nowadays;" "King for a Day," offered by Sidney Kirkpatrick, and "I Can't Give You Anything But Love," sung by the Lafayette Quartet.

Broomfield and Greeley, colored song and dance team, do several specialty numbers besides essaying roles in the show. Evans and Weaver, known to vaudeville, reveal some clever dance novelties. "Little Jessie James" also boasts Mosby's Blue Blowers, a jazzy colored band.

"Little Jessie James" will continue for ten days.

GERALDINE FARRAR MAY ATTEND BALL

An invitation to attend and participate in the program of the first annual Actors' Equity ball of the West, to be staged at the Biltmore Hotel, Thursday, was extended Geraldine Farrar, operatic star who is now in the East, by Margaret Smith, director-general of the frolic.

According to wires received here yesterday by Miss Smith, Miss Farrar is now making all possible efforts to arrange the routing of her present concert tour to enable her to be here in time for the ball. It was also stated yesterday by Miss Smith that a number of other stars who are in various parts of the country have wired here for reservations.

"Skull" Will Terrify Playgoers

The Calm Before the Storm

Is pictured above. Presently these two—Reginald Sheffield and Doris Brownlee—will be involved in the grisly doings which take place in an old, deserted church—and patrons of the President Theater (commencing tomorrow afternoon and continuing for some weeks) will clutch their seats and sigh shudderingly. Henry Duffy is the producer.

O'BRIEN PORTRAYS POLICEMAN

To the character of a genial, twinkling-eyed, yet sober-faced copper in brass buttons in the Fox first-run picture, "Blindfold," which opened at the Boulevard Theater yesterday, O'Brien brings vitality, strength, a fine shading of values and his usual pleasing personality.

Perhaps this is as it should be, however, for was not George's father, Dan J. O'Brien, Chief of Police of San Francisco? To answer this rhetorical question, he was. George, however, should be proud of the way he enacts the copper in "Blindfold" if only out of proper feelings of respect for his father and the San Francisco police force.

But as to the picture, "Blindfold" is a good crook film, not the best of its kind, possibly, but still above average. It has suspense, color, motion and well-drawn characterization. The story employs many of the tried and true formulae of the usual crook yarn, but still, so well have they been blended that the spectator, knowing what will probably come, litterally sits on the edge of his orchestra seat in suspenseful excitement.

Only skillful direction can hope to arouse any such spectator reaction such as this, and thus Charles Klein, who directed, must be given his due credit. O'Brien is excellent in the portrayal of the policeman while Lois Moran does an equally able piece of work in the somewhat difficult, almost dual, role she is called upon to fill.

Earle Foxe is a sinister looking gentleman crook, bringing a more than usual quota of evilness to his portrayal. Fritz Feld's characterization of a rat-like killer calls for special commendation. Capable work, in fact, is done by the entire cast.

Perhaps one of the reasons why "Blindfold" seems to move with such alacrity and keeps up such a high pitch of intensity is that the action has been condensed into an hour's showing time. Consequently there is a good bit of room left on the Boulevard program for other features. There is a Collegians comedy, a color presentation, news reel, organ solo and a good stage show. It's difficult to set down just what is on the stage program, for the management furnishes no programs and Lynn Cowan does not always make his announcements distinctly. Anyway, there are dancing, singing and band music, all of which are pleasing.

Studios Unite to Herald Film

The combined resources of both the First National and the Warner Brothers' studios are being taxed to the limit to provide equipment for turning Carthay Center and the Carthay Circle Theater into a garden of color and beauty for the forthcoming world premiere of Corinne Griffith's Vitaphone production, "The Divine Lady," on Tuesday evening.

Hundreds of requests for reservations in blocks of from four to fifty already have been received, and every sign points to this premiere as being one of the most brilliant and colorful in the history of the Circle. Prominent stars, players, producers and authors of filmland have made plans to be present, and with Fred Niblo as master of ceremonies the event promises to be one that will be remembered by all who take part in it.

"The Divine Lady" is a picturization of E. Barrington's romance. It was directed by Frank Lloyd with a cast including Victor Varconi, H. B. Warner, Ian Keith, Marie Dressler, Montagu Love, Helen Jerome Eddy, Dorothy Cumming and Michael Vavitch.

Riffs Will Sing One Week More

Next Saturday evening will bring the final farewell performance of Lillian Albertson's Riff operetta, "The Desert Song," at the Mayan. Contrary to rumors, the operetta will positively close February 2, and will be moved intact to Long Beach where it will open Febrnary 3 at the Capitol Theater for one week only.

Now in its forty-eighth week in Los Angeles, "The Desert Song" has eclipsed all previous records established by musical attractions on the Pacific Coast. In length of engagement it ranks only second to "White Collars," which ran 140 weeks at the Egan several years ago.

At the end of the Long Beach engagement, the operetta will go to Texas and Arizona.

Albertina Rasch Ballet Arrives

In a special car attached to the Gold Coast Limited, Mme. Albertina Rasch, Florenz Ziegfeld's maestra of the ballet, accompanied by a coterie of twenty-four of her proteges, arrived from New York yesterday afternoon. She is being brought to Hollywood by Sid Grauman for his spectacular prologue to "The Broadway Melody," to have its world premiere on February 1 at Grauman's Chinese Theater.

World-wide fame has been attained by Mme. Rasch for the dance ensembles she has staged for the glorifier of the American girl in recent years, including such productions as "Rio Rita" and "Show Boat."

SAVOYARDS WILL SING AT MASON

D'Oyly Carte Company to Offer Gilbert and Sullivan Reportoire Soon

Los Angeles playgoers are to have an unusual experience at the Mason Theater, commencing February 18, when they are to hear for the first time the D'Oyly Carte Opera Company, coming here from London with the entire London cast, the London choruses, the London stage productions and the London original orchestral score, in a full-half-dozen of Gilbert and Sullivan's comic operas, several of which have not been heard in this city for many years.

The repertoire will include "The Mikado," "Trial by Jury," "The Pirates of Penzance" and "Iolanthe."

This will be the third city in the United States to hear the D'Oyly Carte Opera Company. A rapid tour of the largest cities only is to follow and a few months hence the company again will be in its home theater, the London Savoy.

PRESS WILL ATTEND COMEDY AT BELASCO

Nearly every newspaper man in Los Angeles who is not actively working tonight at midnight, will be at the Belasco Theater to attend the special matinee of "The Front Page" that is being given by Belasco, Butler & Curran, the producers.

Reservations have already been made, it is said, for more than 550 of the local scribes who will attend to watch the activities of their stage counterparts.

Reger Work is Given Premiere of Interest

BY I. M. J.

Frits Gaillard, violoncellist of the Philharmonic Orchestra, played the second of a series of recitals with his daughter, Ali Gaillard, at the Beaux Arts Auditorium last night. The interest of the program centered in Max Reger's suite for violoncello alone as it had not been played in this city, and it gave Mr. Gaillard a splendid opportunity to show his technical ability and understanding of the exacting work of this composer.

Divided into three parts, Praeludium, Scherzo and Andante with variations, the Reger number disclosed no new facets in this writer's musical thinking, but as an exposition of the resources of the 'cello it is eminently worthy. The Scherzo was especially well done by M. Gaillard and the theme and variations, though not of unusual material, were made interesting by an excellent performance.

With his daughter, M. Gaillard played a Handel Sonata in C, a Haydn Concerto in D and the Brahms Sonata in F major. Miss Gaillard obeys the dictation of her father admirably and her work at the piano is at all times clear and definite. It lacks warmth and its own spontaneity and thus fails to go beyond mere adequacy in sonata work.

These 'cello and piano recitals afford Los Angeles a fine opportunity to hear the 'cellists' repertoire under favorable cricumstances. Many 'cellists were in attendance.

Repertory Star Gives Talk on Modern Drama

"The stage, in its better development, is now requiring a cultural background in its players—the ability to walk, talk and act like a gentleman or a gentlewoman born to social graces," Doris Lloyd, leading woman with Lowell Sherman in "The Guardsman," at the Figueroa Playhouse, told members of the Friday Morning Club yesterday at their weekly luncheon.

"Stage directors, particularly those of repertory or guild affiliations, are now demanding players of far more than the average intelligence—players who have a conversational familiarity with, we will say, the philosophy of Schopenhauer, the poetry of Goethe, the drama of Sudermann," she said in her talk on "Changes in the Modern Drama."

"Players of culture sense the necessary cadence of a piece; they judiciously lift their voices only when it is essential to the play's building development.

"Such players of cultivated tastes are restrained in their acting. No fuss, no shouting. They know, from reason, that emotions can't be forced upon an audience. Nor laughs. They realize that persons like Katherine Cornell, Margaret Anglin, Glenn Hunter and Jane Cowl, to cite a few examples, continue in popularity season after season because their work hasn't the taint of artificiality.

"That time-worn maxim to 'act natural' is good but incomplete. Few roles can be played absolutely naturally. Actors must visualize to make their work realistic."

Star to Record for Phonograph

After a deal of negotiating on the part of three recording companies, Lupe Velez has been signed by the Brunswick-Balke Company to sing on a double-faced record, a report says. Miss Velez, who is scoring in her title role as "Lady of the Pavements" at the United Artists' Theater, will record "Where Is the Song of Songs for Me?" Irving Berlin's theme song, on one side, and "Nena" and "La Monteria," Spanish ballads, on the other side.

These songs are all part of the D. W. Griffith sound-talking special. Negotiations were started by the recording companies after they had heard her renditions in the film, in which William Boyd and Jetta Goudal are costarred.

HELEN TWELVETREES'S JOB

A warm weather role in midwinter has befallen Helen Twelvetrees, featuring in Fox's "Nobody's Children." As a ragged orphan, Helen is working daily at Wilmington. Despite icy winds, she cannot wear a sweater, coat or heavy clothing, the director having decided that the character of the picture would allow no such luxuries.

A WALL STREET GIRL

"The Girl from Wall Street" would be an appropriate title for Lois Moran's next vehicle. Since she first entered pictures, Lois has saved a greater portion of her salary. During the last bull movement in Wall street, she took a flyer and is now worth several thousand dollars more than she was six months ago.

My dear Mr. Cruise:
The artistic judgment of my friends who insisted that I see "In Old Arizona" has been completely vindicated. I not only sat through the entire production but forgot, in my enjoyment, that I was supposed to be a severe critic of current motion picture productions.
"In Old Arizona" is the first all talking picture I have seen which fulfills the promise made to the discriminating theatre goer when sound was introduced into motion pictures. You have a "Four Star" picture which Los Angeles will appreciate.

HEALTH and DIET ADVICE

by Dr Frank McCoy

author of "The First Way to Health"

Dr. McCoy will answer personal questions on health and diet, addressed to him care of The Los Angeles Times. Inclose stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN NUT BUTTER AND MARGARINE

Because of the expense and care required for its production, butter has always been a costly article of food and human beings have striven for many years to discover a good substitute. It was known that many fats and oils were just as nourishing as butter but were unfortunately not as palatable when spread on bread and, when placed upon the vegetable foods, they did not impart the tasty flavor that could be obtained from butter churned from sour cream.

Shortly before the Franco-Prussian War, Napoleon III offered what was in those days a large reward for the invention of a suitable butter substitute. This was finally awarded to a Frenchman named Mege-Mouries, who experimented much and spent many sleepless nights, until at last he produced a product which he called oleomargarine. He afterward shortened the name to margarine as it is still known on the continent of Europe.

At present there are only two kinds of margarine manufactured. One is composed of various animal fats, such as beef fat and pork fat, mixed with vegetable fats, salt and milk. The other, commonly called nut margarine, contains no animal fats but is made of vegetable fats, salt and milk.

According to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, the principal articles of food used in the manufacturing of margarine are: oleo oil, oleo stock, oleo starin, neutral lard, peanut oil, cocoanut oil, cottonseed oil, milk, butter and salt. Of course, various manufacturers select different blends of these foods, or may omit some of them. Many of the packages of margarine sold on the market distinctly state exactly what they contain so that the composition is not a secret.

Many families now use margarine in place of butter. Some States do not permit margarine to be artificially colored and it is sold uncolored and the coloring matter is afterward mixed into it by the housewife. It is just as wholesome when white, but the yellow coloring is more pleasing to the eye.

There is another product sometimes manufactured as a substitute for butter, called nut butter which consists simply of the ground, pulverised nuts of various kinds. Nut butter therefore is a distinct product from nut margarine. The nut butters manufactured from raw peanuts are not as easily digested because they contain a large amount of starchy but the roasted nut butters and those manufactured from almonds or nonstarchy nuts, and the various types of margarine, are all quite wholesome.

The government exercises a careful supervision over the manufacture of all margarines and one can therefore feel quite safe that the best of care has been used in preparing them. There is no reason why a family wishing to exercise economy cannot use the margarines in place of butter.

Some of the fats and the milk used in preparing margarine are known to contain vitamin A, and I do not believe that there is any danger that the diet will be lacking in this element if margarine is used, especially since so many of our other foods contain this element, particularly such foods as spinach, lettuce, tomatoes, carrots, sweet potatoes, yellow corn, milk and beef fat.

This article is written because so many of my readers complain about the high cost of living and especially since I recommend butter so frequently in my menus and recipes.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Pains in Stomach

Question: Mrs. R. L. O. asks: "What is the cause of a pain in the stomach at night which disappears upon arising? Have been bothered with this for about six years. Am 26 years of age, five feet tall, and weigh 107 pounds."

Answer: Such pain is often caused simply by the formation of gas which is generated during the night. Do not expect me to diagnose your trouble in this column, as it would be unwise for me to attempt to do so. Go to a good physician and have a diagnosis made, then, if you are not improving under his treatment, write me again, giving me the diagnosis, and I will be glad to send you what advice I can.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope, forwarded to this office, will bring a personal reply.

This department offers leaflets on weaning and feeding the child from 6 weeks to 6 years, prenatal care and diet for the nursing mother, constipation, eczema outfits for the new baby, sleeping, walking, teething, thumb sucking, ammoniacal urine, bed wetting, training in cleanly habits, periods of nursing, cod liver oil, orange juice, hives, worms, vomiting, refractory children, prune juice, lime water, rupture, styes and boils and cradle cap. Before asking a personal question about one these subjects, it is better to send a self-addressed stamped envelope for the leaflet you need. If your particular problem is not covered in the above list, Mrs. Eldred will be glad to give you a personal reply.

MOTHER TRYING TO TEACH CHILDREN TO BE PHILOSOPHERS

Mother writes:

"May I submit a few ideas I have tried out with my children? I cured my daughter of nail biting by regular manicures. She sits opposite me at a little table and we have the warm water and everything. Even big brother joins us, though he never bites his nails, just blacks them.

"Florence didn't care for milk. For every glass she drank I gave her one small piece of pure hard candy. She now enjoys her milk especially through a straw.

"She has a habit of ignoring her food at the table and talking. One day I suggested that she clean her plate and surprise Daddy. She did this and then pretended to cry saying: "Daddy didn't give me anything to eat." She plays this game frequently.

"Her most annoying habit is fussing about her clothes. Everything goes fine until she fastens her garters. Then one is always too tight or fastened nearer the front, or the bloomers are too loose and of course the more she squirms and fusses the worse they feel. I explained to her that squirming made them feel worse and if she would run and play she would soon forget she had on clothes. The other morning when we were dressing she said: "Now what comes next?" and I said: "Stocking next . . . . and is the volcano going to erupt? I want to get out of here before the storm breaks." Of course being five that made her laugh and she rumbled all the time she was getting dressed and forgot the stockings. Now when I see her frown I say: "There is a storm gathering," and she laughs it off.

"In other words I am trying to teach my children to be philosophers. If something seems wrong, laugh at it. If you have something you don't like to do, do it and get it over with. Big brother eats the food he doesn't care for first so as to be able to enjoy the rest of the meal."

ANSWER

Humor and philosophy help mother with her problems, as well as daughter. There is one bit of your letter that I make bold to criticise because it is faulty psychology. Do not bribe children to drink milk by offers of candy. This makes milk seem a disagreeable and a necessary evil only because one gets candy afterward. Milk should be enjoyed because it is a good and necessary part of the diet. Make it attractive by a pretty cup of colored glass, or the use of straws, or additional flavors, but let the child learn to enjoy the milk itself, as an undeviating accompaniment of each meal, just as water is. This is the right attitude while the other one elevates candy to an important position as a reward and later may inspire the child to refuse milk altogether.

CHURCHES REVEAL TOPICS

Services for Tomorrow Announced by Many Pastors; Veteran Missionary Will Speak

Rev. Thomas Moody, veteran Baptist missionary among the Bantu people of the Belgian Congo, will begin a lecture tour among Southern California churches tomorrow with an address at First Baptist Church at Bakersfield.

Mr. Moody will give two addresses, at 11 a.m. and in the evenings, at each of the associational conferences, which will be conducted as follows:

Bakersfield, the 28th inst.; First Baptist Church of Ventura, the 31st inst.; First Baptist Church at Brawley, February 3; First Baptist Church, Long Beach, February 7; Temple Baptist Church, Los Angeles, February 8; First Baptist Church, San Diego, February 11; First Baptist Church, Pasadena, February 12; First Baptist Church, Whittier, February 14; First Baptist Church, Riverside, February 15.

REV. THOMAS MOODY

All meetings will be open to the public and the sessions will be addressed by many leaders of the Baptist denomination.

"Tom" Moody, now on furlough, has been in the Congo Baptist Mission since 1890, under appointment of the American Baptist Foreign Mission Society of the Northern Baptist Convention. Forty years ago the Christian Gospel hardly had been heard of in Congoland. Today there are more than 200,000 Christians in that section of the Dark Continent and the work of Mr. Moody is said to be largely responsible for the spread of the Bible message. Located at Sona Bata, Mr. Moody has supervision of the Gospel work in a field covering 10,000 square miles. He is chief pastor of 10,000 members of the mission in thirty-two centers and is superintendent of education of 300 village schools. He also has charge of the architectural work for new church buildings, schools, homes for missionaries and hospitals.

"RELIGION AND POLITICS"

Dist.-Atty. Fitts will give an address on "Reorganization of the District Attorney's Office" at Temple Baptist Church tomorrow evening. Following Mr. Fitts's talk Dr. John Snape, the pastor, will preach on "Religion and Politics." In the morning Dr. Snape will discuss "Temptation in the Realm of Work." The second session of the seventh annual school of world friendship will be conducted at 5:30 p.m.

DR. JAMES SPEER

"Clearing the Channel of Rocks, Reefs and Rubbish" is the subject of a sermon to be preached by Dr. Hugh K. Walker tomorrow morning at First Presbyterian Church. In the evening the sermon will be by Dr. James H. Speer, associate secretary of the General Council of Presbyterian Churches. Dr. Speer is in charge of the national speaking itinerary of Dr. Walker, moderator of the general assembly. One of the ablest pulpiteers and organizers in his denomination, Dr. Speer was Pacific Coast secretary of the Presbyterian Church before entering on his present duties.

CHURCH UNITY SOUGHT

A meeting of the Union Ministerial Association of Los Angeles will be conducted at First Methodist Church next Monday morning to discuss the proposal of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America that the Protestant denominations of the United States shall unite in one federated organization similar to the union of the various States of the nation. The proposition will be presented to Dr. E. P. Ryland, secretary of Los Angeles Church Federation, and the discussion will be carried on by Dr. Herbert Booth Smith for Presbyterians, Dr. John Snape for Baptists, Dr. Harold Griffis for Disciples of Christ, Dr. L. T. Guild for Methodists and Dr. James H. Lash for Congregationalists. A general discussion from the floor will follow. Newly elected officers will be inaugurated.

DR. GUY BOGART

Miss Annette Foster, pastor of the Little Meeting House, 909 South Lake street, announces that the speaker at that church tomorrow evening will be Dr. Guy Bogart, Mayor of Beaumont. Prior to the lecture, at 6:30 p.m., refreshments will be served. The public is invited. Services also will be conducted at 7:30 a.m. and 11 a.m.

ST. PAUL'S CATHEDRAL

The second of a series of addresses by Dr. J. Hudson Ballard of Occidental College will be given at St. Paul's Cathedral tomorrow evening when Dr. Ballard will discuss "The Psychology of Confession." At 11 a.m. Rev. Harry Beal, dean of the cathedral, will preach on "Old Religion and New."

FIRST BAPTIST

"Jesus, the Spiritual Interpretation of Life," is the topic of a sermon to be preached at First Baptist Church tomorrow morning by Dr. T. G. Soares, professor of religious education at the University of Chicago. The evening service will be marked by a musical program featuring the compositions of Handel and Bach.

MT. WASHINGTON

"The Incarnation and Evolution" is the subject of a free lecture to be given by Swami Dhirananda at 3 p.m. tomorrow at Mt. Washington Center, 3880 San Rafael avenue, Highland Park. Sunday-school will be conducted at 2 p.m. Following the lecture a Hindu-American dinner will be served.

CHINESE PROGRAM

A Chinese dinner and program will be given at 6 p.m. today at Occident Lodge of the Theosophical Society, 936 South Alvarado street. Dr. Sanford Bell, president of the lodge, will present Lal Chand Mehra, who will be in charge of the program. The chief speaker will be Henry Lin, who will discuss "China's Contribution to the World." Musical numbers on Chinese instruments will be rendered. Reservations may be made by telephoning DRexel 5184.

"THE GREAT AVOWAL"

Bishop Gregory S. Lines will will preach on "The Great Avowal" tomorrow morning at St. Alban's Pro-Cathedral on Argyle avenue. In the evening Dr. Irving S. Cooper, regionary bishop of the Liberal Catholic Church, will discuss "The Morality of Birth Control."

DR. THOMAS HARPER

Dr. W. H. B. Urch, world-renowned pulpiteer and traveler, will be the preacher tomorrow morning at Wilshire Boulevard Congregational Church. In the evening, following a musical program by Joan and Jeanne Halimichek, Dr. Thomas Harper will preach on "The Century's Challenge."

POLISH BAZAAR

Polish people of Los Angeles are invited to the bazaar to be given at 7:30 p.m. today at the Polish Auditorium, Avalon Boulevard and Fortieth street. The affair is sponsored by the Polish Roman Catholic Church of Los Angeles. The church, known as the Christ the King Parish, is the only one of its kind in Los Angeles. The pastor is Rev. Bronislav Kzreminski, whose telephone number is AXridge 6351.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"Truth" is the lesson-sermon for tomorrow at all Churches of Christ, Scientist, of Los Angeles. The golden text is Psalms c, 5: "The Lord is good; his mercy is everlasting; and his truth endureth to all generations."

The Los Angeles branches conduct Sunday services at 11 a.m. and some of them repeat the services at 8 p.m. On Wednesday evening meetings are conducted at which testimonies are given of Christian Science healing; and Third Church of Christ, Scientist, conducts an additional testimonial meeting on Wednesday at noon.

FIRST METHODIST

The baccalaureate sermon to the thirty-three nurses of the graduating class of nurses training for work at the Methodist Hospital will be preached by Dr. E. E. Helms tomorrow morning at First Methodist Church. In the evening Dr. Helms will preach the fourth of a series of

VIRGINIA SPOON BREAD

Three cupfuls of boiling water, one teaspoonful of salt, one-third of a cupful of hominy grits, three tablespoonfuls of butter, three-quarters of a cupful of milk, three eggs well beaten, one and one-half cupfuls of cornmeal, three teaspoonfuls of baking powder; place the water and the salt in a double boiler and when at the boiling point, gradually stir in the hominy; let cook for three or four minutes while stirring. Then let cook undisturbed for thirty minutes. Add the melter butter, milk and well-beaten eggs, sift in the cornmeal which has been sifted with the baking powder and mix all together thoroughly. Turn into a well-oiled baking dish and allow to bake for forty-five minutes. Serve from the dish with a spoon.

CERCY SOUP

Wash, scrape and slice six young carrots, place in a saucepan two tablespoonfuls of butter, one tablespoonful of chopped bacon, one chopped onion, one chopped turnip, a bay leaf, one tablespoonful of parsley, and a half a teaspoonful of marjoram, cook the vegetables until tender, but not brown; place them in a saucepan with four cupfuls of stock and allow to simmer slowly for two hours. Remove from the fire, press through a sieve, reheat, season with salt and pepper and a few grains of nutmeg. Serve with croutons.

SWEET POTATOES, PEANUTS

Six medium-sized sweet potatoes, one-half a cupful of sugar, one-third of a cupful of milk, three tablespoonfuls of butter, the yolks of two eggs, salted peanuts; cut the sweet potatoes in two lengthwise, scoop out the raw potato, leaving barely enough on the skin to make a firm shell. Boil the scooped-out potatoes until tender, drain, mash them, and whip lightly with the milk and butter and the egg yolk; pile lightly in the uncooked shells, sprinkle with finely chopped salted peanuts and bake in a hot oven about fifteen minutes or until well browned.

MANHATTAN PUDDING

One and one-half cupfuls of orange juice, one-fourth of a cupful of lemon juice, one teaspoonful of vanilla, one and one-half cupfuls of powdered sugar, two-thirds of a cupful of chopped almonds, two cupfuls of whipping cream, blanche the almonds, and brown them in the oven before chopping; mix the fruit juices and half of the sugar together and allow to stand until thoroughly dissolved. Turn the mixture into the mold which has been chilled, whip the cream, add the rest of the sugar, the vanilla, and the chopped almonds; fill the mold to the top, adjust the cover; bind with a piece of cloth which has been dipped in melted butter, pack in equal parts of ice and salt and let stand three and one-half hours.

BOB SHULER BOTH HOURS

(CORNER 12TH AND FLOWER)
All services broadcast over KGEF (231 meters)

11 A.M.—"DOES PRAYER EVER FAIL?"

7 P.M. PRELUDE: Bob Shuler will read the complete records of Abraham Lincoln's defense of Father C. Chiniquy, whose destruction was attempted by the Romanists much as the destruction of the pastor of Trinity is attempted at this time. He will also relate the facts of Chiniquy's victorious vindication. One of the most thrilling chapters in the history of American Courts.

8 P.M.—"WITH JESUS MARCHING OUT AHEAD."

In addition to our usual musical program in charge of Director J. Arthur Lewis and Mrs. Bernice Morrison Brubaker, tonight we have Bertha Caroline Stockwell, Whistling soloist and Pianist who will give some splendid numbers.

HAVE YOU BEEN FAILING TO GET KGEF? TRY IT OUT SUNDAY NIGHT AT 7 P.M. Also Tuesday and Thursday evenings at 8 P.M., and on Wednesday at 8:30. Mr. Shuler speaks at all these hours. We have tried an experiment and we hear good news as to the station's reception from many quarters.
